NAYS—0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1077 (Senate Bill No. 404), entitled:

An Act regulating the practice of veterinary medicine including veterinary surgery and veterinary dentistry or any branch thereof and establishing as incidental thereto a State Board of Veterinary Medical Examiners and defining its powers and duties

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. NISSLEY. Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as this is a Senate Bill I cannot interrogate the sponsor, but I would like to ask the House whether they think it is necessary to create another Medical Examiner's Board? Could not the State Board of Medical Examiners take charge of the provisions in this bill?

On the question, recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 693 (Senate Bill No. 172), entitled:

An Act amending the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand eight hundred sixty-two entitled "An Act to authorize the erection of a poor house by the borough of Dunmore borough of Scranton and township of Providence in the county of Luzerne" as amended by an act approved the twenty-second day of April one thousand eight hundred seventy-nine entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An Act to authorize the erection of a poor house by the borough of Dunmore borough of Scranton and township of Providence in the county of Luzerne' approved April ninth eighteen hundred and sixty-two" by defining the Scranton poor district providing for the election of the poor board therein defining the powers and duties of such board and abolishing the present office of poor directors

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, the bill now under discussion provides for an elective poor board in the poor district of the City of Scranton and Borough of Dunmore instead of an appointive one as at present. This bill was introduced in the Senate by Senator Lynch, of our county, and passed without a dissenting vote. Senator Lynch made this an issue during his campaign and received a majority of two thousand votes in this district. This vote should be evidence enough to prove to you that the people of our district want this bill passed. Every other county or municipality in this State has an elective poor board, therefore, we think that the people working under such ideal conditions should be willing to give us the same privilege.

Now, gentlemen, we have no objection to the man who appoints this poor board. He is the President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Lackawanna County. He is a State official elected by the people of the county. We want the people of the poor district to elect this board. We do not want any one man to appoint this Poor Board. This particular board appointed by one man levys the tax, collects the tax and spends the tax. We do not consider that is fair. We think that people should have the privilege of choosing their own representatives, especially a body that levys and collects and spends the taxes.

Gentlemen, I appeal to you on behalf of the people of our district to give them this privilege,—this privilege that they have been trying to get for twenty-six years. For twenty-six years this bill was killed in committee because a certain clique was powerful enough to come down here and convince the people from Philadelphia and Allegheny and other remote parts that the people of Scranton did not want it. Gentlemen, this is the first time that a representative of the City of Scranton has been able to get this bill out of committee. We have got it out of the committee with only one dissenting vote, that of my colleague. Mr. Ehrhardt. Now, gentlemen, you may think that I am unsually worked up this bill, but it means a lot to our people. Mr. Ehrhardt, my colleague, is a very estimable gentlemen and I do not have anything against him. He is the Poor Tax Collector at the present time and I want to see him continue as such; but we do not think he should come down here and oppose this measure. They have decided what they want by electing Senator Lynch by such a substantial majority and I appeal to you to give us the privilege and the opportunity of electing this Poor Board.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. EHRHARDT. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, while it is true that there was somewhat of a fight made in the Senatorial district, the issue being partly the election of the poor directors, a more strenous fight was made in the legislative district personally on myself because I happened to be appointed something over a year ago as poor tax collector, and they centered all their fight, with all the vindictive spleen possiblee to raise on that issue and, of course, I am here in proof that we won out on it.

There is no popular demand either in Scranton or Dunmore for the election of the poor directors. For the past fifty years in which the appointments have been made, there has never been a breath of scandal or charges of any kind brought against the Board. Under the present law twenty citizens can go into court and have these men tried and ousted either by the court of common pleas, or the president judge who makes these appointments.

It may be said by some that the entire delegation, with the exception of myself, are united on this, but that is not true. They are very much divided on it, and the large part, or the majority of the people in the City of Scranton, are absolutely opposed to making a change since they have had such an excellent condition for so long a time, without the least breath of scandal being brought against the Board. I ask you, therefore, gentlemen, to defeat this bill.

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, I have risen on the floor of this House many times and I have at different times stood for what the other man wants. I am not now asking for anything that I want, but it seems to me that if the people of Lackawanna county want this, that we should give it to them.

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speker, I desire to go on record at this time as saying that I have nothing at all against the Poor Board. I am not making any charges against them nor have any been made as Mr. Ehrhardt has intimated I think they are an estimable board, but I think the people should have the right to select them. We did not put a ripper feature in this bill; we cut that out, and this bill gives these people the same opportunity to appear before the people at the next Fall election as any other candidate has. It is just as the School Code was. Instead of ripping out the school directors it gave them an opportunity to come before the people for election. The people have been doing the choosing in other matters. They have been sending Mr. Ehrhardt down here for twelve years and I think they showed good judgment in so doing, but I also believe that they will show good judgment in picking a poor board, and I think the people should be given this opportunity.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I have no personal interest in this matter whatever. The gentleman of the other side of the House are both fairminded and honest gentlemen, but it seems to me that the spirit of this bill is absolutely correct. This is the time when the people are electing men for all the other offices and I see no reason why the poor board should be appointed, instead of elected. It is against the principles of our government, and I wish to say that I am heartily in favor of this measure.

Mr. WHITAKER. Mr. Speaker, perhaps I ought not to interfere in a family quarrel, since it is entirely a local matter, in which opinion is very strong, but the thought just occurred to me, which might be of interest to the rest of the House, and that is that this is special legislation, specifically applying to one district, namely, the City of Scranton; and the Constitution, in section seven, provided that the General Assembly shall not pass any special law regarding the affairs of counties, cities, townships, wards, etc. I think,—I will at least submit it to the gentlemen who advocates this act, if he has considered this, and if I may interrogate him, I would like to have his opinion on whether or not that has been considered.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Dawson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DAWSON. Mr. Speaker, I will, and in reply to the gentleman from Chester, I wish to inform him that according to law we advertised this bill thirty days, that it appeared in the newspapers according to law.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the clerk return the same to the Senate with the information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1188, as follows:

An Act to amend an act approved the twenty-seventh day of June nineteen hundred thirteen entitled "An Act providing for the incorporation regulation and government of cities of the third class regulating nomination and election of municipal officers therein and repealing consolidating and extending existing laws in relation thereto"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section fifteen of Article seven of an act approved the twenty-seventh day of June nineteen hundred thirteen entitled "An Act providing for the incorporation regulation and government of cities of the third class regulating nomination and election of municipal officers therein and repealing consolidating and extending existing laws in relation thereto" which reads as follows

"Section 15 The mayor of each city of the third class in Pennsylvania elected under the provision of this act shall receive for his services during his term of service an annual salary to be fixed by ordinance payable in monthly installments The council in said cities shall by ordinance fix the amount of the salary to be paid to the mayor for his services and may provide for the assessment and retention therefrom of reasonable fines for absence from regular or special meetings of council or councilmanic committees The amount of said salary in cities of the third class shall not be less than five hundred dollars nor more than three thousand five hundred dollars per year For the first term of any mayor elected under the provisions of this act and until thereafter changed by ordinance the salary of said mayors in cities of the third class shall be as follows In cities having a population of fifteen thousand or under by the last United States census five hundred dollars in cities having a population of over fifteen thousand and less than thirty thousand inhabitants one thousand two hundred dollars per year in cities having a population exceeding thirty thousand and not exceeding fifty thousand inhabitants two thousand five hundred dollars per annum in cities having a population of over fifty thousand and not exceeding seventy thousand inhabitants three thousand dollars per annum in cities having a population of over seventy thousand inhabitants three thousand five hundred dollars per annum

The first council elected under the provisions of this act shall by ordinance fix the salary to be paid to the mayor in said cities for succeeding terms and the amount of compensation for the mayor in any of said cities shall not be increased or diminished during the term of office for which he shall be elected Succeeding councils may change the amount of such compensation" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 15 The mayor of each city of the third class in Pennsylvania elected under the provisions of this act shall receive for his services during his term of service an annual salary to be fixed by ordinance payable in monthly installments The council in said cities shall by ordinance fix the amount of the salary to be paid to the mayor for his services and may provide for the assessment and retention therefrom of reasonable fines for absence from regular or special meetings of council or councilmanic committees The amount of said salary in cities of the third class shall not be less than five hundred dollars nor more than three thousand five hundred dollars per year For the first term of any mayor elected under the provisions of this act and until thereafter changed by ordinance the salary of said mayors in cities of the third class shall be as follows In cities having a population of fifteen thousand or under by the last United States census eight hundred forty dollars in cities having a population of over fifteen thousand and less than thirty thousand inhabitants one thousand two hundred dollars per year in cities having a population exceeding thirty thousand and not exceeding fifty thousand inhabitants two thousand five hundred dollars per annum in cities having a population of over fifty thousand and not exceeding seventy thousand inhabitants three thousand dollars per annum in cities having a population of over seventy thousand inhabitants three thousand five hundred dollars per annum

The first council elected under the provisions of this act shall by ordinance fix the salary to be paid to the mayor in said cities for succeeding terms and the amount of compensation for the mayor in any of said cities shall not be increased or diminished during the term of office for which he shall be elected Succeeding councils may change the amount of such compensation

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GLENN. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that this bill puts an unnecessary hardship on a very considerable number of the smaller cities of the State. It affects every city of the third class under fifteen thousand population and arbitrarily raises the salary of the mayor to a minimum of eight hundred and forty dollars. This may not seem to be very much, but under the Clark act, the minimum amount is five hundred dollars, and I am informed that every city under fifteen thousand population must, if this act goes into effect, pay their next mayor eight hundred and forty dollars. I believe in home rule as one of the fundamental principles of government, in Pennsylvania, and I believe that the councils of these small third class cities should be allowed to fix the amount of salary to be paid to the mayor. Furthermore, it disrupts our whole present system of commission form of government. In the third class cities councilmen get three hundred dollars and the mayor five hundred dollars. The mayor's duties are not any more onerous than those of councils and in some cases the councilmen work more than the mayor. To pay the mayor eight hundred and forty dollars, when the remainder of the board only gets three hundred dollars seems to me to be unfair. I therefore ask you to vote against this proposed amendment.

Mr. ALCORN. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of this bill does not in any way interfere with the Clark act, except that it makes it possible for a city of the third class, of fifteen thousand population or less, to pay the mayor eight hundred and forty dollars. Now, we are going into a third class city at the present time. We now pay our mayor six hundred dollars; under the Clark act we can only pay him five hundred dollars. The duties of the mayor under this bill are doubled, therefore we ask you to give us the privilege of paying our mayor eight hundred and forty dollars instead of paying him five hundred dollars.

Mr. GOODWIN. Mr. Speaker, it appears to me that this is a law devised by past legislation under our present limit for cities of the third class of five hundred dollars. It leaves a discretionary power to councils in the various cities increasing this salary. By this act we take that power away. We take away the principle of home rule. Therefore, I am against this bill.

Mr. GLENN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Alcorn, is certainly misinformed as to the law in this matter. I have consulted some of the best lawyers in this House, and from Philadelphia, and they all agree with me that this affects only third class cities of Pennsylvania whose population is less than fifteen thousand and arbitrarily boosts that salary up from five hundred to eight hundred nd forty dollars. Furthermore, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Alcorn, does not have a third class city in his district at the present time. He is asking us to raise this in anticipation that in some part of this district there may at sometime be a city of the third class.

Mr. ALCORN. Mr. Speaker, we have a third class city in my district, a city of fifteen thousand. I just want to answer the gentleman and repeat that statement that we have a city in our district of the third class consisting of a population of fifteen thousand. It does not affect the cities over fifteen thousand at all.

NAYS—2

Alcorn.
Robertson,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 833, entitled:

An Act relating to the vaccination including the entrance into schools of children not vaccinated and providing penalties

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Health and Sanitation.

Mr. THEODORE CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I want the House to treat me fairly on this bill and that is all I ask. I would like to say a few words on this bill and then if the House wants to do what is right after they have listened to what I have to say, they can favor it or vote this bill down. I protest to recommitting this bill to committee and have it killed there. If they want to kill this bill they can do it here. I am not asking for anything, only a square deal in this matter. I ask to be treated fairly and not have it sent back to the committee.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my motion, for the present.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague for that courtesy. Gentlemen of the House, I have enough evidence to support my position, and if I were to produce all of it, it would require at least two hours to bring it before this House. I think, however, that it is the part of wisdom at this time, to make a brief statement setting forth facts that cannot be controverted, at least easily and leave the matter in your hands Now, I wnt to say for the greatest respect for the medical authority that vaccination is a crime and should be prohibited by legislative enactment.

You will admit gentlemen that a man may be eliminated easily enough but it is almost impossible to kill an Idea and the idea is that Compulsory Vaccination is wrong in pinciple and directly opposed to human rights as guaranteed by Article 1, Section 1 of the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

I will not go so far as to state with many anti-vaccinists that vaccination is a crime and should be prohibited by law, but I will state that in no case should it be compulsory. A great many eminent physicians claim that vaccination prevents smallpox. A great many equally eminent physicians and bacteriologists claim it does not and that the so-called remedy is often worse than the disease, which fact I believe I can prove to your entire satisfaction.

I hold the medical fraternity in the greatest esteem and my family physician is a graduate of one of the best schools of medicine in this country. The University of Pittsburgh. It may surprise you somewhat to learn that an eminent physician a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, a school of international reputation helped me draft this enactment.

Now gentlemen let us see what vaccination really is and what it actually does. I trust that you will hear me with an open mind free from prejudice either way, as I will simply state facts that you may easily verify.

Vaccination or rather its forerunner small pox inoculation, (for vaccination is a French word and means cow proxing), was first practiced in Constantinople a few years prior to 1721 by a few old women an operation which the Turks called ingrafting. Lady Mary Worthy Montagu who had been residing at Constantinople with her husbnd, the British Ambassador returned to England in 1721 and had the practice introduced in London, and it became quite the rage and was finally indorsed by the Royal College of Physicians in 1754.

This process was simply the insertion of the running matter of a small pox sore into the blood of a healthy person. It was finally discovered that persons so inoculated became non centers of contagion, then in 1798 Dr. Edward Jenner, often called the father of vaccination, came out with a new theory he just experimented with swine pox on one of his own children who afterward died of tuberculosis. He then tried virus taken from the sore of a milkmaid infected with cow pox; not satisfied with this he next used virus taken from the sore of a man who had been handling the heels of a sick horse. This led to his final discovery which was neither horse grease or cow pox but a combination of both. The cow was infected with horse grease, and then puss from the cow was injected into a person, and the puss from the sore of the person was the true virus, and 4 years later, Dr. Jenner stated in the House of Commons that small pox would be annihilated. That has been more than 100 years ago, and we still have small pox. This disease, however, continued to spread until in 1840, vaccination was made a criminal offense by act of parliament.

Next came the arm to arm vaccination, which many of you gentlemen remember, but was discontinued some years ago because it was found that diseases such as Scrofula, Tuberculosis, Erysipelas, Infant Paralysis, Meningitis, Tetanus and even Syphilis was communicated to the person being vaccinated.

So much dissatisfaction existed in England that her Majesty Queen Victoria appointed a commission in 1889 consisting of fifteen gentleman famous as physicians. Bacteriologists, etc., three of whom were anti-vaccinists and twelve provaccinists. After seven years research on their submission of their report. Parliament passed the celebrated act with the conscience clauses. Thus England, really the birthplace of vaccination, after 100 years experience freed her people from compulsory vaccination. This, remember in a Monarchial form of Government, while we in free America must submit to a compulsory surgical operation, which, by the way, is the only operation known to medicine or surgery which is compulsory. Why? The Board of Public Health says it must be done to prevent small pox.

Gentlemen of the House have you heard much in the last three or four years about that great bird, the American Eagle? You have not! A few years ago this noble bird was able to fly to the top of the Washington Monument very easily and after looking on the land of the free and the home of the brave screamed with joy but now he has been vaccinated and re-vaccinated and innoculated with anti-toxins, toxins, and serums until he has become too weak to walk down the Lincoln Highway without dragging his tail feathers in the dust. He has been so wound about with legislative enactment that he could not fly to the top of a trolley pole without a down-hill start.

Gentlemen vaccination does not prevent small pox nor never did, but sanitation and isolation did and still does. Remember also this truth, that when conditions on sanitary the personal habits of the people clean and the blood pure the community is absolutely free from any danger of small pox, typhoid germs or any filth producing diseases.

Gentlemen, I call your attention to the spectacle of eminent alopathic physicians running around in circles for 120 years, reversing themselves 4 times, adopting the basic theory of Homeopathy that like cures like a hair of the dog that bit you, etc. discording this Jenner practiced and going back to the old women of Constantinople, taking puss from a small pox sore, innoculating a monkey and then from the monkey through a series of calves, mixing the puss from the calf with glycerine in order to sterilize it and then handing it to us as pure virus.

There is no such thing as pure virus, it would not vaccinate if it was pure; can pus from a running sore be pure; can a rotten egg be pure? Ah, but you say how about Diphtheria, Anti toxin. The Bacilli cultures in Anti toxin is dead, but vaccination is alive, it is ultra micro scpie; tetanus spores were found by Dr. Willson after boiling virus for 4 hours.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman Mr. Cromer.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Cromer permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker I would rather wait until I am through with my remarks if it is all the same.

Mr. LANIUS. My reason for asking the gentleman at this time was this. He seems to have such a lengthy discourse, that I am afraid I will forget my question until he finishes it.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker the most eminent mind on vaccination in the United States to-day which will be admitted by all physicians is Dr. William H. Welsh of Johns Hopkins University. Dr. Welch admitted before the Pennsylvania Commission which was appointed in 1911, consisting of seven gentlemen. He admitted that the present day vaccination was made with vaccine virus, stating that "it (vaccine virus) is the contents of the vaccine vesicle, or pustule fluid, and, I think, very often mixed with it now, a certain amount of the solid contents of the vesicle, containing as its essential part the undiscovered but undoubted micro-organism of the disease vaccinia..........The specific substances (in vaccine virus) we cannot isolate chemically. The ordinary things we can isolate so they are ordinary proteids—nothing peculiar about them—which you obtain in any ordinary inflammatory exudate." Here we have the highest living authority in America stating that vaccine virus consists of the contents of a vaccine vesicle and that it is often mixed with the solid contents of the vesicle, but that the only contents of vaccine virus easily recognizable is "ordinary inflammatory exudate." It will be observed in the above quotation from Dr. Welch that he says the "essential part" of vaccine virus is "undiscovered," and that, upon examination, only the "ordinary inflammatory exudate" is recognizable.

I want to say that last week the State of New York passed an anti-vaccination bill and it was signed by the Governor.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

Mr. WOBENSMITH. Mr. Speaker, I move that we adjourn.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Cromer.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Cromer permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CROMER. Yes sir.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker did I understand the gentleman to say that when the Parliament of England passed the law, that a gentleman said that small pox would be eliminated.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I did not understand the gentleman.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman to say that when the Parliament of England passed the compulsory vaccination law, that a gentleman stated at the time that if this act were passed small-pox would be destroyed?

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, why Dr. Jenner said, "it would annihilate small-pox," but it did not. And afterward Parliament passed a law making it a crime to vaccinate a person.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker. Was he a member of Parliament?

Mr. CROMER. No, he was not. He reported Parliament.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker then I think he ought to be removed.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen I can prove beyond a doubt that 50 deaths occurred in several cities of the State of New York, Buffalo, Albany, Rochester and others—50 deaths occurred from vaccination. I have the statistics here to prove it.

I want to say further that Leicester, England, with a population of 250,000 inhabitants discontinued vaccination for a number of years and the death rate is practically nil, nothing. The United States government goes on record and states that the foot and mouth disease in this country was brought in by vaccination virus from Japan.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman from Allegheny to name some town where the death rate was practically nil.

Mr. CROMER. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker; Leicester, England.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, where the death rate was nil?

Mr. CROMER. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker; I have a document here. As soon as I find it I will let the gentleman read it.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, here it is by a physician, how small-pox was banished from Leicester, England.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman to state, that the death rate there was practically nil? I did not understand him to say the death rate particularly from small-pox. I just wanted to know where the town was and how much it cost to get there.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I have been discussing cow pox or small-pox, or whatever you want to call it.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I want to say to the gentleman from Allegheny that unless he eliminates cowpox I will not be able to support the bill.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I will state for the gentleman from Armstrong that cowpox is practically unknown among cattle and is not practiced by physicians.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call the attention of the gentleman from Allegheny to the fact that he cited certain matters prior to the revolution and I want to say that the revolution of 1776 repealed all statistics prior to that time.

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, we are having a great deal of fun over this bill but in my opinion it is no joke. There is a great difference of opinion in the minds or the best physicians that you can see in regard to this proposition of compelling children to be vaccinated because they must go to school and the law compels them to go to school and the law compels them to be vaccinated because the law compels them to go to school; and I personally do not favor the compulsory vaccination simply because the children must go to school and before they go to school is is not necessary to vaccinate them. In the case of an epidemic the Health Board can enforce vaccination or segregation or any other thing they desire to enforce; but the question of simply compelling children or the parents to have the children vaccinated because they want to go to school, and as a means to go to school. I don't think there are a great many parents when that time comes but wished that was not the law; and I think there are very few family physicians when that time comes for them to vaccinate the children but wished that they could in some way give a certificate that the child is not strong enough to be vaccinated or for any other reason and that they will do so; and I want to say that in many school districts the law is not enforced; and I think we should give this matter careful consideration and not treat it simply as a joke. Personally, I shall vote for the bill and I should like to see the House do the same.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation.

Mr. THEODORE CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, my attention was called to the fact.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. The gentleman from Allegheny is not in his stall.

Mr. CROMER. Just one brief word, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen. The question was asked why no reference was made to the School Code in this matter, and that was done for a purpose, because this act is brief and the last paragraph will attend to that matter. I want to call your attention to the fact that if any of you have the School Code and will look on page 157 you will see what it does. You will see that even the Superintendent of a Sunday School can be sent to jail for sixty days for permitting a child to attend without being vaccinated.

Mr. LOVE. Mr. Speaker, I protest against this bill being sent back to the committee at the present time. This is a great issue and why not settle it here like men right on the floor to-night. This has been an issue in our district for sometime and that is where the bill really originated and now is the time to settle it.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this bill may be right or it may be wrong ;at the same time I feel and I believe the rest of the members feel that the scourge of small-pox is such a terrible thing that I think that the bill ought to be again reconsidered in the Health and Sanitation Committee.

Mr. SARIG. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this is an issue in which a great many of the people of Pennsylvania are vitally interested. I do not think that it is becoming as members of this House to make a farce out of it. I believe that this bill deserves serious and careful consideration and I am really ashamed, as I sit in my seat here, to see the conduct displayed in here over the discussion of a bill of this kind. This is a bill really that vitally affects each and every citizen in this great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and I think that it deserves our serious attention and our serious consideration.

Now I am not a physician and I am not here to say whether vaccination will eliminate smallpox or whether it will not. The question is whether we shall debar our children from the public schools if they are not vaccinated. Now I have some experience in this line. I have two litle girls at home and up to a few years ago they were both as sound and as healthy as a dollar. My oldest one had to be vaccinated before she could go to school. We had her vaccinated and after a while, that is, a week following her vaccination, a very sore arm developed. Now, during that period she was subject to a number of what I call "heat spells;"—I do not know what the doctors call them—but a rise in temperature with which she is afflicted ever since that time. Whenever she takes a cold or an affliction of some kind or other these spells reappear. Now, I believe that this is a matter on which a great many people in Pennsylvania have serious convictions and I believe that this bill deserves fair consideration. Now I am not so narrow as to say you should take this one particular case and build up a charge against vaccination. I am not sure whether vaccination is a benefit or whether it is not a benefit, but I believe that we have a great many physicians in the House and they ought to show us the benefit. I believe that it ought to be thoroughly threshed out and thoroughly discussed, and we ought not to take a matter like this and treat it light as we have been doing, simply laughing the question off the floor of the House. There are a great many people, medical men, who do not believe in vaccination. There are a good many others who do believe in it, and I am not here to say whether vaccination is a success or failure. In this one instance, it did wrong to my little child. I am not here to try to upset the whole theory of vaccination on that account. I am not so narrow as all that; but I believe that at least there is sufficient ground to study this question and to consider it carefully. Remember, that there are thousands of people all over this Commonwealth of Pennylvania who have convictions against this compulsory vaccination and who believe it is not right in a free country like ours to say to our boys and girls you must have a lot of poison thrown into your system before you are allowed to enter the public schools of this Commonwealth. Is vaccination so necessary? If it is necessary to practice it generally, on the general public, then I am satisfied to have my children vaccinated; but I think that we ought to be shown and it ought to be proved to us that the general health of the general public demands such action. I believe that the Board of Health now has the power, without this compulsory vaccination before going to school, to take care of an epidemic of small pox if such epidemic arises. I believe that if an epidemic arises, while I am not a lawyer, but as I understand the law, the Board of Health now has the power to compel the people in all walks of life to become vaccinated in that particular portion of the State where such epidemic exists. But I do not see the necessity why every boy and girl, whether healthy or not healthy, shall be compelled to submit to have this poison poured into their systems before they are allowed to enter our free public schools in this great Commonwealth. Gentlemen, I am not here to say, as I have stated, that vaccination is a failure; but I am here to protest that this is a question that ought to receive thorough and serious consideration from us as members of this great body, and I do not believe that it is becoming for us to sit here and make a farce out of a great question that is now agitating the minds of the people of this Commonwealth.

On the question recurring.

Shall the bill be recommitted to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation?

It was not agreed to.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it was not my intention to say anything on this subject as I felt it was unnecessary to make any argument on the necessity of vaccination. The question of vaccination, I admit, in some instances has produced some bad effects upon the physical condition of children; but let us stop for a moment and go one step further: Are the bad effects that are caused by vaccination really due directly to the absorption of the poison virus or are they due to improper care of the individual after becoming vaccinated? In ninety cases out of one hundred if we go into the history of the children or the adult who has been vaccinated, we can trace an infection, whether that be of a tetanous character or whether that be simply a pus, termed cocci infection or whether it be some other form. Now, in the case of Mr. Sarig's child, there is not one of us but does not regret that any child or man or woman has this misfortune of infection. Now it was probably due to the underclothing of that child that became adherent to the scab, the infection getting into that wound and causing mixed infection, primarily due to the vaccine and secondarily due to the infection of the other bacteria, of whatever nature it may have been.

That vaccine has taken a place in the great humanitarian conditions of the United States is without question. If it would not do this, in the name of goodness does any man here think that the government of this country would make it a compulsory practice on every soldier in our army and every sailor in our navy to become vaccinated, not only to prevent small pox, but also in the prevention of typhoid fever, which is now practiced in our army and navy. There is not a man permitted to serve this government, who does not have to become vaccinated for the prevention of those diseases.

Of the 207 men sitting here, we all believe in that old adage "An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure," and that is all vaccination does. It is only to prevent, and if that is impossible, without a burden of proof resting upon us, we know that it will ameliorate, and that is what we need in this country, something by which we can prevent. Let us keep it down, and that is all this is. It is not doing any hardship to anybody, and yet the people who are advocating this, as free men of this country, have sent circulars around to every member of this House and Senate, signed the League of Awakened Freemen.

They laughed; they thought they had grasped a great opportunity when they had a chance to say that on the United States ship, the batleship "Ohio," that on that boat there was an outbreak of small-pox. They have placarded this great nation all over, and yet on the other hand when a letted was sent to the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Daniels, here is the answer to this great piece of paper, in which our good friends here possibly had a part in having sent to every member here, and with your kind indulgence and consideration I will just read this letter to you for a moment. This letter was addressed to Doctor Gormley, a member of this House, who took it upon himself to investigate and here is the answer from the Secretary of the Navy.

"My Dear Mr. Gormley: I have to acknowledge your letter of March 17th 1915 in which you inquire with regard to the outbreak of small pox on board the U. S. S. Ohio. In reply, I would inform you that a court of inquiry decided that the small pox on the U. S. S. Ohio was due to the lack of vaccination and a courtmartial of the medical officer of the ship found him guilty of neglect of duty in not seeing that the crew of the Ohio were properly vaccinated, in accordance with the requirements of the Navy regulations.

All of the facts in the case tend to show that the small pox on the Ohio was due to failure to vaccinate and not that vaccination failed to protect, or was useless. A striking feature is that the U. S. S. Vermont, a sister ship, whose medical officer had carefully assured himself that the entire crew were fully protected by vaccination, did not have a single case of small pox, although anchored near the Ohio, and apparently under the same conditions of exposure to contagion that caused the small pox on the Ohio at Marseilles.

Sincerely,

(signed) JOSEPH M. DANIELS.

Now, gentlemen, our good friend, Mr. Sarig has said, let us take this seriously. I likewise ask you to take it seriously It is proved to the nation that it is a good thing, then why do we want to tear down something that has been applied for years. How rarely do we see now a smallpox epidemic? Why? Just simply because we all more or less have got a certain amount of immunity from this vaccination. Now, therefor gentlemen, in all seriousness, I ask you to vote against this bill. I can bring statistics here that would take hours, yes days, to read to you until you were tired, but I am not going to do that. I am going to ask you to use your good judgment. In your hands I leave this question. If it has proved what it is, without a question of doubt, then I ask you to vote against this bill, and I hope that will be the opinion of this House.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me it is about time this House takes notice of the sort of stuff that is being attempted to be put over by certain elements in the State of Pennsylvania. This Anti-Vaccination crusade is backed by the same people that back the Anti-Vivisection crusade. These are the people that appeared before a committee of this House the other day and objected to vivisection generally. They would have the children of this State die for want of anti-toxin, because of the pain it inflicts upon the horse. These are the very people that are also against the use of anti-toxin, which is used to cure children of diptheria, and the very kind of anti-vaccinationists who would not permit scientists to conduct investigations by means of experiments on animals. They would be like the good, but misinformed lady, who said, in committee the other day, that if it was a question of giving up one of her six children or saving the dogs of the United States, she would give up the child.

Now, those are the people who put these circulars on our desks, who gather misleading cases from all over the world and put them in that form. This movement, I happen to know, is financed by a very estimable gentleman from the county of Allegheny, perhaps a constituent of the sponsor of this bill; and it is promoted by a set of faddists in Philadelphia, who make it their business to go over the State and stir up the good people against vaccination. Everybody knows what a terror smallpox was a few generations ago, when it was epidemic not only in this country, but all over the world. When the United States took posession of the Philippines, smallpox was a scourage. By enforcing vaccination strictly and vaccinating they practically eradicated it. No man can enlist in the army of the United States, or the Navy, except he be vaccinated. The German nation practices vaccination. Every child is vaccinated when only six months old, and vaccinated again before maturity, and as a result, smallpox has been eradicated in Germany. Every nation in the world, except the half-civilized nation practices vaccination. The information I am giving you is taken from a report of the case of the Commonwealth versus Jacobson, 197 U. S. in a note appended to that case by the reporter to the Supreme Court of the United States. I believe it is accurate and I would rather take it than the statistics in these misleading statements that are contained in these pamphlets. I hope the gentlemen will emphatically vote this bill down.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1478, entitled:

"An Act to amend section four of Article four of an act entitled An Act defining public service companies and providing for their regulation by prescribing and defining their duties and liabilities prescribing defining and limiting their powers and regulating their incorporations and to a limited extent regulating municipal corporations engaged or about to engage in the business of public service companies creating and establishing a Public Service Commission for the regulation aforesaid prescribing and defining the powers and duties of such Commission and its officers including the exclusive power to regulate the construction alteration relocation or abolition of the crossings of railroad corporations street railway corporations or other public service companies and of public highways by the tracks or other facilities of said companies providing for the ascertainment by the Commission of the expense and damages resulting from such construction alteration relocation or abolition and for the payment of such expense and damages severally or proportionately by the public service companies interested the State or municipal cor poration concerned and giving persons whose property is thereby taken injured or destroyed authority to sue the Commonwealth for damages in such cases providing for the terms salaries and compensation of the members of the commission its officers counsel and employes prescribing and regulating the practice and procedure before such commission and upon appeal and judicial review of its orders and determination by the courts of common pleas and giving the court of common pleas of Dauphin County exclusive jurisdiction of such appeals in certain cases and of all injunctions mandamaus or other appropriate proceedings to enforce the provisions of this act and the orders of the commission and to restrain such orders subject to an appeal to the Supreme Court prescribing penalties fines and imprisonment for the violation of the provisions of this act and for the violation of the orders of said commission making it the duty of the Public Service Commission to enforce the provisions of the act approved the nineteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to promote the safety of travelers and employes on railroads by compelling common carriers by railroad to properly man their trains" by amending section nine thereof repealing the act approved the thirty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred and seven which provided for the appointment of the Pennsylvania State Railroad Commission and sections one and two of the act approved the fourth day of June one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three entitled "An Act to enforce the provisions of the seventeenth article of the Constitution relative to railroads and canals" and an act entitled "To provide the maximum car service charges including car storage charges that railroad companies and corporations or associations may charge and collect on each car loading and not unloading within the free time for unloading cars and fixing the free time that shall be allowed for unloading cars" approved twenty-fourth day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and seven and the proviso of clause three and the provisos of clause seven of section thirty-four of the act entitled "An Act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations" approved the twenty-ninth day of April one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four and all other legislation inconsistent with or supplied by this act" approved July twenty-six one thousand nine hundred and thirteen

And said bill having been read at length the first time.

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1481, entitled:

An Act to amend section four of article five of an act entitled "An Act defining public service companies and providing for their regulation by prescribing and defining their duties and liabilities prescribing defining and limiting their powers and regulating their incorporations and to a limited extent regulating municipal corporations engaged or about to engage in the business of public service companies creating and establishing a Public Service Commission for the regulation aforesaid prescribing and defining the powers and duties of such Commission and its officers including the exclusive power to regulate the construction alteration relocation or abolition of the crossings of railroad corporations street railway corporations or other public service companies and of public highways by the tracks or other facilities of said companies providing for the ascertainment by the Commission of the expense and damages resulting from such construction alteration relocation or abolition and for the payment of such expense and damages severally or proportionately by the public service companies interested the State or municipal corporation concerned and giving persons whose property is thereby taken injured or destroyed authority to sue the Commonwealth for damages in such cases providing for the terms salaries and compensation of the members of the commission its officers counsel and employes prescribing and regulating the practice and procedure before such commission and upon appeal and judicial review of its orders and determinations by the courts of common pleas and giving the court of common pleas of Dauphin county exclusive jurisdiction of such appeals in certain cases and of all injunctions mandamus or other appropriate proceedings to enforce the provisions of this act and the orders of the commission and to restrain such orders subject to an appeal to the Supreme Court prescribing penalties fines and imprisonment for the violation of the provisions of this act and for the violation of the orders of said commission making it the duty of the Public Service Commission to enforce the provisions of the act approved the nineteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to promote the safety of travelers and employes on railroads by compelling common carriers by railroad to properly man their trains" by amending section nine thereof repealing the act approved the thirty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred and seven which provided for the appointment of the Pennsylvania State Railroad Commission and sections one and two of the act approved the fourth day of June one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three entitled "An Act to enforce the provisions of the seventeenth article of the Constitution relative to railroads and canals" and an act entitled "To provide the maximum car service charges including car storage charges that railroad companies and corporations or associations may charge and collect on each car loading and not unloaded within the free time for unloading cars and fixing the free time that shall be allowed for unloading cars" approved the twenty-fourth day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and seven and the proviso of clause three and the provisos of clause seven of section thirty-four of the act entitled "An Act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations" approved the twenty-ninth day of April one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four and all other legislation inconsistent with or supplied by this act" approved July twenty-sixth one thousand nine hundred and thirteen so as to vest in the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania the power to suspend for a period of ninety days any proposed increase rates of public service companies

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1482, entitled:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Legislative Journal.

Session 1915 121st of the General Assembly

Vol. 3. HARRISBURG, PA., THURSDAY, APRIL 15, 1915. No. 43.

SENATE.

THURSDAY, April 15, 1915.

The Senate met at 10 o'clock A. M.

The ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. D. P. Gerberich), in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Rev. M. D. Lichliter offered the following prayer:

Our Father, in all our ways we acknowledge Thee as Lord and Master, and would have Thee to direct our footsteps. We thank Thee for the life that now is and for the promise of the life which is to come. Fifty years ago as a nation we stood within the shadows—a nation's heart was broken, yet out of the darkness Thou did'st show to this people that "behind the dim unknown Thou alone could stand within the shadows, keeping watch above Thine own." We thank Thee for the life of our great Emancipator; for his exalted character, and lead by his matchless spirit, with "malice toward none and charity for all." Thou hast lead this nation cut of the darkness of that hour into the noonday splendor of today, and when our last battle has been fought and the warfare ended and we have been put to sleep by the tattoo of death, may we, in the morning of the resurrection, hear the reveille of the angels, and as we arise from our tombs and meet the descending Lord in the skies, to Thee shall be all the praise, forevermore, Amen.

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. CLARK the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. HILTON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make reports from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HILTON, from the Committee on Education, reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 671 (House Bill No. 870), entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the 18th day of May, 1911, entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith."

Also from the Committee on Education, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 602 (House Bill No. 547), entitled:

An Act requiring counties now or hereafter containing a population of not less than seven hundred and fifty thousand and not more than one million two hundred thousand inhabitants to establish and maintain schools for the care and education of female children under the jurisdiction of the juvenile courts and conferring the powers and regulating the proceedings for the establishment maintenance and management thereof.

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 779 (House No. 89), entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the thirtieth day of July one thousand eight hundred ninety-seven entitled "An Act to provide revenue and regulate the sale of malt brewed vinous and spirituous liquors or any admixture thereof by requiring and authorizing licenses to be taken out by brewers distillers wholesale bottlers rectifiers compounders storekeepers and agents having a store office or place of business within this Commonwealth prescribing the amount of license fees to be paid in such cases and by imposing an additional license fee on retail dealers in intoxicating liquors" as amended

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SENSENICH. Mr. President, Is not this a bill to take five per cent. of the license fund and put it into the Pension Fund of the police in cities?

The PRESIDENT. It is.

Mr. SENSENICH. Mr. President, if this bill should become a law, it would have a tendency to make the police and hotel keepers, and liquor dealers and liquor interests work together in their business, and I think it would have a tendency for evil in a great many ways.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, this bill contains a provision whereby a certain part of this money is given to beneficial assocations. It is what we call a police pension fund down there. I consider it a fair measure and I would like very much for the benefit of the widows and orphans of the policemen that that fund should be set aside for that purpose, to help them along in their unfortunate and distressing conditions.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 798, as follows:

An Act to legalize the erection construction and alteration of certain buildings in actual use on or before May twentieth one thousand nine hundred and thirteen for exhibitions of which moving pictures formed the whole or moving pictures formed a part and vaudeville acts in some or all of which stage scenery and apparatus were employed formed a part

Whereas for many years prior to July eighteenth one thousand nine hundred and twelve it was commonly supposed by the local authorities throughout this Commonwealth that buildings designed for exhibitions of which moving pictures formed the whole or moving pictures formed a part and vaudeville acts in some or all of which stage scenery and apparatus were employed formed a part constituted moving picture houses and did not come within the building laws or the tax laws of the Commonwealth relative to theatres or buildings intended for theatrical or operatic purposes or for public entertainments of any kind where stage scenery and apparatus are employed

And whereas Acting on this supposition permits were granted for the erection construction and alteration of such buildings by such local authorities without requiring them to conform in their construction to such building laws and licenses were granted for their operation year after year without requiring them to conform to such license laws in consequence of which action on the part of the local authorities many hundreds of thousands of dollars have been invested in erecting constructing and altering buildings for such exhibitions in accordance with the laws deemed applicable thereto as aforesaid

And whereas By a decision of the Superior Court on July eighteenth one thousand nine hundred and twelve it was adjudged that such exhibitions were theatrical exhibitions and the buildings in which they were given were theatres

And whereas The logical result of this adjudication would have been the compulsory closing of these buildings and the consequent loss of the large investments made therein in good faith with the sanction and approval of the local authorities as aforesaid

And whereas To prevent this injustice and consequent destruction of tax paying property of great value an act was approved May twentieth one thousand nine hundred and thirteen by which it was intended that the provisions of the building laws relative to buildings intended for theatrical or operatic purposes or for public entertainments of any kind where stage scenery and apparatus are employed should be held not to apply to buildings of the character above mentioned

And whereas Said provision has been held to be unconstitutional because the acts amended thereby were referred to by title only and were not re-enacted and published at length

And whereas In consequence of this decision there is imminent danger that the injustice designed to be prevented by the Legislature of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen will be visited upon persons who have invested in good faith in buildings of the kind above mentioned therefore

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That all buildings erected constructed or altered prior to May twentieth one thousand nine hundred and thirteen and in actual use on or before that date for exhibitions of which moving pictures formed the whole or moving pictures formed a part and vaudeville acts in some or all of which stage scenery and apparatus were employed formed a part hereby are declared to be lawfully erected constructed and altered and in lawful use for such exhibitions notwithstanding that the said buildings do not conform to the laws of this Commonwealth relative to buildings intended for theatrical or operatic purposes or for public entertainments of any kind where stage scenery and apparatus are employed provided that nothing herein contained shall excuse or dispense with the payment by the owner or owners lessee or lessees of such buildings of the license fee payable by the laws of this Commonwealth to the city or county treasurer of any city or county in which such buildings are situated to the use of the Commonwealth

Section 2 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same hereby are repealed

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now resume the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 531, on third reading postponed for the present, on page 9 of to-day's calendar, entitled:

An Act to repeal an act approved the twenty-fourth day of July one thousand nine hundred thirteen entitled "An Act to regulate nominations and elections for all elective offices of cities of the second class and all offices of judge of a court of record providing for non-partisan nominations and elections for said offices abolishing certain existing methods of nomination in such cases and the use of party or political names or appellations at elections with respect to said offices imposing certain duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth county commissioners and election officers and clerks and providing penalties for the violation of the provisions hereof and the punishment of certain offences"

Mr. HINDMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. President, I move that the bill be recommitted to the Committee on Elections for the purpose of amendment.

Mr. HINDMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES.

Mr. P. W. SNYDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make reports from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. P. W. SNYDER, from the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation, re-reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 580 (House Bill No. 459), entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the 24th day of May, 1887, entitled "An Act to regulate the practice of pharmacy and sale of poisons and to prevent adulterations in drugs and medicinal preparations in the State of Pennsylvania" as amended

Mr. MAGEE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make reports from committees at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. MAGEE, from the Committee on Education, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 713, entitled:

An Act relating to public evening schools in school districts of the second, third and fourth classes.

Also from the Committee on Judiciary General, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 828 (House Bill No. 910), entitled:

An Act to establish and regulate the fees to be received and charged by the prothonotary of the courts of common pleas of this Commonwealth in counties having over eight hundred thousand and less than one million five hundred thousand inhabitants according to the last preceding United States Census.

Also from the Committee on Judiciary General, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 650 (House Bill No. 725), entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the 6th day of May, 1887, entitled "An Act to authorize the commissioners of the several counties of this Commonwealth to discharge from prison all persons confined in jail without proceedings under the insolvent laws."

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make reports from Committees at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. SPROUL, from the Committee on Finance, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 610, entitled:

An Act providing for the payment by the several counties of the Commonwealth of the expenses of holding primary elections.

Also from the Committee on Finance, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 344, entitled:

An Act to promote and encourage manufacturing within the Commonwealth by exempting machinery therein from State and Local Taxation.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from Committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. BUCKMAN, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 366, entitled:

An Act to amend the third section of an act, entitled "An Act relative to the supervision and control of hospitals or homes in which the insane are placed for treatment or detention" approved the 8th day of May, A. D. 1883, so as to fix the compensation of the Secretary of the Committee on Lunacy.

BILL INTRODUCED.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to read a bill in place at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 938, entitled:

An Act relating to and providing for the safety of users of the public highways by regulating the use thereof by motor and other vehicles and electric street cars; establishing as incidental thereto a Department of Motor Vehicles, and defining its powers and duties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Roads and Highways.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 520 (House Bill No. 687), entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the ninth day of June one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one entitled "An Act authorizing companies incorporated under the laws of any other state of the United States for the manufacture of any form of iron steel or glass to erect and maintain buildings and manufacturing establishments and to have and hold real estate necessary and proper for manufacturing purposes" as amended by extending the same to companies incorporated for the purpose of the manufacture and sale of explosives

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, earlier in the session today this bill went over in its order because it was thought that the amendments in the bill had not been printed. It appears that the bill is properly printed and here on the desks and I would ask that the Senate proceed to the consideration of that bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. F. W. Staley, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee that Thou hast provided for us a plan of life, with its laws and material to develop our manhood; to work out our salvation, and to complete our destiny. Thou hast set over us an expert instructor, a master workman, who hath placed before us two men—builders. One a wise man, and the other a foolish man. The one built according to Thy plan, and the other rejected the plan, and Thou hast said, "Whosoever heareth these sayings of mine and doeth them, I will liken him unto the wise man who built his house upon a rock, and the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew and beat upon that house, and it fell not, for it was founded upon a rock; whosoever heareth these sayings of mine and doeth them not I will liken him unto the foolish man who has built his house upon the sand, and the rains descended, and the floods came and the wind blew, and beat upon that house, and it fell, and great was the fall thereof." "They that be wise, shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever." May we all be wise builders, we ask, for Christ's sake, Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1299, as follows:

An Act regulating the business of loaning money in sums of three hundred ($300) dollars or less either with or without security to individuals pressed by lack of funds to meet immediate necessities fixing the rates of interest and chages therefor requiring the licensing of lenders and prescribing penalties for the violation of this act

Whereas There is at present conducted in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania an extensive business in the making of small loans of three hundred dollars and less to persons in need of funds to meet immediate necessities and

Whereas The conduct of such business has become a cause of general complaint and much protest by reason of the fact that those engaged therein have extorted from the borrowers in interest and charges amounts running in many instances to one hundred per centum and even two or three hundred per centum or more and borrowers are often compelled to repay many times over the amount borrowed with legal interest thereon frequently through ignorance and intimidation and there is no regulation or provision of law for the protection of such borrowers or for the punishment of such money lenders and

Whereas It is recognized that such business however unfortunate does and will exist and there is therefore a real need for the establishment of such provision as will enable its continuance under proper regulation and supervision of law and

Whereas It appears that in the conduct of such business greater risk is incurred than is ordinarily incident to lending money by banks pawnbrokers and other money lenders where marketable security is given and greater labor and expense is required in examining into the character and circumstances of the borrower and in the collection of the money loaned therefore

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That on and after passage of this act it shall be lawful for any person persons partnership association or corporation within this Commonwealth who shall comply with the requirements of this act to loan money in sums of three hundred ($300) dollars or less either with or without security to individuals pressed by lack of funds to meet immediate necessities and charge and collect for the loan thereof interest and fees as hereinafter provided under the following conditions

(a) Any person or persons firm corporation or association applying for the same under oath and in the form prescribed by the Banking Commissioner and paying the sum of fifty ($50) dollars may in the discretion of the Banking Commissioner except as hereinafter provided obtain a license for carrying on the said business The said license shall be issued by the Banking Commissioner and shall expire the first day of June next following the date of its issuance but no abatement of said charge shall be made if licenses are issued for less than one year Every such license shall be renewed annually on the first day of June in each year No license shall be granted to any corporation unless and until such corporation shall in writing and in due form to be first approved by and filed by the Banking Commissioner appoint an agent resident in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania upon whom all judicial and other process or legal notice directed to such corporation may be served and in the case of the death removal from the Commonwealth or any legal disability or disqualification of any such agent service of such process or notice may be made upon the Banking Commissioner The said commissioner shall have the power to reject any application for license if he is satisfied that the character and general fitness of the applicant or applicants is not such as to command the confidence of the community and to warrant the conclusion that the business will be honestly transacted in accordance with the intent and purpose of this act The said commissioner may revoke any license if the licensee shall violate any of the provisions of this act Whenever such license is revoked said commissioner shall not issue another to said licensee until the expiration of at least one year from the date of revocation of such license and not at all if such licensee shall have been convicted of a violation of this act under the provisions of section six (6) thereof In addition to said license fee said licensee shall pay for the examination by said Banking Commissioner as hereinafter provided Every such applicant shall execute and file a bond to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the penal sum of five thousand ($5,000) dollars with the Banking Commissioner to be approved by him for the faithful observance of all laws relating to such business Said bond shall be executed by a surety company authorized by the laws of Pennsylvania to transact business within the Commonwealth and such bond shall be renewed and refiled annually not later than the first day of June in each year

(b) The license shall state fully the name or names of the persons or corporation and of every member of the firm or association authorized to do business thereunder and the location of the office or place of business in which the business is to be conducted and in the case of a corporation shall also state the date and place of its incorporation the names of its directors for the period for which the license is issued and the name and address of the agent as provided in section one (1) of this act Such license shall be kept posted in a conspicuous place in the office where the business is transacted No person persons firm corporation or association so licensed shall transact or solicit business under any other name or at any other office or place of business than that named in the license Not more than one office or place of business shall be maintained under the same license and no loans or advancements shall be made at any other place than that designated in the license But in case of a removal the Banking Commissioner may on application indorse thereon a transfer to the new place of business with the date of transfer and from the time of such endorsement the new place so designated shall be deemed the place designated in the license

(c) The Banking Commissioner shall either personally or by such person or persons as he may appoint for the purpose at least once a year and oftener if he deems it advisable investigate the business and affairs of every such licensee and for that purpose shall have free access to the vaults books and papers thereof and other sources of information with regard to the business of such licensee and shall ascertain the condition of the business and whether it has been transacted in accordance with law Said commissioner and every examiner appointed by him shall have authority to examine under oath or affirmation any person whose testimony relative to the business of any such license may be required on any such examination The cost of every such examination shall be paid by the licensee so examined and said commissioner may maintain an action for the recovery of such costs in any court of competent jurisdiction

Section 2 Any person persons co-partnership association or corporation who shall obtain a license in accordance with the provisions of section one of this act shall be entitled to loan money in sums of three hundred ($300) dollars or less either with or without security to individuals pressed by lack of funds to meet immediate necessities at his their or its place of business for which said license is issued and to charge the borrowers thereof for its use or loan interest as follows upon loans not exceeding one hundred ($100) dollars in amount not more than (3) per centum per month upon loans exceeding one hundred ($100) dollars in amount and not exceeding three hundred ($300) dollars not more than two (2) per centum per month and in addition in any case in which the loan is made for a period of not less than six (6) months on sums not exceeding fifty ($50) dollars in amount an examination fee of not more than one ($1) dollar on sums exceeding fifty ($50) dollars an examination fee of not more than two ($2) dollars may be charged for examining the security offered or the credit and responsibility of the borrower No charge of any kind in addition to interest shall be made on a loan of less than fifteen ($15) dollars No charge in addition to the said interest and examination fee shall be exacted charged or collected

It shall not be lawful for said lender to divide or split up applications for loans or said loans under any pretext whatsoever so as to require or exact any other or greater charges than prescribed herein or to make any charges for renewals or extensions or for any transfers or changes of any loan or loans within six months of the date of the original loan Said licensee shall be entitled to charge for each renewal extension or transfer of any loan made after the expiration of six months from date of said loan a new examination fee as hereinbefore specified providing said renewal extension or transfer shall be for a period of not less than six months from date of making said renewal extension or transfer Interest shall not be payable in advance and shall be chargeable only upon unpaid balances The examination fee herein provided may be payable at the time of the making of the loan A licensee shall not be entitled to any examination fee or any charge whatsoever unless a loan is actually made If interest or charges in excess of those hereinbefore prescribed shall be received by any licensee the said licensee shall thereupon lose all his right to collect or receive the interest and charges allowed under this act and shall be entitled to recover from the borrower only the amount actually loaned together with interest at the rate of six per centum per annum upon unpaid balances less any and all amounts already paid by the borrower on account of said loan either as principal or interest Any person borrowing money from any licensee under this act who shall be charged and pay any charges or interest in excess of those prescribed and allowed by the provisions of this act shall be entitled to recover back from the lender by action at law begun at any time within two years from the date of the last payment any and all sums of money so charged and paid in excess of the amount of the original loan together with interest at the rate of six per centum per annum upon unpaid balances up to the date of final payment of said loan and in addition fifty ($50) dollars as a penalty to be paid to the borrower

Section 3 A licensee making any loan under the terms of this act shall at the time of making such loans give to the borrower a receipt or card upon which shall be stated the date and amount actually loaned the amount of examination fee the amount and date of each payment thereon and the rate of interest charged On the back thereof or immediately attached thereto shall be printed in legible type in English a copy of section two (2) of this act

Section 4 Wherever payment is made on account of a loan to which the provisions of this act shall apply the person receiving such payment shall when payment is made give to the person paying a receipt setting forth the amount then paid the total amount previously paid and the amount remaining due identifying the instrument accompanying the loan to which the payment is to be applied

Section 5 A licensee under the provisions of this act shall not ask for accept or receive from any borrower or intending borrower any power of attorney or written instrument authorizing or purporting to authorize any person or persons either individually or acting as officer or agent for any person persons co-partnership association or corporation either within or outside of this Commonwealth to sign make or execute any note instrument or written promise to pay any sum or sums of money whatsoever Any note instrument or written promise to pay any sum of money made or executed by virtue or authority of any such power of attorney or written authorization shall be null and void and proof that the same was made in said manner shall be sufficient to prevent recovery being had upon the same in any court of this Commonwealth

Section 6 Every person persons co-partnership association or corporation or any partner director officer agent or member thereof who shall violate any provision of this act or shall direct or consent to such violation or who shall lend money in sums of three hundred ($300) dollars or less and charge or receive for the loan or use thereof intrest in excess of six per centum per annum without first having complied with the provisions of section one of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not more than five hundred ($500) dollars for the first offense and for each subsequent offense a like fine and to suffer imprisonment not to exceed six months or both in the discretion of the court

An Act to amend the second section of an act approved the thirteenth day of June one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three entitled "An Act for the promotion of medical science by the distribution and use of unclaimed human bodies for scientific purposes through a board created for that purpose and to prevent unauthorized uses and traffic in human bodies" by providing that bodies of honorably discharged soldiers sailors or marines of the United States and the militia of the State of Pennsylvania shall not be delivered to said Anatomical Board and further providing that there shall not be delivered to the said board any body claimed by relatives friends or representatives of a fraternal society or charitable organization within a reasonable time after death

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the second section of an act approved June thirteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three entitled "An Act for the promotion of medical science by the distribution and use of unclaimed human bodies for scientific purposes through a board created for that purpose and to prevent unauthorized uses and traffic in human bodies" which reads as follows

"Section 2 All public officers agents and servants and all officers agents and servants of any and every county city township borough district and other municipality and of any and every almshouse prison morgue hospital or other public institution having charge or control over dead human bodies required to be buried at the public expense are hereby required to notify the said board of distribution or such person or persons as may from time to time be designated by said board or its duly authorized officer or agent whenever any such body or bodies come to his or their possession charge or control and shall without fee or reward deliver such body or bodies and permit and suffer the said board and its agents and the physicians and surgeons from time to time designated by them who may comply with the provisions of this act to take and remove all such bodies to be used within this State for the advancement of medical science but no such notice need be given nor shall any such body be delivered If any person claiming to be and satisfying the authorities in charge of said body that he or she is of kindred or is related by marriage to the deceased shall claim the said body for burial but it shall be surrendered for interment nor shall the notice be given or body delivered if such deceased person was a traveler who died suddenly in which case the said body shall be buried" be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 2 All public officers agents and servants and all officers agents and servants of any and every county city township borough district and other municipality and of any and every almshouse prison morgue hospital or other municipality or other public institution having charge or control over dead human bodies required to be buried at the public expense are hereby required to notify the said board of distribution or such person or persons as may from time to time be designated by said board or its duly authorized officer or agent whenever any such body or bodies come to his or their possession charge or control and shall without fee or reward deliver such body or bodies and permit and suffer the said board and its agents and the physicians and surgeons from time to time designated by them who may comply with the provisions of this act to take and remove all such bodies to be used within the State for the advancement of medical science but no such notice need be given nor shall any such body be delivered if any relative by blood or marriage shall claim the said body for burial within a reasonable time which shall not be less than forty-eight hours after death but the body shall be surrendered to said claimant for interment and no such notice shall be given nor shall any such body be delivered if any friend or any representative of a fraternal society of which the deceased was a member or a representative of any charitable organization shall claim the said body for burial within a reasonable time which shall not be limited to less than forty-eight hours said burial to be at the expense of such friend fraternal society or charitable organization nor shall the notice be given or body delivered if said person was a traveler who died suddenly or was an honorably discharged soldier sailor or marine of the United States or of the militia of the State of Pennsylvania in which case said body shall be buried in accordance with the provisions of existing laws

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr. Speaker, I desire the sponsor of this bill to give us some idea of just what the purpose of it really is. There is one clause there that I wish to have explained.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, this bill amends the Act of 1883 which has been interpreted by the Anatomical Board to mean that no one but a relative by blood or marriage can obatin the dead body from any almshouse, morgue, hospital or public institution.

This interpretation of the law has worked many severe hardships, so many that there is a general sentiment throughout the State that it is time the act should be made explicit and clear; therefor, the bill which is now before you, gives to any friend the right to take the dead body of a friend, if he should be unfortunate enough to die in a public institution. It also gives the right to any fraternal society or charitable organization of which he was a member, to secure the body and have it interred according to the wishes of the unfortunate dead.

The Municipality, County, and the Commonwealth, however, are protected by the provision which states that when any friend or representative of fraternal or charitable organization should secure the dead body, it must be interred at the expense of the claimant.

This briefly explains this bill, and I should say that it is an agreement reached between the friends of this bill and the Anatomical Board at a hearing before the Public Health and Sanitation Committee.

There are many, many reasons why this bill should become a law, reasons that appeal to every human being, but I feel that there is no occasion to speak to the members of this House in order to pass this measure.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. THOMAS. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman to make it clear in regard to the clause where, after forty-eight hours, a friend or relative could not procure the body of the deceased. Is that right, according to the bill?

Mr. THOMAS. No, not after forty-eight hours.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. You could not receive the body?

Mr. THOMAS. Yes; if they identify it.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr Speaker, I understand from the section that you could not get it after forty-eight hours.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, this enables them to get it after forty-eight hours. It is a humanitarian measure. If a gentleman dies in a certain city and is unknown or dies in some institution and no one knows him, the idea is to keep him there forty-eight hours before turning the body over to Anatomical Board.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr. Speaker, as far as I can read, from the bill I understand that the bill reads that a relative of the deceased could not obtain the body after forty-eight hours had elapsed. Now a relative or a friend of the deceased might not know of the death until after forty-eight hours had elapsed and according to the bill then you could not procure that body. It would be giving over to the Anatomical Board for medical purposes.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, in order to give every one an opportunity to read this bill thoroughly and become more acquainted with it I move you that it be postponed for the present.

Mr. THEODORE CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman to agree to some particular time when this bill will again be taken up. It is an important matter and we want to consider it thoroughly. If it was placed on the postponed calendar it could be called up at any time. I would like to gentleman to set the time when it will be called up and I will be satisfied to make it a special order.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I will consult with the gentleman from Delaware when I am ready to call it up.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion to postpone the bill for the present? It was agreed to.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was twice read, considered and concurred in.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur) That Senate Bill No 369, entitled:

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

APPROVAL OF RESOLUTION.

The Private Secretary of the Governor being introduced, presented a communication from the Governor, which was read as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 14th, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed a resolution of the Senate and House of Representatives recalling House Bill No. 95.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. WYLIE. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed finally, be reconsidered.

Mr. HUBLER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. WYLIE. Mr Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. HUBER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BAUERLE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend section 1, line 6, by adding after the word "amended" the following: by an act approved the twenty-third day of May, one thousand nine hundred thirteen entitled "An Act to amend an act approved the twenty-fourth day of February, one thousand eight hundred thirty-four, entitled 'An Act relating to executors and administrators.' "

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment at this time? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to on third reading.

Ordered, That the bill, as amended, lie over for printing.

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

Mr. FORSTER asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up at this time the bills on second reading which were passed over.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1478, entitled:

An Act to amend section four of article four of an act entitled "An Act defining public service companies; and providing for the regulation by prescribing and defining their duties and liabilities; prescribing, defining, and limiting their powers, and regulating their incorporations, and to a limited extent regulating municipal corporations engaged or about to engage in the business of public service companies; creating and establishing a public service commission for the regulation aforesaid; prescribing and defining the powers and duties of such commission and its officers, including the exclusive power to regulate the construction, alteration, re-location, or abolition of the crossings of railroad corporations, street railway corporations, or other public service companies and of public highways by the tracks or other facilities of said companies; providing for the ascertainment by the Commission of the expense and damages resulting from such construction, alteration, re-location, or abolition, and for the payment of such expense and damages, severally or proportionately by the public service companies interested, the State, or municipal corporation concerned and giving persons whose property is thereby taken, injured, or destroyed, authority to sue the Commonwealth for damages in such cases; providing for the terms, salaries, and compensation of the members of the commission, its officers, counsel, and employes; prescribing and regulating the practice and procedure before such commission, and upon appeal and judicial review of its orders and determinations by the courts of common pleas; and giving the court of common pleas of Dauphin County exclusive jurisdiction of such appeals in certain cases, and all injunctions, mandamus, or other appropriate proceedings to enforce the provisions of this act and the orders of the commission, and to restrain such orders, subject to an appeal to the supreme court; prescribing penalties, fines ,and imprisonment for the violation of the provisions of this act, and for the violation of the orders of said commission; making it the duty of the public service commission to enforce the provisions of the act approved the nineteenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, entitled "An Act to promote the safety of travelers and employes on railroad, by compelling common carriers by railroads to properly man their trains;" by amending section nine thereof; repealing the act approved the thirty-first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and seven, which provided for the appointment of the Pennsylvania State Railroad Commission; and sections one and two of the act, approved the fourth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, entitled "An Act to enforce the provisions of the seventeenth article of the Constitution, relative to railroads and canals;" and an act, entitled "To provide the maximum car service charges, including car storage charges, that railroad companies and corporations or associations may charge and collect on each car loading, and not unloaded within the free time for unloading cars, and fixing the free time that shall be allowed for unloading cars," approved the twenty-fourth day of May, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and seven; and the provisio of clauses three and the privisos of clause seven of section thirty-four of the act, entitled "An Act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations," approved the twenty-ninth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four and all other legislation inconsistent with or supplied by this act," approved July twenty-sixth, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 923, entitled:

An Act relating to the payment of the cost of the transcription of stenographic notes in certain proceedings by the county and the reimbursement of the county for such payment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. C. A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, in the absence of the sponsor of this bill, I move that further consideration be postponed for the present.

Mr. WEST. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1159, as follows:

An Ast enabling townships of the first class to regulate hawking and peddling and canvassing from house to house soliciting orders for the sale of goods wares or merchandise and to require a license therefor and to fix and collect a reasonable license fee for such license

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That townships of the first class within this Commonwealth shall have power to regulate by ordinance hawking and peddling and canvassing from house to house soliciting orders for the sale of goods wares or merchandise within such township and to require hawkers peddlers and canvassers from house to house who soliciting orders for the sale of goods wares or merchandise to take out a license and to fix and collect a reasonable license fee for such license as provided by ordinance adopted by the Board of Township Commissioners of the township All such license fees collected are to be paid into the township treasury

Section 2 That said ordinances shall be enforced as other ordinances of townships of the first class are by law enforced Provided however That this act shall not apply to any townships of this state where under existing laws hawking and peddling is entirely prohibited by law nor shall it affect any local or special laws now in force and Provided further That this act shall not apply to any person or persons nor alter existing laws in the hawking peddling or selling goods wares and merchandise where the manufacturer or producer hawks peddles or sells goods of his own manufacture and Provided further That nothing in this act shall apply to the act entitled "An Act to amend an act to permit disabled soldiers to peddle by procuring a license therefor without charge approved the eighth day of April one thousand eight hundred sixty-seven extending said privilege to all soldiers sailors and marines who are unable to procure a livelihood by manual labor" approved the ninth day of June one thousand eight hundred ninety-one and Provided further That nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to prohibit farmers gardners or dairymen from selling the products of their own farms gardens or dairies

On the question,

Will the House agreed to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker the bill which is before us proposes to do away with a man's going through a township and soliciting orders to do business. This strikes at the man who is willing to go out and try to hustle for a living. Now, the bill provides that in each township in which he goes—the idea is absolutely ridiculous, the idea is impracticable, because there may be fifty townships in a county or there may be forty or sixty, and in each township in which he goes they can levy a different priced license, or in other words it is just going to prohibit these men from doing business. Further, to the people in the country districts it is a convenience, and you propose to stop this for those very people. Where a man is willing to come around and display his goods, mention his price and take the order, there is absolutely nothing in this proposition any more than to defeat some man doing a fair business, who is now paying a mercantile license tax under the laws of this Commonwealth, and I ask this House to vote down this bill.

MOTION TO POSTPONE.

Mr. WYLIE. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. MURDOCH. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. STERN offered the following motion which was twice read and considered.

Moved by Mr. Stern and seconded by Mr. Lauler that the vote by which House Bill No. 1224, Senate Bill No. 503, File Folio 2163, entitled:

An Act making mortgages given by benevolent charitable philanthropic educational and eleemosynary institutions corporations or unincorporated associations for permanent improvements and refunding purposes prior liens to the liens of the Commonwealth for the appropriation of moneys providing for a method for the giving of such mortgages and fixing the duties of the Auditor General and Board of Public Charities in connection therewith was defeated on third reading and final passage yesterday be reconsidered.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to appeal to the members of the House for just one minute's attention even though we are in the midst perhaps of preparing to leave; and I should like to ask for a favorable vote for the reconsideration of this bill. It was probably defeated through lack of attention or failure to explain its provisions. It is a bill that has passed the Senate and is desired by the Attorney General's Department and the State Board of Charities and by hospital and charitable institutions of the State. The bill will permit hospitals and other eleemosynary institutions to mortgage their premises in such cases in which the State Board of Charities will permit the mortgage to be given and be a lien prior to the one the Commonwealth now has for moneys advanced for improvements. I may say to you gentlemen that every hospital in the Commonwealth wants this act and the charitable institutions in your district are in favor of it and the State Board of Charities desires it and the Attorney General's Department insists that it be passed. It was defeated yesterday on account of lack of attention and it is a bill that ought to receive your careful consideration and this you can give to it by voting to reconsider it.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1224 (Senate Bill No. 503), the bill just restored to the calendar be postponed for the present.

Mr. LAULER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1214, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the twenty-first day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and thirteen entitled "An Act providing for the reutrn of taxes on seated lands in counties poor districts boroughs incorporated towns and townships for county poor borough town or township taxes respectively and providing for the sale of such lands for taxes" so as to include school taxes

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. RICH. I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. GLASS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 586, entitled:

An Act to amend an act "to provide for the better collection of collateral inheritance taxes" approved the sixth day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven providing for the employment of attorneys and clerks

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 554, entitled

An Act to provide a standard form of policy contract to be issued by fire insurance companies transacting business in Pennsylvania designating the provisions thereof exempting certain policies and prescribing penalties for any violations.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read, considered and concurred in:

In the Senate, April 15, 1915.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That Senate Bill No. 84, File Folio 877, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred eleven entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith."

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

RECESS.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the Chair will declare a recess until 3.30 o'clock when we will have reports from committees, after which we will be addressed by ex-President Taft at 4 o'clock sharp. The Chair hears no objection.

Whereupon, at 12.25 o'clock P. M. the Speaker declared a recess until 3.30 o'clock P. M.

AFTER RECESS.

The House reconvened at 3.30 P. M.

The SPEAKER (Charles A. Ambler) in the Chair.

House Bill No. 687.

An Act to amend an act approved the ninth day of June one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one entitled "An Act authorizing companies incorporated under the laws of any other state of the United States for the manufacture of any form of iron steel or glass to erect and maintain buildings and manufacturing establishments and to take have and hold real estate necessary and proper for manufacturing purposes" as amended by extending the same to companies incorporated for the purpose of the manufacture and sale of explosives or of fire bricks and refractories or of cheese butter or other dairy or creamery products with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House is requested.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows

Amend the title by adding after the word "explosives" the words "or of fire bricks and refractories, or of cheese butter or other dairy or creamery products"

Amend section one, line 25, by inserting after the word "natural" the word "mineral;" line 37 by striking out "electrcity" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "electricity;" line 112, by inserting after the word "explosives" the following: "or for the manufacture of fire bricks and refractories and the mining or quarrying of the raw material therefor or for the manufacture storage distribution or sale of cheese butter or other dairy or creamery products"

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative, and the amendments were concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO NOTIFY THE SENATE.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, your Committee announces the presence of the Senate.

JOINT SESSION.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR McCLAIN. The Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in joint assembly met, will be in order.

We are met here this afternoon to greet one of America's very foremost men. (Applause). They say that "all the world loves a lover." I have some doubts about that, but of one thing I am absolutely certain, and that is that every red-blooded man and woman loves a good loser. (Applause). Big-bodied, big-handed, big-hearted, big-minded, he needs no introduction to an American audience. It is simply my high privilege to present to you a former President of the United State, William Howard Taft. (Rising applause.)

ADDRESS OF EX-PRESIDENT TAFT.

Ex-President WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT. Gentlemen of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, I came to Harrisburg in my capacity as a school-teacher, to deliver a lecture at your Academy, and this visit has flowered out, as you see. I am not responsible; but Governor Brumbaugh, somehow or other, got hold of it and there is a bond between us, not in the fact that he is in the midst of his great and useful political career,—because mine is ended—(Laughter), but because both our careers began, in a sense, in those Spanish settled countries that came to us after the Spanish war. He looked after the education and the preparation for citizenship of the Porto Ricans and I tried my apprentice hand on the Filipinos, and that makes a very great bond, for we have been through the same experience. We have had the same widening,—I mean it has had the same widening influence, an influence that comes from going out into the world and finding that we American people are not the whole thing; not the only "pebbles on the beach." It does not diminish our respect for popular government, but it gives us an understanding that there are other points of view and, therefore, more logical reasons for valuing popular government; and it also charges us with a sense of responsibility that we have had thrust into our guardianship these people, that we, a great, powerful people, shall lend them our arms to help them along to better things, to help them to fit themselves for the popular government toward which I trust they are tending.

And now, my friends, I deem it a great honor to be here and to be invited to address the Legislature of this great State. Pennsylvania is truly the "Keystone State;" the only State reaching from tidewater to the navigable waters of the Mississippi Valley; with a great history teeming with a patriotic, intelligent, energetic people; a marvel of mineral, mechanical and agricultural industry of every variety known to the temperate zone. Pennsylvania is not so flambuoyant in its claims of greatness; it is not so vociferous in its assertion of leaderhip, but it is solidly substantial in its progress and in its vindication of popular government, as the one best adapted to give more nearly equal opportunity to all and to preserve to those who labor, save and, by their ability and self-control increase the wealth of the community, and adequate share in the product of their effort, skill and foresight.

To-day is the anniversary of the death of the great American. He was the product of American conditions, providentially developed to meet the national crisis and to save our country's life in our greatest danger. Great in his simplicity, his humility, in the lucidity and honesty and certainty of his mental processes; great in his wonderful power in the use of the English of the Bible and of Shakespeare; in his tenderness; in his sympathy with and understanding of men; in his trust in the ultimate wisdom of the American people; great in his accurate political judgment and in his skill in making clear to the people the error of his opponents; great in his absence of rancor, of bitterness toward his country's foe; great in his yearning to receive them again as brothers; great in his fatherly sense of responsibility for the suffering and burdens of his people. His memory awakens the never-ending love of the humblest and the most ignorant, and the profound respect and affectionate admiration of the most intelligent and closest critic of his career and character, growing with every new circumstance and phase of them that further investigation and study bring to light.

And now may I refer to one subject, in respect to which I may seem to be "butting in;" but I do not know anything about the finances of Pennsylvania; I do not know anything about the troubles that you may have or the prosperity and ease and comfort you may have in raising taxes and spending the people's money, and my remarks therefore are directed to the general legislation in America, and particularly to that Legislature with which, in times past, I have had most familiarity, the Congress of the United States. The growing danger to this country is the waste of the people's money. Some waste is necessary because of the impossibility of such economy as there is in a private business, owing to the greater motive for it in private gain.

But our systems of government house-keeping are so childishly lacking in business method and foresight, that it calls for the anxiety and the care of all patriots. Compare our system with that of other governments. Take Congress. We have seven committees looking after various appropriations, one committee looking after the raising of money; no central responsibility; no one knows how we are coming out. Heretofore we have been so rich that nobody seemed to care. Taxes were so easy to find a place to put on that it made the mouths of Chancellors of the Exchequer in European countries water to think of what rich fields for the levying of taxes. But, my friends, we are getting very much nearer to the limit of our taxable resources than we ever were.

Now, one of the things it would seem we ought to have is a trial balance; one of the things we ought to have is a statement of how much money we are going to get before we decide how much we are going to spend; and yet no step of that sort has been taken in the Congress of the United States. We spend eleven hundred millions of dollars a year, and yet we have nobody that comes before Congress, before that expenditure is determined on, and says, here is the revenue we are going to have, and here are our expenditures. We have no division reasonable,—I mean no statement showing the actual purposes to which the money is to be devoted. It is covered in appropriation bills that mix all sorts of expenditures. Now, why should we not adopt, as they have in countries that are not so rich and that have not had such easy taxation,—why should we not adopt the system that fixes the responsibility on somebody so that he can explain, or they can explain to the people where the money is coming from and where it is going to. We are going to be driven into it ultimately, and the question is whether we shall not come to it earlier by the adoption of such a system as the older countries have found necessary to adopt.

Now, of course, there are causes for this waste of public money. In the first place, under our system, it is perfectly natural that each district, through its representative, should like to have a piece of the "pork," (applause), but somebody has got to sit on the "pork" barrel; (laughter and applause), somebody has got to be responsible for getting the "pork" into it; somebody has got to represent the people as a whole, and somebody the people must charge with the responsibity for looking after matters as a whole, and for the benefit of all the people. And, of course, the people themselves, in their districts, are responsible for this. It is not the legislators alone that are responsible. That is a mistake. It is the people that are responsible. I have got to the point where I can tell the truth about the people. (Laughter and applause). A fellow comes in, you know, and shakes his head and says, "That river and harbor bill is awful,—perfectly awful; just a porkbarrel where they are robbing the treasury." "Well, how about that post-office in your town that cost the Government two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, when you could have gotten along for fifty thousand?" "Well, that is different. We ought to have a great, big, representative building to show the dignity of the postoffice and the Federal Government in our community." (Applause.) And that is the way they all feel in that district. Now, they have got to be made aware that that kind of thing costs and that is what runs up the appropriations. The earnest desire to have the money go into one district on their part, is what, after all, stimulates extravagance.

And then there is another thing; we are tending toward fraternalism. We have a greater universal brotherhood. We have stopped in the mad chase,—not altogether,—for wealth, but there has been a halt, a letting-up, and we are looking around to help along the brethren that have fallen by the wayside; and you know that feeling is deep-seated, because you and I have been politicians and we recognize it, and when we see a feeling like that, we know it. (Applause). When the politicians and the newspapers see a feeling like that, it exists, because it is their business to find out those traits of the public,—those tendencies of the public mind. The consequence is that there are a good many people,—I saw a statement by a Legislator from New York, that, of course, "Charity is all right, and these great contributions from wealthy people are all right, but there are a lot of people that still button up their pockets, and so we are going to tax them and make them charitable." Yes, (laughing) I see it meets approval somewhere, but you can overdo that business. The idea that the Government can do everything and take money out of the treasury adlibitum to help everybody, and that we are going to have a millenium to-morrow morning by regulating everything and everybody, and doing everything by the Government, is not sound. (Applause) I agree that the doctrine of "Laissez-faire" as advocated by Mahlon Spencer, has needed modification, and Heaven knows it has received it. The Government is doubtless fitted to do a great many more things than were permitted under their theory, but there are a great many things the Government cannot do and ought not to do. Where private business is carried on, for the benefit of the whole community, in the sense that it is carried on within the law and furnished a great wage-fund, enlarges industries, there is no reason why the Government should go into that business and become a competitor. (Applause) Now, why? Because, when the Government becomes a competitor it does not keep its books straight, or at least, it does not keep its books as a private business firm under its own regulation,—I mean under the Government regulations—is bound to keep books. It never introduces the overhead charges. I am telling you something I know about, for I ran the Panama Railway when I was Secretary of War, and the steamers that ran down there. It is easy enough to make profit, if you can only keep out all the expenses; (Laughter) and that is the tendency of Government operation, especially when the man who is running the business is seeking political approval. The minute that the Government enters into that kind of business, that minute it drives every private enterprise out; therefore, it is not good in that regard. Then it is not good because Government operation generally means extravagance. There is no such motive to restrain expenses as there is in a private business, and it leads to greater and greater burdens upon the public, and takes away the opportunity for furnishing that which can be taxed to raise legitimate government revenue. The thing we have to teach ourselves,—and the truth is we have got to teach ourselves before we can teach anybody else,—is that you cannot take a dollar, not a dollar, out of the public treasury that has not been earned or saved by some private person. (Applause). We lose sight of that. We think, why here is a great reservoir; we can just pour out of that without hurting anybody, because, here it is; but if you pour, it will grow empty, and you have got to fill it again, and then that money came in the exercise of the prudential virtues of some individual, or in the sweat of his brow; and, therefore, that imposes upon us the responsibility of seeing to it that these taxes shall not be increased, and, certainly shall not be wasted in putting into business that private enterprise can better do on some theory that you can raise wages and pay larger salaries. Well, of course, you can raise wages and pay larger salaries under a governmental business, but you are jut paying the losses,—and you are bound to have losses,—right out of the treasury of the Government, and that is right out of the pockets of the people. Now, that is just as easily demonstrable as any theorem of Euclid, and therefore we ought not to go into the Government business, except where the position of the Government and the character of the business makes it wise to do so, because of the existing machinery. Take, for instance, the Postal Savings Bank. We had a post office all over the country. Now, it is easy to put that into operation. So, to, the Parcels Post,—but I am not in favor of paying,—it is easy enough to make a business like that profitable, if you do not pay properly the people that do it for you. (Laughter and applause). The gentlemen down at Washington, in the railroads, are engaged in calling each other liars. That does not help. (Laughter) What they ought to do is to refer that question to some judicial tribunal,—I say a quasi-judicial tribunal, or the Interstate Commerce Commission, or somebody that can look at it from an impartial standpoint, and estimate what the value of the service is and then pay the people, whether they be corporations or not, who do that service, what it is reasonably worth. Do not let us conduct the government on the theory that it is a robber. Let us conduct it on the principle that it pays as it goes for services rendered.

The danger of calling an old and retired politician into a place like this, that he has not occupied before for years, is that you will never get rid of him. I have just got to take myself by the back of the neck and lead myself out. I thank you sincerely.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR McCLAIN. Mr. President, on behalf of the Senate and House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, let me express our appreciation of the compliment that you have done us in coming here today, and as well of the practical words of wisdom which you have given us.

Retired politician though you be, modest though be your style of expression, yet, let me assure you, sir, that with the American people, certainly with the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, your opinions, as expressed this afternoon, have all the flavor of experience and of authority.

Please accept the assurance that April Fifteenth, will go down in the annals of the Pennsylvania Legislature as a red-letter day in the session of 1915. (Applause).

I now declare this Joint Convention of the Senate and House of Representatives adjourned. The Senate will proceed to the Senate Chamber.

The SPEAKER (Charles A. Ambler) in the Chair.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the remarks of Ex-President Taft be placed in the Journal of the House and appear in the Legislative Journal.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was unanimously agreed to.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to, and, at 4:55 o'clock P. M., the House adjourned to meet on Monday evening, April 19th, 1915, at 8 o'clock.

SENATE.

MONDAY, April 19, 1915.

The Senate met at 8 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Thomas W. Davis, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the preservation of our lives, and the remarkable powers with which we are endowed, we pray that we may so use these powers from day to day that we may have the approval of our own consciences and the commendation of our fellow men. May we endeavor to bear each others burdens so that we shall fulfill the laws of Him who came to guide us all in the highest paths of life. We ask in our Saviour's name. Amen.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. GERBERICH, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. President. I ask unanimous consent to amend the title by adding after the word "thereof" the following: By making certain exemptions relative to operators, train despatchers or other employes, who by use of the telegraph or telephone despatch reports, transmit receive or deliver orders pertaining to or affecting train movements and to establishments maintained or conducted by religious, charitable or educational institutions; also section 1, by adding the following: (e) The provisions of this section shall not apply to establishments maintained or conducted by religious charitable or educational institutions.

Is there objections? The Chair hears none.

The amendment was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 711, entitled:

An Act relating to motion-picture films reels or stereopticon views or slides providing a system of examination approval and regulation thereof and of the banners posters and other advertising matter used in connection therewith creating the Board of Censors and providing penalties for the violation of this act

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 711, the bill just read, be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary Special for the purpose of amendment.

Mr. GRAFF. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DIAX. Mr. President, this bill has already been in two committees, the Committee on Judiciary Special and the Committee on Appropriations, and I ask that the Senate do not agree to this motion, and that a yea and nay vote be taken.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, my object in asking to have this bill recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary Special is this: The present censorship act of 1911 calls for a salary of $2500.00. This bill as it is now on the calendar calls for a salary list of $32,460.00. The bill as I propose to amend it calls for a salary list of $16,140.00. If I were to ask the privilege of having these amendments inserted this evening there would be some objection to it, and the purpose of having this bill recommitted to the Committee from which it came is to have an apportunity of meeting with Mr. Breitinger, the Chief Censor, and adjusting the difficulties that we have in coming to a reasonable salary list on this question.

Mr. DAIX. Mr. President, I understood the reason that the Senator from Beaver had in offering these amendments was on account of the film fees. I am informed by the Attorney General, at whose request I introduced this bill, that there are forty thousand dollars saved in the amount of fees and that was the reason and the only reason that I objected to the amendments being offered by the Senator from Beaver. I did not know that it was along the lines of the salaried positions. I would ask that a yea and nay vote be taken upon the amendments.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion ?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. DIAX and Mr. SCHANTZ and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—23.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 817, entitled:

> An Act requiring each county having a population of less than one million five hundred thousand and over one million to establish a pension fund for employes of said county and regulating the payment of such pensions

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. KLINE. Mr. President, this bill is similar to the bill passed here last week for cities and counties of the first class. This bill is not taking any moneys out of the State Treasury. It is a bill that applies to Allegheny County solely. It is merely an enabling act whereby the employees themselves have the right if they so desire to create out of their own money a pension fund for their own benefit in their old days and the money comes solely from the employees themselves. I want to make these remarks so that the members of this body may not be under a false impression as to where that money comes from. That does not come out of the State Treasury.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

MOTION TO RECOMMIT.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 857, the bill just read, be recommitted to the Committee on Railroads for the purpose of a hearing. hearing.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President. I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. HILTON. Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, I hope you will object to this. This bill has been reported out and I wish you would let it come on second reading and third reading and discuss it there. Two years ago the bill that I had in was heard by the railroad companies, and was reported out, and it was a much more vicious bill than this is. It shifted the burden of proof, and after I introduced the bill this year, the Attorney-General objected to it and he prepared this bill that we have at the present time. I agreed to drop mine and presented this bill, and it only holds the railroad companies responsible in case the fire originated upon their right of way, but the burden of proof is upon the party who has property destroyed, while the other bill called for the burden of proof upon the railroads.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr President, the motion I make is made at the suggestion of people who are interested in the passage of this bill who desire to be heard before the Committee. I do not know whether there has been a hearing on this bill or not. I would say to the Senator if he will permit it to be recommitted on second reading, I have no objection to its going over to second reading.

Mr. HILTON. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. HILTON. Mr President, I would like to ask the gentleman if he recommits this bill on second reading whether he will agree to recommit it to the Committee on Judiciary General from which it came.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I see no objections.

Mr. HILTON. Mr. President, the bill was reported from the Judiciary General Committee, and if it is recommitted on second reading, it should be recommitted to that Committee.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I have no objections to the bill going to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. HILTON. Mr. President, we will let it go to second reading.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I withdraw the motion.

BILLS ON FIRST READING.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the first reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 874 (House Bill No. 1192), entitled:

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. F. W. Staley, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee for the power of thought in the human mind, a thought made visible in literature, in science, in art, in music, in paintings, in laws, in government and in massive buildings, this building, with its beautiful architecture, with its paintings and marble columns, gold bedecked chandeliers, ceilings and frescoes. O God, deeply impress upon our minds the thought that this great building is a thought made visible and at one time was in the mind of a young man, the noted architect. We pray Thee that Thou wouldst deeply impress us with the thought of the value of the human mind, its vastness, its depth, its heighth, its eternity, from which come thoughts to be made visible in problems to be solved in which millions of people are interested and in deeds filled with blessings which shall benefit humanity and generations yet unborn. Help us, then, to-night to realize the value of thought that we have in our minds and when we make our thoughts visible, what kind of buildings shall be built through them. We ask throught Christ. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of the proceedings of Thursday, April 15th, 1915.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the proceedings of Thursday, April 15th, 1915, when, on motion of Mr. Myers, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 15, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 770, entitled "An Act relative to the burial of the bodies of certain indigent deceased widows at the county expense."

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Also:

APPROVAL OF HOUSE BILL NO. 963.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 15, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 963, entitled "An Act to amend section twenty-one of an act entitled 'An Act to provide for the protection and preservation of game game quadrupeds and game-birds and song and insectivorous and other wild birds and prescribing penalties for violation of its several provisions' approved the first day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine by extending the season during which dogs may be trained."

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Also:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 850.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 15, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval House Bill No. 850, entitled "An Act making a burgess of a borough eligible to the office for the next succeeding term."

This bill proposes to make burgesses in boroughs eligible to succeed themselves. There may be and doubtless are many burgesses whose services are valuable and whose constituents would gladly re-elect them to office.

The act of May 23 1893, P. L. 113, renders such officers ineligible to succeed themselves. On the whole this has worked well. The people in the boroughs are accustomed to its provisions. The fear that immediate succession may in some cases work to the harm of our people and the general trend of thought in favor of one term for executives alike impel me to question the wisdom of this bill.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Mr. VICKERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this veto be laid on the table.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Also:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 516.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 15, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval House Bill No. 516, entitled "An Act making an appropriation to the Board of Game Commissioners for the payment of salaries traveling expenses establishment maintenance and protection of game preserves feeding propagation and distribution of game leasing of land for game preserves and various incidental expenses."

This bill proposes to use the funds derived from the Hunter's License Act of 1913 to increase salaries and officials in the department of Game of the Commonwealth. This is not a function to which the fees paid by hunters was dedicated in the above cited act. Moreover, it is a grave question whether this is an opportune time to increase salaries and in this manner lessen the sum to be set aside for bounties and for restocking our game preserves.

No convincing reason has been given me for such increases in the cost of administration. The wardens are, moreover, part of a general system of wardens and the increase of salaries and agents in one department is likely to be a precedent for similar action in other departments.

For these reasons, and in the hope that another bill may be speedily prepared appropriating the license fees as defined in the Act of 1913, this bill is not approved.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this veto be laid on the table.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr Speak.er, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Also:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 92.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 15th, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval House Bill No. 92, entitled "An Act relating to checks and drafts and fixing penalties."

This bill is unconstitutional and impossible. The method of collecting debts is defined by law and to make a criminal court a collecting bureau is manifestly wrong.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Mr. McCAIG. Mr. Speaker, I move that this veto be laid on the table.

Mr SULLIVAN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Also:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 737.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 16th, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval House Bill No. 737, entitled "An Act authorizing municipalities to purchase the entire capital stock of bridge companies owning bridges situated wholly or partly within the limits of such municipalities and exempting the capital stock and bonds of such companies from State taxation."

This bill contemplates the exemption of the capital stock and bonds of certain bridges from State taxation.

The Constitution (Art. IX. Section I) requires all taxes to be uniform upon the same class of subjects, within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax. This exemption of said power is of uncertain propriety within the meaning of the Constitution.

If there are to be exemptions of securities held by municipalities these exemptions should be general and not special.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. Speaker, I move that this veto be laid on the table.

Mr. EHRHARDT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Also:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 432.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 16th, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval House Bill No. 432, entitled "An Act relating to the administration of the estate of an intestate decedent."

This bill defines a method of procedure in the administration of the estate of an intestate decedent. The oath of office should be administered by the Register of Wills. The Register should see the individual he appoints. See Act of March 15, 1832, Section 32. Section 3 of this act makes a classification that is of doubtful constitutionality.

For these reasons this bill is not approved.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this veto be laid on the table.

Mr. GARNER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Said city shall have the further right to shut off the supply of water to any premises at any time upon the non-payment of the water rents or rates levied and assessed for water supplied thereto as and when the same becomes due and payable" be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 3 All taxes levied in accordance with the provisions of section one hereof shall be payable in advance during the months of January February and March of each fiscal year Water rents or rates which are payable on a flat rate basis shall also be payable in advance during the same months The taxpayers shall also have the option to elect to pay the aforesaid taxes and water rents or rates quarterly as follows namely the first quarterly payment during the month of January the second quarterly payment during the month of April the third quarterly payment during the month of July and the fourth quarterly payment during the month of October and each of the said quarterly payments shall become delinquent on the first of each succeeding month and shall thereafter bear the same penalties and interest charges as hereinafter provided for delinquent taxes Water which is supplied to consumers on a metered basis shall be payable at such time or times as may be prescribed by ordinance The city shall have power to prescribe by ordinance the time or times at which meters shall be read the terms and conditions on which water will be supplied on a metered service and the time or times on which payment for such water shall be made it shall also have the power to prescribe the discounts if any which shall be allowed for prompt payment and the penalties if any which may be imposed for delayed payments and also to provide for a minimum rate or rates for meter service for all classes of users of water including both domestic and commercial In the absence of any provision by ordinance in reference to the same the Board of Water Assessors shall read all meters not less than four times per year and shall read all meters during the months of October and November of each year and ascertain the amount of water used in each year as shown by said meters for the preceding twelve months or as near thereto as may be convenient and shall assess the water rents or rates for the water consumed at the rates fixed from time to time by ordinance and the same shall be payable annually during the months of January February and March of each succeeding year

A discount of two per centum shall be allowed on all taxes or water rents or rates due under the provisions of this act and paid during the month of January. During the months of February and March all taxes and water rents or rates shall be payable at face all of said payments to be made to the city treasurer at his office and at such other place as may be designated by the city treasurer and in case said taxes or water rents or rates be not paid at the times fixed for the payment of the same said taxes and water rents or rates shall be deemed delinquent and shall be placed in the hands of the collector of delinquent taxes for collection and two per centum of the total amount of said taxes and water rents or rates shall forthwith be added to said delinquent taxes and water rents or rates as a penalty for the non-payment thereof at the times herein prescribed and in addition to said penalty said delinquent taxes and water rents or rates shall bear interest at the rate of one-half per centum per month on the face amount of said delinquent taxes and water-rents or rates for each and every month or part thereof that the same shall remain delinquent and unpaid

Said city shall have the right as heretofore to charge all consumers of water for water furnished by said city and also to make such exemptions or reductions of rates as may be fixed by ordinance to any public charity school religious institution and kindred institution and for said purposes to have and possess all of the rights in respect to the collection of said rents or rates as are now in force or may hereafter be enacted

Said city shall have the further right to shut off the supply of water to any premises at any time upon the non-payment of the water rents or rates levied and assessed for water supplied thereto as and when the same becomes due and payable

That section five of said act approved May twelfth one thousand nine hundred eleven which reads as follows

"Section 5 The councils of said cities are hereby authorized and empowered to create a Board of Water Assessors consisting of three qualified citizens to be appointed by the mayor one of whom shall be designated by the mayor as the chairman of said board Councils shall provide a sufficient number of employes for conducting the affairs of this board and shall fix the salaries of the members and employes thereof Councils shall annually levy and fix a schedule of water rents or rates and the rents at which water will be furnished by meter and the conditions upon which the same shall be furnished and shall have the right to require the use of meters generally or in specified classes of users and said board shall have the power and authority of assessing water rents or rates in accordance therewith and for this purpose said board and its employes shall have the right to enter and inspect all dwellings or buildings whenever they deem it necessary

Said board of water assessors shall have the power to grant exonerations on account of vacancy and non-use of water and for other causes upon such terms as may be prescribed by councils Any person firm or corporation which shall feel aggrieved by any assessment made by said board may personally or by his or its duly authorized agent appeal to the full board of water assessors sitting as a board of revision and demand a reassessment of the same All such appeals shall be by petition and affidavit which shall be filed with the clerk of said board on or before the first day of April of each year On the consideration of such appeals the said board shall have the power to examine under oath or affirmation any and all witnesses who may be brought before them Any owner who is dissatisfied with the final decision of said board upon said appeal may appeal therefrom to the court of common pleas of said county wherein said property is situate and for that purpose may present to said court or file in the prothonotary's office within thirty days after said final decision a petition signed by such person or his or its duly authorized agent therefor setting forth the facts of the cases notice of which appeal shall be given to the board of water assessors within fifteen days thereafter Thereupon the said court shall proceed at its earliest convenience to hear said appeal and to make such order and decree touching the matter complained of as may seem just and equitable The costs of the appeal and hearing shall be paid by the losing party or be apportioned between the parties as the court may direct Either party aggrieved by such decision shall have the right to appeal to the supreme or superior court in the same manner as appeals are taken in other cases to said courts

No appeals taken from such assessment shall prevent the collection of the water-rents or rates complained of but in case the same shall be reduced then the excess or overpayment shall be returned to the person who shall have paid the same

It shall be the duty of the Board of Water Assessors in said cities to furnish the Department of Assessors a copy of all water assessments made by them with a description of all properties against which such water rents or rates have been levied and assessed on or before the first day of February in each year and said Department of Assessors shall include in their annual return of tax assessments to the city treasurer all water tax assessments so furnished by the Board of Water Assessors" be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 5 The councils of said cities are hereby authorized and empowered to create a Board of Water Assessors consisting of three qualified citizens to be appointed by the mayor one of whom shall be designated by the mayor as the chairman of said board Councils shall provide a sufficient number of employes for conducting the affairs of this board and shall fix the salaries of the members and employes thereof Councils shall annually levy and fix a schedule of water rents or rates and the rents at which water will be furnished by meter and the conditions upon which the same shall be furnished and shall have the right to require the use of meters upon such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by ordinance either in specified classes of users or in certain sections of the city or generally throughout the city and said board shall have the power and authority of assessing the water rents or rates in accordance therewith and for this purpose said board and its employes shall have the right to enter and inspect all dwellings or buildings whenever they deem it necessary

Said board of water assessors shall have the power to grant exonerations on account of vacancy and non-use of water and for other causes upon such terms as may be prescribed by councils Any person firm or corporation which shall feel aggrieved by any assessment made by said board may personally or by his or its duly authorized agent appeal to the full board of water assessors sitting as a board of revision and demand a reassessment of the same All such appeals shall be by petition and affidavit which shall be filed with the clerk of said board on or before the first day of February of each year On the consideration of such appeals the said board shall have the power to examine under oath or affirmation any and all witnesses who may be brought before them Any owner who is dissatisfied with the final decision of said board upon said appeal may appeal therefrom to the court of common pleas of said county wherein said property is situate and for that purpose may present to said court or file in the prothonotary's office within thirty days after said final decision a petition signed by such person or his or its duly authorized agent therefor setting forth the facts of the case notice of which appeal shall be given to the Board of Water Assessors within fifteen days thereafter Thereupon the said court shall proceed at its earliest convenience to hear said appeal and to make such order and decree touching the matter complained of as may seem just and equitable The costs of the appeal and hearing shall be paid by the losing party or be apportioned between the parties as the court may direct Either party aggrieved by such decision shall have the right of appeal to the supreme or superior court in the same manner as appeals are taken in other cases to said courts

No appeals taken from such assessment shall prevent the collection of the water rents or rates complained of but in case the same shall be reduced then the excess or overpayment shall be returned to the person who shall have paid the same

It shall be the duty of the Board of Water Assessors in said cities to furnish the Department of Assessors a copy of all water assessments made by them with a description of all properties against which such water rents or rates have been levied and assessed on or before the first day of December in each year and said Department of Assessors shall include in their annual return of tax assessments to the city treasurer all water assessments so furnished by the Board of Water Assessors

That section six of said act approved May twelfth one thousand nine hundred eleven which reads as follows

"Section 6 All taxes and water rents or rates unpaid at the end of the last month in which by the terms of this act the same are payable shall be deemed delinquent and it shall be the duty of the city treasurer to prepare a registry or list of all delinquents and place the same in the hands of the delinquent tax collector on or before the thirtieth day of June of each year

The collector of delinquent taxes shall receive such compensation either by a fixed salary or by fees as councils may by ordinance provide and all ordinances now in force in said cities fixing such compensation shall remain in force until otherwise changed by the councils of such cities" be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 6 All taxes and water rents or rates unpaid at the end of the last month in which by the terms of this act the same are payable shall be deemed delinquent and it shall be the duty of the city treasurer to prepare a registry or list of all delinquents and place the same in the hands of the delinquent tax collector on or before the thirtieth day of April of each year

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. THEODORE CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 824, File Folio 4375, on page twenty-six of to-night's calendar, Bills on final passage postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 824, entitled:

An Act to provide that all horsedrawn vehicles owned or operated by persons residing in all cities of the first and second class except those used for pleasure shall have on the sides of such vehicle in legible letters the name and address of the owner together with a designating number if more than one vehicle is used providing for arrest and proceedings for violation of the act prescribing the penalties therefor.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. THEODORE CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this bill applies only to cities of the first and second class. It requires that business wagons that operate in cities of the first and second class have thereon the name and address of the persons doing business with those teams. It does not effect the country districts in the least. It does not apply to wagons and teams coming in from the country districts with vegetables or anything of that character. It does not apply to any wagons other than business; no pleasure wagons or any thing of that character. It is a bill that is much needed in Philadelphia and I desire very much to have it passed at this time.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON SECOND READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

The SPEAKER. The hour of nine o'clock having arrived, the House will proceed to the special order set for that hour.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 283, entitled:

An Act to further regulate the granting of licenses for the sale of vinous spirituous malt or brewed liquors or any admixture thereof by permitting the electors of any county in this Commonwealth to determine by an election whether the granting of licenses for such sale therein shall be prohibited

The first section was read as follows

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That whenever a number of the qualified electors of any county equalling twenty-five per centum of the number of votes cast therein at the last preceding general election shall present a petition to the court of quarter sessions of the peace of that county verified by the affidavits of three of the petitioners praying for the holding of an election to determine whether license for the sale or furnishing of vinous spirituous malt or brewed liquors or any admixture thereof in said county shall be granted it shall be the duty of said court of quarter sessions of the peace to order an election to be held in the said county in not less than thirty days nor more than forty days from the date of such order which election shall be held by the regular election officers at the usual place or places for holding elections in said county and the election shall be conducted in all respects and all election officers shall be governed by the directions and subject to the penalties and be compensated as now provided by law for the holding of general elections Notice of such election shall be given by the officers designated and in the manner provided by existing laws relating to county elections insofar as the same may be applicable and every such notice shall state (first) the question to be voted upon as hereinafter set forth (second) the day and place of holding said elections (third) that the polls shall be open between the hours of seven o'clock ante meridian and seven o'clock post meridian

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows

Amend section 1, on line 27, by adding thereto after the word "meridian" the following: Such election shall be by township, borough and city units in any such county, the electors thereof respectively voting for and against the granting of license as herein provided.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, it has been currently reported and it is obvious from the calendar to-night, on special orders, that there would be "nothing doing" as is commonly said, on this bill on second reading. I ask your kind and thoughtful attention to the amendment which I propose to this bill and I hope that you will not think that I am beyond my prerogratives,, nor presuming too much in suggesting an amendment to this bill. It is generally known as the Local Option Bill, and I ask you in cosidering the amendment which I propose, to consider this amendment on the pure and simple basis of a local option bill, which in contradistinction has a very different consideration from a county option bill.

The Anti-Saloon League of this State, those who have been at the head of the local option movement in this State, have invariably presented and urged in previous years a bill for a local option bill along the lines of the amendment as I suggest tonight. The county option bill has not been considered by this organization on a thoroughbred local option consideration of such legislation. The law at the present time, which would not be changed in any way, in this consideration, as you know, is this: If a man desires to apply for a license in a certain town, borough, or city, he is required under the law to have a specified number of petitioners from that ward, or town, or borough in which he will apply for the license, and any remonstrants are limited to have a standing in court under the law and in court procedure to a residence along similar lines in that town, borough, or ward.

Now, that which we propose in this amendment will keep the proposition of the petitioners or the remonstrants upon the basis of the present law, and upon the basis of the present court procedure. That is, when a man votes for or against the granting of a license, if our amendment is inserted in this bill, he will be either a petitioner in the sense that he votes for, or a remonstrant in the sense that he votes against the granting of a license in the town, borough, or city, in which he lives.

The county unit will make every man in that entire county, contrary to the present law and court procedure, either a petitioner if he votes for, or a remonstrant, if he votes against the granting of any license in a town, borough, or city, in which he may not reside, or he may be forty miles away. I remember reading distinctly some months ago, a very strong editorial in one of the leading morning papers of Philadelphia, I believe the Public Ledger—upon the question of local option, and the main point which they drove home with great force was this: if you don't square the sentiment with the unit, you are getting a condition which will turn back the progress along such lines. Allow me to illustrate. In our city we have what is known as the Curfew Law. The bell rings at eight o'clock in the winter, and at nine o'clock in the summer, but there is no attention paid to it whatever in connection with the enforcement of that provision,—of that order. The sentiment is not there to back up such legislation.

Take the Sunday fishing legislation, and laws which would prohibit you from buying a glass of soda water, or a cigar, or a Sunday newspaper on Sunday, which has not the sentiment back of their enforcement, and which are dead letters. Take if you please, the rule of this House and the rule of the Senate on the other side, concerning smoking. Over there the sentiment goes with the unit: over here the sentiment does not go with the unit. Over there there is no smoking; over here you all are smoking. Yet the rule prevails in this House, just the same as it does over there.

The squaring of the sentiment with the unit is the question I desire to call to your attention in this connection, and I believe if you square the sentiment with the unit, and begin with the smallest unit, you will get more progress than by starting away up the ladder and by getting a condition which will make a unit of doing without license where there will not be sentiment, it will turn the clock back and will bring about the very thing you do not want to bring about.

The maximum dry territory, gentlemen, I submit to you, in this State, will not come under county option, but under local option, as our amendment proposes to-night, for every large county in this State, which has a large city in it, if the bill as presented from the committee is passed, will become an entirely licensed county from one end to the other, through the vote in the large city. If you adopt our amendment the city may vote for license and the dry territory in the county throughout, outside of that large city, will be maintained as dry, with no license. I submit to you on that basis, if you take the different towns and counties, Harrisburg in Dauphin county, Lancaster, in Lancaster County; Scranton, in Lackawanna County; Pittsburgh, in Allegheny County; Wilkes-Barre, in Luzerne County, and so on throughout the State. If you will vote for our amendment you will find that those counties, in many instances, outside of the large cities, will be, in the main, dry; whereas, if you don't, those dry territories will not be in evidence.

Now, gentlemen, I ask your kind and thoughtful attention to this amendment, to this proposition, as we have advanced it. I ask you to give consideration to the question along the lines I have tried to indicate and I ask you, if the bill as it has been proposed, as reported from the Law and Order Committee, is not satisfactory to you, that you vote for this amendment; that you have it printed and that you consider it carefully and wisely and conscientiously, and as you think best, vote for or against the bill.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I think it would be most unfortunate, aye, almost unfair, to the sentiment of the people of this State to act favorably on this amendment proposed to-night. Now, it is my purpose to vote against the Governor's County Local Option Bill, but in view of the fact that all the arguments adduced for the Governor's bill and against the Governor's bill have been directed to this particular bill, which is coming before the House finally on Wednesday next. It would be unfair to the sentiment created, either for or against that bill; it would be unfair to the liquor men's side; it would be unfair to the local option side, to have this bill go before the people in any other shape that the shape it is in now. Therefore, I think both sides to this question should vote this amendment down, in order that the bill toward which the people of this State have been looking for months, shall receive in this House on Wednesday next, a fair test.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, while I do not question the right of this House to adopt the amendment under consideration, I ask the members to vote it down and pass this bill on second reading, that it may be finally considered on third reading on Wednesday, as it was introduced, in accordance with the understanding existing between the friends and the opponents of the measure.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth sections and title were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 2 The ballots at any election held under the provisions of this act shall be printed distributed and furnished and in such quantities and of the form provided by existing laws relating to general elections Upon such ballots shall be printed the question "Shall the granting of license for the sale of intoxicating liquors be prohibited" followed by the words "Yes" and "No" with a square of sufficient size at the right of each said words in which to give the elector an opportunity clearly to designate his choice by a cross mark (X) placed in one of the said squares

Section 3 Each qualified elector receiving a ballot provided for by this act in accordance with existing laws may mark in the appropriate square a cross (X) opposite the answer he desires to give and all votes cast at said election held under the provisions of this act shall be counted and declared and a complete return of the same made in accordance with existing laws relating to elections

Section 4 Whenever it shall appear by the returns aforesaid that a majority of the votes cast at such election are in favor of prohibiting the granting of such licenses in the county in which said election shall have been held it shall thereupon become unlawful for said court of quarter sessions of the peace or other authority to which may hereafter be transferred the power relating to said subject now vested in said court of quarter sessions to issue or grant any license authorizing the sale or furnishing of any vinous spirituous malt or brewed liquors or any admixture thereof in said county at any time thereafter until at an election held as hereinafter provided a majority of the electors voting thereat shall vote against prohibiting the granting of such licenses therein

Section 5 At any time after three years from the date of an election held under the foregoing provisions of this act another such election may be ordered and held as hereinbefore provided

Section 6 This act shall not be construed to repeal any special or local laws relating to the sale or granting of licenses to sell intoxicating liquors nor shall it be construed to prevent the granting or refusal of a license under existing laws the same as if this act had not been passed in counties where the majority of the votes cast at an election held as hereinbefore provided are against prohibiting the granting of license to sell intoxicating liquors and in counties where no such election has been held

An Act to further regulate the granting of licenses for the sale of vinous spirituous malt or brewed liquors or any admixture thereof by permitting the electors of any county in this Commonwealth to determine by any election whether the granting of licenses for such sale therein shall be prohibited

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1311, as follows:

An Act further supplementing an act approved the thirteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act establishing in counties containing a population of from eight hundred thousand to one million four hundred thousand a board for the assessment and revision of taxes for State and county purposes prescribing the method of their appointment their powers and duties fixing their salary to be paid by the proper county and abolishing the office of ward borough and township assessors in so far as respects the assessment of State and county taxes" imposing certain duties on the board and on burgesses of boroughs township commissioners and supervisors and providing for their compensation out of the county treasury

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That appeals from assessments made by the board for the assessment and revision of taxes under the act to which this act is a supplement and under the various amendments and supplements thereto shall be heard by the board at such place in the city or borough or township where the respective property is located and at such time as the board may fix Notice of the time and place of hearing appeals shall be given as required in said act In hearing appeals in a borough or township the burgess or the chairman of the township commissioners or a township supervisor selected by the township supervisors as the case may be shall sit with said board as a member thereof ex-officio in hearing appeals from assessment of property located in the respective borough or township For such services the burgess or commissioner or supervisor shall receive from the county treasurer compensation at the rate of five dollars per diem for each day necessarily employed in the duteis herein imposed Payment shall be made on warrant of the county controller on certificate from the President of the board that the services have been actually performed

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1233, as follows:

An Act authorizing townships of the first class to levy a tax not to exceed one mill for the maintenance of fire service or department

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the board of township commissioners in every township of the first class in this Commonwealth may in their discretion by ordinance duly passed according to law levy a tax not exceeding one mill upon all the taxable property in such township for the maintenance of fire service or departments

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL DROPPED FROM CALENDAR.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will ask the House to drop this bill from the calendar, if there is no objection. The Chair hears none and the bill is dropped from the calendar.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 832, entitled:

An Act to provide for the person upon whom service of all legal processes shall be made in the case of foreign insurance companies transacting business in this Commonwealth requiring the designation of the Insurance Commissioner for such service prescribing the method of service and repealing existing laws

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, who is sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Baldwin, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I would like the sponser of this bill to explain it to the House

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, this is in line with what the Insurance Commissioner of Pennsylvania thinks is proper legislation, namely: To have some authority at the center of the State where this insurance business is handled, upon whom service can be entered for all foreign insurance companies rather than to have some unknown party named as an agent in different parts of the State. There cannot possibly be any danger in the passage of the bill. My judgment is that the Commissioner is exactly right and in recommending it is thinking of the interests of the public, because there can be no question whatever as to whether the service has been made. I don't see why there should be a single vote against the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1266, entitled:

An Act authorizing the State Department of Health to establish and maintain a place of detention and treatment for lepers on the state forest reserve or elsewhere and making an appropriation therefor

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, this bill authorizes the State Department of Health to establish a leprosy colony in the State of Pennsylvania. It has the endorsement of Dr. Dixon and also, I dare say, that of the Attorney General, and it is a very meritorious measure.

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER).

The SPEAKER. The hour of 9:30 having arrived we will take up the special order on House Bill No. 842, on third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 842, entitled:

An Act to empower the Public Service Commission to require railroad corporations to employ an adequate number of men upon trains and to repeal an act entitled "An Act to promote the safety of travelers and employes upon railroads by compelling common carriers by railroad to properly man their trains" approved the nineteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MYERS. Mr. Speaker, if this measure passes it will repeal a rigid and unchangeable act of Assembly. In 1911, legislation as that in the act of 1911, was necessary at that time. There was no body, to which, subjects contained in the act of 1911, could be referred. In 1913 there was created a Public Service Commission, and, gentlemen of the House, such subjects as this, contained in the act of 1911, should be referred to the Public Service Commission. It is a commission composed of high salaried high-minded men, and why should they not handle all subjects as this contains in the act of 1913? It is a good measure, gentlemen of the house, and should be passed.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker I regard this as being a crisis in this House. It is one of the most important things, to my mind, which has come before the Pennsylvania State Assembly in this session. The railroad corporations of Pennsylvania are asking this House to repeal a bill which after public hearing was passed by the House of Representatives and by the State Senate and affirmed by your governor, after thorough and full consideration and I say to the members of this House that the presumption is that this is a good bill, and that the Full Crew Bill should remain on the books, until the railroad companies by a fair preponderance of the evidence establishes to the members here that it is not a good bill. The question involved is: Are these requirements of law necessary or unnecessary. The railroad corporations come before you and say that it is not necessary and the railroad men say that it is necessary. Now the only way for us to decide as to who is telling the truth in this matter, as to whether or not this measure or this law is necessary or unnecessary, is to first examine the credibility of the witnesses which have appeared before you. We must examine the credibility and the right which the railroad corporations have to offer testimony upon this bill.

When the railroad corporations of this country—of the East—went to the Inter-State Commerce Commission for a five per cent. increase in freight rates, they said that one of the reasons, one of the reasons, why they asked for this increase was because of the extra expense of the full crew law; and no sooner had they gotten that increase from the Inter-State Commerce Commission, then they go further, after that subterfuge and after a dissenting opinion was filed by members of that Inter-State Commerce Commission saying that the increase was unjust, they come before this House and ask us to repeal this bill. I say that the railroad corporations, and I say that the men in the offices who do not know the first thing about railroading petition us to repeal this bill. Now, gentlemen, the five per cent. freight increase which they have received at the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission gives to the eastern railroads fifty million dollars annually; two million dollars they claim as being the cost of the Full Crew. They turn the whole proposition not on "safety first" not on the question of the lives of the men of Pennsylvania, they do not talk about the tears of the widows, they do not talk about the orphaned children of Pennsylvania, but the only thing they suggest to you in presenting this, is that there will be more money if you repeal this full crew bill, to put into stock paying dividends, and into the vaults. And I regard it as an insult, sir, from the railroad corporations to ask men in this Assembly, and to the workingmen of Pennsylvania to repeal this bill.

Further, the death rates on our railroads have increased amazingly. The last year there were ten thousand deaths, and they say that the full crew bill has not done anything for it. But they do not tell you, gentlemen of this House, that the tonnage which they haul on the railroads now has increased four, five and six times, and under the report of the Interstate Commerce Commission, they say that the railroading problem has become more hazzardous, more dangerous every day in the year. This proposition must be given careful consideration. On an average they use fifty trains, and for that they use an extra brakeman whom they pay two dollars and fifty cents per one hundred miles. Fifty cars to a train, they have twenty tons of merchandise on each one of those cars. For twenty trains, that makes four hundred tons of merchandise and the cost of paying that man the sum of two dollars and fifty cents for the haul on that goods is one-three-thousandths of a cent per pound. And on that claim, the claim of dividends, which amounts to a fraction so low that it is hardly appreciable, they ask you men of this Assembly to throw out of work thousands of employes, thousands of men in the State of Pennsylvania. They say why not leave it to the Public Service Commission? Why not let them say whether or not, and how they shall man their trains. I quote again from the Interstate Commerce Commission reports, and I say to you that for the fiscal year in their last report the railroads of this country violated their orders two hundred and fifty-seven times or ten hundred and twenty violations of the safety appliances act which they referred to the district attorneys in the United States of America. If these men will not keep the law when it comes to the United States, how do you expect them to fulfill the orders of the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission? The petitions, as I said before, from fellows, from men who do not do the work, who do not go out in the sleet and in the storm; who do not ride on the trains, they say to you it is not necessary. I say to you further, that if when the train starts out from Harrisburg to go to Philadelphia, if it could be a positive and an assured fact that nothing would happen to the air, then I say, you need no brakemen, you need no conductor; all you need is your fireman and your engineer; but God only knows what will happen to that train on its way from Harrisburg to Philadelphia, which will kill every man aboard the train. Any man, and I have talked to men who have had experience for thirty years on air, will say that it is absolutely unreliable. And there is no telling when something will occur which will send them all to their deaths. The steel cars is what they tell you —before the United Business Mens' Association of Philadelphia, Mr. Schaeffer, the counsel for the Pennsylvania Railroad in talking about this full crew bill, they asked him, if we repeal this full crew bill, will you take off your one quarter cent per mile rate increase on passenger fares and he said, "no, we could not go into a proposition or agreement of that kind." They have tried to make you believe that this is to be taken off for the benefit of the public. Why the public of Pennsylvania is paying for it, paying for it at the rate of one quarter of a cent per mile—every mile you travel, there is no argument against that.

I could quote you gentlemen, if I had the time, thirty-two notable instances where life and limb were saved by the extra man in this full crew. There are instances which probably cannot be regulated or which cannot be fully told relative to what these men have done for the safety of everybody and every thing. The only purpose for which legislation is passed is for one of three reasons. It is either in the interest of economic betterment, or in the interest of property-rights, or in the interest of human rights, perhaps there might be some small variations somewhere else. The act of the United States Congress provides that they must still have hand brakes. This is a question as to whether or not you are going to be for property rights as against human rights. That is what it resolves itself into and that is what you have got to go on record for, remember that. Remember that on this proposition they go into an economic proposition altogether; they do not take it into a human proposition. Then let me say from an economic standpoint that the centralization of wealth means the centralization of power; and the centralization of power means autocracy, and autocracy strikes at the foundation of republican institutions. It was well said by Thomas Jefferson, "that the laws must keep step with the human mind." And further, I want to issue this clarion note of warning to the railroads of this country that they will go ahead and ask for these benefits, which are asked by the men, taken from the books and they will find drastic legislation, and there is bound to be a retaliation, and you will find that after all this is done, that you are driving the men on to such a place where, for the benefit of their health, their safety, their lives, their widows and their orphans, they are going to take control of things by majority right.

Before I close, Mr. Speaker, I want to say in connection with steel cars, I am in favor of the forty million loaves of bread which this extra crew buys; I am in favor of the sugar and the butter and all those things which go to feed the mouths of the children of the men who toil in Pennsylvania, and I want to quote one of the Greatest Americans—"Labor is the great oak; Labor is the great column; Labor with its deft and cunning hands has created the countless things of beauty and art, labor is the Atlas upon whose shoulders rests the great superstructure of civilization." In behalf of the men who work, and the women who weep, I ask you not to pass the gentleman-from-Delaware's bill; and I ask you to keep the Full Crew Law on the books.

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House: I take it that the American people are a fair, just and liberal minded people and that they are eager that justice should prevail in every instance, as between man and man, or corporations and individuals.

A corporation, as I view it, is nothing more or less than a body of individuals combining together, their money and their ability with a view of carrying on certain lines of business not within the power of a single individual. Thus, by so doing, it has been made possible that the great improvements, the great achievements, the great industries, and the great developments of our State have made it what it is, the foremost State in the Union. In the discussion of questions of this character that come before us wherein the public is interested, as to whether or not the object sought or the remedy needed is just and equitable places an obligation on you and me, as members of this law-making body to see to it that those desiring public welfare can attain it only by a just dealing with the problems as they arrive, and just dealing can be attained only by ascertainment and strict adherence to the truth, for justice is truth in action.

This has been a campaign of education. The public clearly understands the issue that has been drawn between those who favor and those who do not favor the repeal of the law commonly known as the "Full Crew Law" —and if the public opinion of the citizens of this Commonwealth is of any value, then this law should be repealed and stricken from our statute books. There must be a reason for the wide interest manifested by the general public in asking the repeal of this measure. I may ask what is the reason?—And in answer thereto, I would say that the people desire that justice should be done to the railroads, that the railroads should have a fair and reasonable compensation for every service which they perform and that capital invested should receive a fair return.

In this present action, and in the small part I am attempting to take, I do not want it to be understood that I am in any way antagonistic to the interests of labor, God forbid—but I am here to say to you in all sincerity, that I believe a mistake has been made, and my part in this is to ask that this mistake be rectified and the law now on our statute books be repealed, for I believe, sir, that labor itself and labor organizations cannot successfully defend any proposition that stands in direct opposition and defiance of economic law. Something higher and better should shape their course. Labor should be loyal to the great industry of which they are a part; labor should be loyal to their chosen occupation, for a house divided against itself cannot stand—co-operation is the law of industrial well being, and the railroad employes should not risk the accusation that they are working against the best interests of the great institutions which they are presumably working for, and of which they are a part. I realize, sir, as I believe every member of this House realizes that the great railroad interests of our State recognize that their interests are closely linked with the peoples in the territory which they serve. The systematic measures to foster the great farming interests, the manufacturing and mining activities of our State, are being brought about by the activities of these great corporations in order that they may serve the people. In order to do this, it is absolutely necessary that there should be no antagonism and embarassment as between the employer and employe.

When organized labor attempts to force upon a railroad, corporation or an individual, a law that is unjust and unreasonable, then not only is the corporation so injured, but the individual himself. The public in general in conjunction with such corporation should ask for relief.

This law that we are asking to be repealed, has been in force since its enactment in 1911, and it is a fact that I believe cannot be successfully contradicted that it has utterly failed in its purpose, and the avowed objects for which this law was enacted have not been realized.

Why are the results of this law hurtful and why should this law be taken from our statute books? I will try to give, as I view it, a few of the reasons.

First. I believe that no individual or set of individuals have a right to say to you or to me, how my business or your business should be run, or the number of men I shall or should not employ to run that business. You have the same right to say to the farmer as you have to the railroad that in place of employing two men to harvest his crops, he must employ four, or to a mill man who employs eight to run his mill, that there must be sixteen. There is just as much equity and justice in one as the other.

Second. This law as it now stands on the statute books has and is working a violence to the economic laws and has forced waste into railroad operations.

There is much danger of state and nation going to extremes in matter of making restrictive laws.

There should be open, free, fair and honorable competition and any or all attempts to choke out the same should be punished.

The law of economics as I view it, is a law of preservation and not devastation.

Third. This law has compelled railroads to employ additional men without any real service going with it. The laborer is worthy of his hire but he who does not give value in return for such hire is an unjust and dishonest employe for the first condition of citizenship and self respect is the power to give in return value for value received.

Fourth. This law has put organized labor in a false and untenable position of demanding and compelling employment by an edict of law. No individual has ever prospered or should ever prosper wherein he depends upon an edict of law to give him his bread and butter by making it compulsory that such should be for it is against the laws of nature, and reason and of common sense as well.

Fifth. In general this law should be repealed for the reason that it has placed an extra burden upon the railroads in the way of unnecessary operating expenses, this not only to the railroads, but to the thousands and tens of thousands of stockholders, most of whom have their savings so invested, and are largely dependent for their support received upon the income from dividends derived from their investments in such railroads. And again let me say that these laws have worked to the public hurt and have added a burden to the public which the people are not fairly and honorably called upon to stand.

The cry in general by those who are in opposition to the repeal of this law, is: "safety first." I believe that this is a false cry for the reason that before the "full crew law" existed, railroads had more than the so-called "Full Crews" on hundreds of freight and passenger trains, and they still do and will do when necessity requires it, for it is not good business to otherwise allow the running of a business where human rights and property are to be safe-guarded and where safety and efficiency of operation require it. No railroad is going to abuse any of these rights and do violence to economic laws simply to avoid the paying sufficient men to properly man trains that may be put on the road to carry on the general business of the railroad company, for the railroads have long since learned that any negligence on their part is expensive in the end, for I am informed and, I believe reliably informed that a wreck of any magnitude whatever, places a loss on the railroad company of $10,000.00 to $100,000.00 and the loss of life or limb is an expensive proposition, which all railroads are eager to avoid. We believe if injury results to the public because of the lack of sufficient men the company should pay the damage but for a law to decide how many men shall be carried on each and every train is entirely too paternal, therefore in the light of reason and justice and common sense, are the railroads going to neglect the duty involved upon them by not manning and running their trains in a proper manner?

Gentlemen,—I think the answer is, no.

The trainman's organizations assert that the "full crew laws" work to reduce accidents. Now let us go into this statement and see whether it is true. I am not going to take the railroad for this—I am going to take the Interstate Commerce Commission Report in the various sections of the country where they have fully examined into the conditions of the same;

The report follows:—

For the three year period to June 30th, 1911, the Pennsylvania Full Crew Law became effective July 19th,—the number of employees killed in the United States was 10,186. For the three years since the "Full Crew Laws" became effective, the list of killed totalled 10,372—an increase 186.

Bringing the case right home, take the casualty list on the Pennsylvania Railroad for six months before the "Full Crew Law" was in effect and for the first half of last year, it shows as follows:—

First Half 1911.

	Killed	Injured
Trainmen, ...	15	1046
Passengers, ...	1	99	1145

First Half 1914.

	Killed	Injured
Trainmen, ...	16	1699
Passengers, ...	2*	141	1940
Difference, ...			795
*Fell from trains.			....

Does this include to you that the full crew law is what they are claiming for it. There is but one answer and that is no.

Let us see what the Public Utilities Commission of Connecticut of November last have to say, after a careful and thorough investigation of this matter.

The facts brought out in the present investigation disclosed no instances of the jeopardizing of the safety of either the public or employes which increased train crews would prevent. It is the belief of this commission, that of all the railroad accidents attended by fatalities which have been reported to and investigated by it, not one has been attributed to an insufficiency in numbers of the train crew involved.

Also what was the result of the report from New Jersey.

"The board believes it to be extremely significant that at the two hearings advocates of this measure or measures substantially similar were unable to cite, when challenged, any serious accident resulting from insufficient train crews."

"There is also some appreciable weight to be given to the view that a uniform enlargement of train crews, where such enlargement is demonstrably unnecessary, will make against the maintainance of proper discipline in the service."

"The extra cost, if not compensated by solid advantage accruing to patrons of the road, is a public and social waste."

In Missouri a Full Crew Act was passed in 1913 but never became operative because on submission by referundum to popular vote, the people of that State last year repealed the law by two to one vote.

Efforts to enact Full Crew Laws in North Carolina, in Kansas, in West Virginia, in Texas and in Alabama made this year have all failed. Farmers and business men in these States made emphatic protests against such legislation and their judgment and will as so expressed was given greater importance by legislators and very properly so, than the demand of the Trainman's Organization unsupported by convincing arguments or facts for the bills as proposed.

DEFEATS FOR FULL CREW LAWS.

Two unsuccessful attempts were made to enact a Full Crew Law in New York. The first was in 1907. It was vetoed by Hon. Chas. E. Hughes, then Governor, now Justice of the United States Supreme Court. To require the expenditure of a very large amount of money? He said in his veto message, "without necessity for the outlay is simply arbitrary exaction an taking of property without due process of law. The bill does not refer its requirements to any proper standard of necessity or provide any criterion by which its proper application, under varying conditions is to be determined. It contains an absolute requirement, which upon facts conceded before me, cannot be justified."

Five years later another governor of New York, John A. Dix, vetoed a full crew law saying: "It lays down a rule of universal application without regard to the demands of justice in particular cases." The Public Service Commission was vested with and now has power to determine and compel safe, adequate and proper service on the part of the railroads, and such power necessarily includes the power to change the personnel and reduce or increase the number of the train crews.

Gentlemen of the House, in closing let me say that it has been in my mind amply demonstrated in Pennsylvania, that the people as a body, now fully informed in the matter, are convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that the Full Crew Law now on the statute books is not only of no advantage but in fact works to the injury of the railroad, to the hurt of the great body of railroad employes, to the detriment of business, and to the general burden of the public.

The logic of the situation calls for what the railroads have proposed in way of a solution and that is, a repeal of the law, coupled with a direct power placed in the hands of the Public Service Commission to see the trains properly manned. This Legislature, this House and this people should give effect to that proposition, and vote for the repeal of this law.

Mr. MAUER. Mr. Speaker, I had the honor of being a member of this body four years ago when this law was passed. I also at that time, like at the present time, happened to be a member of the Railway Committee, and had the pleasure of voting this bill out of committee, and voting for its passage in the House.

I do not think that any member here, in all his experience as a legislator, ever witnessed such an effort in behalf of any one to bring pressure to bear against or in favor of any legislation that was ever before this House. It is needless for me to tell, you, or remind you, of the amount of letters we received, praying for the repeal of the Full Crew Law, in the last six weeks. This evening, just for amusement's sake, I commenced to count up what the possible expense of this agitation would have been on the part of the railways. I received something like thirty thousand letters, and I do not doubt that some of you received, more than that, but, if all of us received as many letters as I, the postal expense itself would run over one hundred thousand dollars. Taking the stationery and labor exerted in getting out the stationery we received, will run it over six hundred thousand dollars more. Counting that expense, and the expense the railroad companies went to to gather the petitions and have them signed—I am in possession of the facts to know that they sent special trains over their various branches, with crews of men carrying the petitions, into the rural districts, in the stores, cross-roads, and hotels, and leaving them there with the request that they have them sign up and later come on and collect them, and the people who signed these petitions—who were they?

Our friend here speaks of public sentiment. Does any one mean to infer that the petitions referred to our committee, and the letters we received were a true expression of public sentiment? I positively refuse to accept it as they. How were these signers to these letters and these petitions secured? Committees of men came to my home. Committees came in from Philadelphia to this city, to visit me. Others came from the west and told me how they were coerced into signing their names to these letters and petitions. They even went among the farmers and made some of them believe that if this law was not repealed, it would mean that a farmer driving four horses would have to have two drivers on the team. One committee came here last week and I said, "Can you show me how you were coerced into signing these petitions?" Yes. This gentleman said: "I did not want to sign and they asked me this question: It will not hurt you; we want all the boys on it." He was a telegraph operator. But he said: "It is against my convictions to sign it." "Well," said the gentleman, "I would hate to go back and show my superior this list, all signed up, but your name not on it. It would not look good; you had better sign it."

If that is not coercion, tell me what it is—and he signed. They brought men into the office and handed them three letters to sign—all nicely typewritten—you know how they are—they had about twenty forms, some printed and some typewritten, and very few written by hand. They asked him to sign the three letters, one letter to go to the Senator of his district and he other two to the Representatives, and they signed. The man asked me what could he do; he said I have a family and children, and I am afraid of my job. You call that public sentiment. I don't.

That is how your signers—many of them—not all of them, but many of them—were secured. Friends, this campaign, with its literature, its newspaper advertising, its bought space in the daily press, its campaign of letters, as near as I can estimate, cost about two million dollars, not to count into that expense your lobby that you have had here for the last six or eight weeks, and not to mention the other things that have been going on, such as I have been informed of tonight—free automobile trips offered to the members of this House, to Gettysburg. I do not think any man who went on that trip, if there be any such here, and I was informed there are, would dare vote for the repeal of this law. It would look mighty suspicious. understand that tonight a thing happened that I never heard of happening before in this House: railroad lobbyists lobbying right among the men while we were in session, right inside the bars here.

You talk about public sentiment and giving the railroads a square deal. At the two public hearings we heard both sides. The gentlemen from the railroads were here, with the ablest attorneys and the bone of contention with them was the expense. One of their speakers, over in the Senate Chamber, pointed out to us that this expense of two millions of dollars, divided between two States,—New Jersey and Pennsylvania,—was responsible in a great measure,—in a very great measure, he said,—for the present business depression that the whole nation is suffering from.

They tried to convince the committee that due to this two million dollars, the purchasing power of the railroads fell off something like sixty millions of dollars.

I consider that he insulted the intelligence of every member of the committee when he said that. Yet that was one of the argument that some of you will remember. As to the railroads and their poverty, let we turn your attention to something. I might mention incidentally, in talking about publicity, that when Mr. Mellen, of the New Haven and Hartford Railroad was before the Interstate Commerce Commission, he admitted there, under oath, that his railroad alone spent about four hundred thousand dollars per year for publicity. If a railroad company,—one company,—will spend that in a small State, what do you suppose all these companies, in a great State like Pennsylvania spent during this last six months. During the last three years, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company,—and this is according to the James H. Olyphant, Company Bankers and Brokers, of New York and Chicago,—that is my authority, and that is what all you speculators take as an authority,—during the past three years, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company earned a surplus above all expenses of one hundred and fifteen millions of dollars,—nearly one hundred and fifteen and a half million.

I just cite one other company,—that's on four thousand miles of track. They earned a great deal more, of course, but that's on four thousand miles. The Reading Railroad, during the past three years,—I mean three years past, not counting last year, earned forty-two million seven hundred and twelve thousand dollars, on one thousand miles of trackage. When the President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company was before the Interstate Commerce Commission, he pleaded poverty also. They asked him what he thought a fair profit should be for the railroads. He thought it should be ten per cent. and later admitted, when evidence was produced to convince him, that the profits for some years, had been considerably over fourteen per cent. The greatest leak in the railroads is the subsidiary institutions that are supported by the railroads. I will cite to you but a single one and that is the Reading Iron Company, owned by the Reading Railroad. Let me illustrate before giving you these figures. The railroad company and the subsidiary supply companies are usually run by the same men, and the same directors; one company running the supply company and the railroad. The officials of the railroad are also the officials of the supply company. As officials of the supply company, they give themselves contracts or turn the contracts over to the companies which furnish the supplies in which they are also officials and stockholders. Not all the stockholders of the railroads but some are stockholders in the supply companies. Therefore, they pay exorbitant prices for their supplies to these companies which is, what we call in every day language, a bit of private graft. We will take the Reading Coal and Iron Company. A rich company who owns double in all its capital stock and pays six per cent. This will show the poverty of the poor souls, six per cent. annual dividends then pay regular interest on the capital stock of the companies. In 1908 an extra dividend of one million five hundred thousand dollars was paid or 150 per cent.; and on June 30th, 1911, an extra dividend of one million was paid, or one hundred per cent. Several years ago it was made necessary to enlarge and rebuild and you can see in the various plants of the Reading Iron Company how this work involved large expenditures which were paid out of the earnings. The balance sheet of January 13th, 1913 of the Reading Coal and Iron Company shows assets amounting to sixteen million and a quarter. This gives you some idea of the immensity of the profits of the subsidiary companies. Now, gentlemen, the theory of the Full Crew Bill is safety. The opposition most likely will say before we are through with this debate that it does not make for safety. They will tell about an express train leaving New York on its way to Chicago and how the men have nothing to do in them but to ride the cushions. Then, they will tell you that they have from fourteen to eighteen men on that train. That is what they told us in their pamphlets, that is what they printed in the newspapers. They tried to make the public believe that the men in the diners were part of the crew. They will try to have the public believe that the porters are part of the crew. Those of us who ever ride on through trains—and some of us I presume have ridden on them—we know that when we go into a diner that the people that wait on us there are cooks and waiters; not trainmen. The people that make up our berths, why they are not trainmen; they are chamber-maids. The trainmen are the men who run the train; are the men who go to the rear and signal when necessary; are the men who go to the front and signal. Why, to have you fellows tell it to us you would think only one flagman were necessary. Why, I have seen the time when three flagmen were hardly enough to prevent a second wreck after the first wreck, and every railroader here knows that that is true. When you are going to send out a train with a thousand or two thousand; a load upon that train, and one flagman and a conductor and something happens and they leave that train load of humanity at the mercy of but one flagman. If a wreck happens and you have repealed this law upon your hands will be the blood of the victims, and will be due to the wreck that has occured. These men are the ones when the train comes into the station will have to help the ladies and the children and the aged to get off safely. When you go into Philadelphia on the elevated or subway, or in New York or Chicago where they have these trains you will find a trainman between every two cars. Why? To do what? To help the passengers to get on and off safely and yet you would have these trains, the finest, the largest and the heaviest we have in the country run without these extra men on the train. All of you have seen, time and again, when a train stops along the road when the signal is against it, if the passengers can possibly get out they will get out and you know it has occurred that passengers have been injured by getting out. You have traveled on these trains in winter time. Have you ever noticed during cold weather the entire crew moving from car to car, attending to ventilators, attending to the heat and with all that it is mighty difficult to keep those steel cars properly heated. What do you suppose the public will do if you take away the crew that does that work now? Friends, gentlemen of the House and Mr. Speaker, if this law is repealed I want you to show me what we gain by the repeal of it? Show us, if there is anyone of the speakers who can show the citizens of Pennsylvania what is to be gained by repealing this law. I want to hear it. The circulars they have sent out have pointed out two million dollars would buy steel cars, locomotives ,etc. They say it will buy these equipments but they don't say that they will buy them. That is different. But it also points out that if they pay 5 per cent. dividends on forty million dollars worth of stock that if this Full Crew Law is repealed and mark what I tell you, they will issue to themselves pro-rata to the extent of forty million dollars worth of stock and absorb that 5 per cent. interest that they feel they can pay. That is what it means, the fattening of the money kings and at what expense? It means the fattening of the wallets of the men of Wall Street at the expense of the risk of everyone in public who travel, and at the expense of thousands of families in this State. The other day I received among one of the fifteen letters from my home asking me to vote for the repeal of this Full Crew Law. I received these letters from Berks County. Out of thirty thousand letters, only fifteen of those that were sent down asked me to vote for the repeal. They were bankers, members of the Chamber of Commerce; a fine bunch of railroaders. The Chamber of Commerce said "We have taken a vote of our membership and we have decided almost unanimously that the Full Crew Law had failed in its purpose and should be repealed and that it is useless expense on the railroads." Now, the Chamber of Commerce in our city at least, is composed of merchants and business men; men who sell hats and shoes and groceries. They don't sell steel rails and locomotives and they have asked me to vote for a bill that will throw their customers out of work. It will throw out of work their customers to whom they sell goods. You just think it cannot be. Is it possible that the business men are so stupid to beg me to take dollars and cents out of their stores. Down in my own country, they would say (in German, translated "Upon my soul, it is enough to make you weep.") I will let the Honorable Mr. Stein from Allegheny County interpret that. Friends, and members of the House, two million dollars of that will simply go, if this bill is repealed as dividends on watered stock and the greater the profits of the railways the greater the burdens on the shoulders of the people. It cannot be otherwise. Do you know that when the profits increase they don't reduce the freight rates? Oh no, and they don't pay more wages to their men but they increase the dividends in order that the public may not know the extent of their gains and then they build such tombs like the one hundred and fourteen million dollar Depot in New York and they issue to themselves stock, no matter what is paid. That is what you do and you know it and the greater the earnings the greater the indebtedness. Then they point to the stock and they say "That is the interest we pay on the stock," and again they come and ask for the right to reach into our pockets. If they make improvements like building new roads or a new station they build that by borrowing the money and by issuing bonds and issuing stock to themselves. Mr. Ryan one of the highest authorities we have on railroads, when he appeared before the Public Service Commission, stated that 95 Per Cent. of the railroad stock represents nothing more than water. You don't build railroads with water. You are not doing it; you bet you are not. Railroads are built with bonds and you must pay the interest on them. Your stock is the rake-off and we, the public, pay that rake-off. That is what you have been doing. You built the Northern Pacific and the Southern Pacific and we bought it at twenty-five and forty thousand dollars a mile. Now you are bonding us for our own property and you will ask us for something, ask this House to pass this bill. This bill was passed four years ago by the Legislature. It was passed by the House and passed by the Senate and signed by the Governor who acted favorably upon it and the courts have rendered two different opinions upon it.

The railroads opposed it from the time it was installed, until tonight they are again asking us to undo what was done four years ago. And I repeat, what for? Why, to increase and swell their profits. Deny it. You cannot; you know it. Shame on you. How can you face this body of intelligent men, asking for more favors after getting a five per cent. increase on freights and twelve and one-half per cent. increase on passenger traffic with the pretense that the full crew law made it necessary for you to get more? You have got the increase, and now if this bill is repealed, will you give us back the old freight rates; will you give us back the old passenger rates? There isn't one of you believe that they will, and I am sure I don't believe it. No, no. If you get this, what is it you want next? Tell us to-night, so we know.

Just a word to you Republicans—the one hundred and sixty-one Republicans in this House. Last election, last campaign, it looked as if it was anybody's fight, and your United States Senator fearing that things would not break right, wrote in the name of the Republican party to the trainmen, as follows:

October 24th. 1914.

"Mr. Samuel R. Tarner, Chairman Pennsylvania State Legislative Board of Railway Conductors.

Dear Sir:—I have been informed that an impression has gone forth that the Republican organization in Pennsylvania is not steadfast in its support of the Full Crew Legislation enacted at the 1911 session of the Legislature.

I only heard this report upon my arrival in Pittsburgh this morning. I wish to assure you most emphatically that this report is without any foundation whatever. I have always favored this legislation and have had numerous conferences with the representatives of the Order of Railway Conductors, not only when the legislation referred to was up, but afterwards when it was being tested in the Courts. They know my attitude has been consistently and continuously in favor of enacting and sustaining this law. I have talked about the matter with the leading Republicans;" and now get that. "of the State, and all of them have agreed with me."

Where is Baldwin? It says "and all of them have agreed with me, and I can assure you that so far as the Republican party in Pennsylvania is concerned, we will oppose any attempt to repeal this measure. The thought is absurd that I could consistently or logically reverse the position which I have assumed in this connection. Yours truly, Boies Penrose."

I hope that the members will prove their loyalty to their promises.

In conclusion, gentlemen, and Mr. Speaker, I have but this to say there are to-night in this wonderful State of ours hundreds of thousands of people sitting up tonight waiting on the message that will be sent over the State telling the verdict on the full crew bill. There is not a woman whose husband is a railroader who is not on nervous edge to-night, not one. There is not a child who is tucked away in bed to-night by its mother that did not ask the question, "Will they repeal the full crew law tonight?" To-morrow morning, if this law is repealed, the thousands of mothers and wives not only will know but what it will be her husband and the bread-winner that is going to be sacrificed on account of the repeal of this law, and made another of that great army that we have to-day of unemployed. Do not send us these men, do not throw these men on the labor market. We now have more than what we know what to do with. We have now five or six families living in three rooms; we now have men and children underfed. Good God, don't do this. Unless you can show me the reason why, and no one has yet, no one has yet shown me, your message to-night will either be a message of good cheer or a message of despair, one or the other, and I know you well enough, all of you, to know that not one man in this House would do anything that would make any one sad or unhappy. And if you vote to sustain this law, you will do this; you will continue to safeguard, in so far as is in our power, the travelling public, and you will not cause a single tear to be shed on account of the breadwinners being thrown on the unemployed labor market; you will not hurt the stockholders one iota; they must expect to feel the pangs of panics of some sort, as you and I do. If you are a business man, your profits have been cut down during panics and you stood your loss like a man. You did not come in here and ask to have legislation enacted or repealed so that you would not suffer. Surely the railroads have in the last years suffered from the effects of a panic; but let them do like the rest of us suffer their losses like men, and not come whining and crying and asking us to make up that loss at the expense of the women and children and the breadwinners of our great State. I thank you.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen, as I understand the full crew law, the railroads in this State, in the operation of their trains, have to carry more men for that purpose than they had been accustomed to do theretofore. And as I understood it four years ago, though at that time, I was not in any way in public life, it was urged upon the public and the Legislature and Governor of Pennsylvania, as a safety measure. Now, sir, it seems to me, that when the arguments of my eloquent friend from Schuylkill, and my equally eloquent friend from Berks are analyzed you find that the appeal is based principally upon the ground that it will throw some men out of work. Now let us consider what the act of 1911 was. It was the first attempt that I know of on the part of a Legislature of Pennsylvania to regulate a matter of detail in the management of railroads. It was indefensible as anything but a safety measure. But let us consider on what the safety of railway travel depends. Has anybody undertaken to prescribe by law the weight of rails. I, and the youngest among us, have seen the weight of rails grow from forty to fifty pounds to over one hundred pounds per yard. Has anybody undertaken to state any legislature or any State department undertaken to say when a bridge was unsafe? And yet, within the sight of this Capitol, an iron bridge, that has been in service for less than thirty years, is being replaced by a concrete arch bridge and nobody connected with the State government has had anything to say about that except the Water Supply Commission. Nobody will see whether that bridge is properly re-inforced and nobody will see whether the concrete is properly mixed,—we leave those things to the railroad. Now, sir, consider the development of safety appliances on the railroad. The telegraph was invented in 1840 and first applied; and the railroad was first built in this country in 1830, only over about twenty-seven miles, and for the purpose of the safe operation of trains and for the successful operation of your railroads the telegraph was used. And then we had the block signal system, and that depended upon the fidelity and alertness of the tower operator. And now, railroads are equipping their tracks with electric automatic signals, which eliminate the human element entirely at a cost of three thousand dollars per mile of double track and more. I tell you, sir, that the reason that these matters can be safely let to the railroads is that wrecks do not pay. Locomotives cost from eighteen to twenty-two thousand dollars, and some types as much as thirty thousand dollars; passenger cars cost from thirteen to fifteen thousand dollars, and freight cars from eight hundred to twelve hundred dollars. Now then there is a wreck a large amount of property belonging to the railroad is necessarily destroyed. If a few cars crumble up, there is an expense that would pay one-half dozen trainmen for a year, and more than that the goods that are carried by our railroads are costly, all sorts of merchandise are carried and a wreck will destroy that and even the coal scattered by a lot of cars means a loss of money to the railroad. And the law of Pennsylvania is very strict as to the liability of railroads. They cannot contract against their own negligence, nor can they limit their liability nor that which is caused by their gross negligence; in other words, they are insurers to carry the goods safely. Now you can leave it to the men that manage these railroads because, as my friend from Berks said, they are not philanthropists. They are business men and they must manage their railroads economically and well and you can safely leave it to them to see to it that they do not have these enormous losses. And, gentlemen of the House, it is only a few years ago that a New York Central wreck, with a loss of one life, cost that railroad in a verdict two hundred and fifty thousand dollars; and under the Federal Liability Act any employe engaged in interstate commerce can recover damages with very little difficulty if there is any negligence whatever on the part of the railroad company. Therefore, I say to you that economy alone would cause these men who manage these railroads to put the extra man on if there is any need for it; and, sir, I am not in favor of any arbitrary law. Where is the virtue in the thirty-car train as against the twenty-nine-car train? Why must there be an extra man? I submit, sir, that under certain conditions it would be absolutely necessary to add an extra man for a less number of cars than thirty and under other conditions fifty to sixty cars could be carried more safely than thirty cars with a full crew. But, after all, this is an economic question and I say to you that there is no business in this world that is so rich that you can ever impose upon it by law an extra man. Why, this cry of men losing their jobs is as old as the development of modern industry. Away back about 1738 John Kay invented the power loom and improved the shuttle and it caused a riot in England in those days; and every one of you here who was a boy thirty or forty years ago can remember how the old men in the country stood around and lamented in those days when they reaped the grain with the sickle and contended that the invention of the grain cradle was an economic loss and put some men out of jobs; and then a little later McCormick gave us the reaper and that was likewise commented upon by the laboring men; and I myself well remember how they stood around the country stores and cross-roads and said that the self-binder was the invention of the devil and would drive the laboring man out of his home. You see how fallacious all of this has been. Farm labor is higher paid now than at any other time and can scarcely be had at all.

Now I submit, gentlemen, that under these circumstances it would be a economic crime to put something on to these railroads or anybody else, to put something on railroads they did not need.

Now, there has been something said about this campaign, about the great number of letters and petitions. I admit, sir, yea, I aver that the letters were a common nuisance to the members of this House and I do not believe that there is a disenting voice here; and I tell you that as a lawyer in the country I know how easy it is to get people to sign petitions. But suppose we throw all those out of it. Suppose we throw away all the foreign letters and rely upon the letters and conversations you had with your constituents, good solid business men, having hard common sense and consider what they say about it, and I say, to you, sir, that that kind of men believe that the railroads of this Commonwealth are competent to manage their train business. The railroads brought their lawyers here and instructed our railroad committee with respect to this matter and then the Brotherhood of Trainmen brought their lawyers here and likewise instructed us and that committee brought this bill out on the floor of the House and it is here before you to-night. How do the people of other parts of this country feel on this question? You all remember what Missouri did, where they had a referendum on this subject and, sir, I believe if it were a matter of referendum in Pennsylvania the verdict would be the same as it was in Missouri.

Now, with respect to the so-called pledge of the Republican party: No one here, I take it, was nominated by the senior Senator from Pennsylvania but we were nominated by the people of our respective districts at the primaries and, while I have great respect for his judgment and wisdom, I do not think that his promise to the trainmen is binding upon a single individual in this House. It was not a part of any party platform and we are responsible to our constituents for what we do here, and if we do not repeal this act we will be guilty of not doing the best by the people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. EHRHARDT. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, as sponsor of this bill at the session of 1911 I feel it encumbent upon me to say a few words against the repeal and in favor of the organized railway trainmen.

The full crew was considered necessary by railroad managements when trains (particularly freights), were half the length they are to-day and traffic over the rails was very much lighter than it is to-day. Railroad managements have cut down expenses of operation tremendously by the increased power of their locomotives and the coupling of them together, in order to save the cost of additional train crews. They do not tell us anything about that in their advertisements, nor do they tell us what happens in the event of an accident when firemen, dripping, with perspiration are forced to go out and act as flagman in order to protect their own lives. The safety of the travelling public and the safety of the men who spend their working hours on the rails, depends largely on the well manning of trains, and the cause of humanity demands that the present law be retained unaltered on the statute books.

Members of the Legislature will make a grave mistake if they pay any heed to the deluge of letters that are being mailed to them requesting that they vote for the repeal of the full crew bill, for the benefit of the railroads. Ninety-nine out of every hundred of these letters are practically the same in form and substance showing clearly that they have been sent out under orders from some where. It is needless to discuss their real authorship. No man need be at a loss to guess rightly and know what to do under the circumstances.

At the time of the passage of this act in the House at the session of 1911 the vote was 131 for the bill and 7 against. There are now sitting in this House as members twenty-two who voted for the bill. There are none here who voted against it.

In the Senate, after the bill passed the House, it was a long time coming from the Judiciary Special Committee. On a resolution offered and presented to the Senate that that Committee be discharged from further consideration of the said bill, which was then numbered 353, known as the Full Crew Bill, the vote of said resolution asking that it be discharged and the bill placed upon the calendar, was 43 in favor and only 3 against. In the Senate, when it reached third reading and a vote taken thereon, the vote was 37 for the bill and none against, practically a unanimous vote of all those present at the time. And out of the thirty-seven there are still members who have been returned two years ago and in this session fourteen members who had voted for the bill. You will find very few there who at that time had the slightest intention of talking against it. Even while no one voted against it there were some not in favor of it but they all remained silent when their names were called.

I want to call the attention of the majority members of this House to this matter which has been mentioned particularly by the gentlemen on the other side of the House, that we are responsible to the laboring world of Pennsylvania for their care and well-being. We have promised them many times in our State platform and in our local county speeches and our platforms that we are favorable towards organized labor. Pass this bill and the Republican Party will be haunted and rue it for many years to come.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I believe that what the people of Pennsylvania want in connection with this matter is fair play, I do not care whether it be a great corporation or whether it be a humble workman. When we impose a law that results in the compulsion of capital paying wages from which there is no value derived, it becomes an economic waste and an economic monstrosity and is therefor unjust.

Mr. Speaker, in 1913 when we passed the Public Utilities Bill I came to the conclusion that the purpose of that bill was to perform the service that is now being performed by a rigid law in respect to railroad employes. There is no question in my mind that this bill is entirely too rigid and if we substitute for this law the Public Utilities Commission we will get flexibility which we need in the regulation of train crews. To my mind there can be no doubt that different trains need different size crews. That being so, it seems unjust that the railroad company should be compelled to submit to a rigid law that spells loss and inefficiency to them. I believe that we should divert this lost energy and this lost capital to productive channels, and that the sooner we do that the scooner we will be doing a service to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Anything that makes for the prosperity of the railroads without injuring the service, makes for the prosperity of the country and of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

Mr. RICH. Mr. Speaker, I wish to speak a word on this subject defining my position before voting. I have received a large number of letters from my constituents and the people in my county, asking me to vote for the repeal of this act, for the repeal of the Act of 1911. And I have received a few letters from trainmen; presenting their interests. I have had conversations with both sides, —men representing either side,—and I am satisfied there are two sides to this question. In Huntingdon County there is a railroad about ten miles in length, belonging to a friend of mine, who tells me that every time he wants a box car sent out to his works, it requires five men to accompany the box car over those ten miles of road. They tell me it takes a great many more men on steep inclines in some sections than it does in others; that it takes more men for local trains that do a great deal of shifting than it does for through trains that run for one hundred miles or more without stopping.

Now, from the fact that we have had so many letters, and so many requests to repeal the law of 1911, I believe that there are a great many people who think it is unnecessary to employ the full crew on many occasions, and I do believe that there is not a man that is employed by a railroad company but desires to believe that he is an asset to the company. I think if he did not think so he would resign, and I believe that when there is such a strong sentiment on the part of so many people, or opinion rather, that they are employed unnecessarily, and the fact that the railroad company itself thinks that they are unnecessarily employed, I would think some times that these employes would feel somewhat uncomfortable, and I think, Mr. Speaker, that these employes have a right to know that they are an asset. I believe that they would desire to know that they are an asset to the company; that the people should know it. They would like to have the seal of approval on their positions, and when the railroad will not recognize them as being an asset to the company, I believe it would be to their interests to have the Public Service Commission pass on the fact that they are an asset to the company.

Now, there are only two questions to my mind, worthy of consideration in this matter, and that is the one of economics and the other of safety. Now, while they may not be an economic value to the railroad company, they may be a valuable asset to the safety of the public, and if their matter can be brought before the Commission, and after careful investigation of whether they are needed or not, whether their services are an asset to the public service or public safety, and have the seal of approval by that commission, it will establish the fact in the mind of all good-thinking people, that they are a necessity and there will not be the criticism we have to-day about them being an unnecessary burden upon the railroad company. And I shall vote for this bill because it will put the seal of approval upon their labor. I do not believe it will throw very many of them out of employment. I believe this Public Utilities Commission will discover they are needed by the railroad company and they will have the advantage of the seal of approval of this Commission, and for that reason I shall vote for this bill.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, it was my thought to go into this subject at some length, but after the time that has been taken up in the discussion of this measure, I think it would be unwise and it would be imposing upon the patience of this House for me to go over the situation. I hold in my hands a pamphlet that was put out by the Trainmen for the purpose of showing the necessity of the Full Crew Bill. I also hold in my hand the report made by the trainmaster of the division of the Lehigh Valley Railroad that runs through my section of the country. I also hold in my hand the report made on this subject by Superintendent Shea of the Wyoming Division of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Now, gentlemen, I am not going into those reports.

I also have here the statistics of the number of trains that were run over the road during the month of February, and these reports cover the month of February, 1915, together with the number of men whom this Full Crew Law employs on that division.

Now, I want to say that in coming to my conclusion,—in forming my judgment upon this matter, that I have tried to do it in all fairness. Railroading is not my business, consequently I had to depend upon the evidence in the case,—and gentlemen, when I want evidence that I can depend upon, I go to those with whom I have associated and to those with whom I am acquainted. I went to the gentlemen who represent the railroad on the Wyoming Division, that passes through Wyoming County, and I went to the trainmen that run over that road with whom I am acquainted, and I want to say to this House that but three questions entered into my mind when I reached the decision to vote for this measure, namely: Shall the State exercise control over the railroad to the extent of saying how many men they must employ to operate their trains? Gentlemen, I answered yes to that question. The State is a partnership arrangement with these railroads. These railroads are running through our State with and by the consent of the State and it is no more than right and just that the Sate should have something to say concerning how those roads are run.

Now, gentlemen, I believe that the provisions that are made in this bill for the manning of these trains is better than the Full Crew Bill for this reason. I do not know but what this Commission will place more men upon these trains than are on today. I know that in many instances the railroads themselves have more men upon the trains than the law requires. They do that to protect their own interests and I have every reason to believe that the commission appointed by our Governor ta adjust labor conditions. after the interest he has shown in labor, in forcing this bill, this Compensation bill through this House; the Child Labor Bill through this House, he will see to it when he appoints that Commission, that upon that Commission will be railroad men, men of experience, men who will know what is best for the laboring man; men who will be fair in their judgment, and fair in their decisions.

The second thing that entered into my consideration was, are these men necessary to the safety of the traveling public. Gentlemen, I have in my hand the statistics of the number of accidents that have occurred in each year since this law has taken effect. I also have the number of accidents that occurred before this Full Crew Bill went into effect and I have taken into consideration the increase in traffic and the increase in the number of people who travel on our roads, and I can see very little if any difference between the number of accidents to-day under this bill, and the number of accidents that occurred when they did not have this bill. Furthermore, since the time this bill went into effect a great many safety appliances have been taken up by the railroads and placed upon their trains and in their service, and I contend, gentlemen, that just as much care in regard to the safety of the traveling public has been looked after by these automatic appliances as has been looked after by the Full Crew Law.

Third, what do my people, the people who are my constituents say about this matter? That is the third and last question I took under consideration. Gentlemen, I talked with all the trainmen; I talked with all the managers of the railroads, and with the men who run the business over that division and not a single man has asked me to vote against this bill from among my constituents. Vote against this bill conforming with my constituents. I have been asked to vote in support of this measure and, gentlemen it is my judgment that this measure ought to pass; that these men and the business of these railroad ought to be put under this commission of which we speak I will not bother you with any further talk on this subject, because it is useless. I don't expect that anything I will say will change the vote, but I want to make my position plain before this House and with the people whom I have the honor to represent in this House.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I think the House fully understands the question, and therefore, I will file my remarks.

ADDRESS BY MR. BALDWIN.

RIGHT THINKING.

It is always attractive to the masses and will rivet their attention when, in an emotional harangue, one pictures in extravagant elocution the miseries of the unfortunate and by specious deceitful insinuation imply that the fault lies at the door of the successful, energetic rival, or great captains of progressive civilization.

Within the last ten years Railroad Captains were murderers because they would not faster displace the human element in the management of trains, by the installation of mechanical devices. Now, you curse them because they have done so and which necessarily reduced the crew, and now we find upon the Statutes inelastic regulations that have caused unnecessary expense and no relief whatever in the reduction of danger to either the traveling public or employes. The facts prove that the railroads have by great expenditure reduced enormously the accident ratio which I will show if you give me time.

STATUTES CONTROLLING PUBLIC SERVICE UTILITIES.

Fifty years ago legislation aiding this character of our business life was encouraged from every standpoint. These great utilities were sorely needed in the development of a new country. The public subscribed and gave freely for railway construction without thought of dividend; urged and encouraged telegraph companies; were delighted when the great telephone had been demonstrated to be practical. Trolley companies leading out into and developing rural life was heralded as a new Moses. Yet, no sooner had these great enterprises gotten into practical operation than demands were made upon the legislature curtailing certain features of their business, and advocating heavy taxes from time to time inflexible statutes have been placed upon our statute books, regulating the conduct of these corporations. In a spirit of antagonism, and, now too frequently, by misrepresentation, truths are perverted and now we find thousands of statutes, mostly borne of the impractical mind and reduced to the concrete by men of no experience in these particular activities.

As our State and Nation developed, the populistic or socialistic sentiment increased, thus we might say, for a period of at least twenty years it has been considered the proper thing to cry out and condemn these great arteries of commerce.

It soon developed that the inflexible nature of a statute was indeed a poor remedy for even whatever ills might exist. Master minds and the public in general realized this and looked for a better method of regulating these great essentials of modern civilization. It was out of these conditions that the idea of a commission was borne. It was the inflexibility of statutes that lead up to this thought and it is now conceded by all men of experience that it is a very much wiser course to place in the hands of a selected tribunal, discreetly, power to regulate in every detail from the inception and organization of the corporation, down to and including, so far as steam railroads are concerned, the crewing of their trains, thus the statute proposed by myself is clearly and definitely in line with this thought.

Ex-Attorney General Bell dwelt specifically and with great force on his own hyperbolic diatrade, loaded with a populistic thought so prevalent in the west twenty years ago, but now so completely exploded that even an ex-Attorney General, one might think, would no longer attempt to exploit this discarded and impractical theorem.

With distended chest and the poise of a Cicero this past master as a hyperbole artist wiped the sweat of honest toil from his brow as in his own vociferous elocutionary style, he iterated and reiterated and dwelt upon and intensified his own declaration that this great Pennsylvania Octopus, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, never gave up a dollar, ofttimes wrung from the public by questionable methods, until forced to do so by the court of last resort.

Again I must say to you think right—think with me. I will tell you the truth. Bell may call it by whatever name as suits him best.

Before telling you this story I must give you a little history, relating to the legislature of 1913, in which he, as Attorney General, played so important a part. As you all know, the Public Service Commission was created by Statute drafted by this same Bell, was endorsed almost without the crossing of a "t" or the dotting of an "i" by both Houses and signed by the Governor and is now the law in Pennsylvania, empowering the Public Service Commission to practically control and direct every public service corporation within this State.

I well remember how this man plead and argued, not only before the commission, but as he moved around through and among the membership, pleading for its passage. He sat in this House by the side of the member who had the bill in charge at the time of passage, in the halls of this Chamber and when Representative John R. K. Scott by motion attempted to have him removed from the halls of the House, the membership opposed his removal. I well remember the magnificent and strenous argument made before the Committee to secure the endorsement of a majority of the Committee so the bill might come before the House with an affirmative recommendation. The contest in the Committee was desperate and hard fought. It was only by a majority of one on a final vote to report the bill that they agreed to stand by the proposition as laid down in the context of the bill, by what was considered the thought of two of the best minds on the subject at that time, namely: Attorney General Bell and Wm. Draper Lewis. I can well remember how the Attorney General, under the stress and excitement of the moment, after he had won, break down and, to his everlasting honor, was forced to wipe tears from his eyes.

As I sat in the hall of this House a few days ago and heard this same man belabor, minimize and ridicule his own work and when he in the midst of his own efforts, stop to wipe the perspiration from his forehead, I could not help but say to myself "no wonder that you should perspire, the only wonder is that a man who, for a fee, could stand out in the presence of a legislative body and attempt to tear down his own structure" and, I might add, that the Pennsylvania Statute creating the Public Service Commission stands to-day in the minds of statesmen as one of the best drafted propositions on the Statute Books of any State in the Union; it contains the best thought and the last word that experience and intelligence dictated at that time. The Bill that I ask you to vote for is absolutely in complete harmony with the thought in the argument of not only Attorney General Bell, but of the best minds in the legislative halls in 1913. It is well known that Governor Tener said at time of signing the crew bill that had the utility bill passed he would not have signed the crew bill.

In his discourse of March 30th indirectly he likened the author of this proposition (sweeping aside all technicality) as one who cared not for the lives of the traveling public or the employes; thinking them unworthy of consideration when the almighty dollar was involved. What men must feel that the public has some confidence or at least would like to have some confidence in their declaration, can feel called upon to reverse themselves in such extravagant language is beyond my comprehension. It is not my purpose to extoll the virtues or the philanthropy of corporations it is not my purpose to extoll the virtue in the purposes of the labor organizations; neither is it my purpose to be-little or misrepresent either of them. It is my purpose and to the extent of my ability I will try to tell the unvarnished truth and analize this this subject sanely and plainly without either resorting to Mr. Bell's pet phrase "hyperbole" or extravagant elocution.

Not a dollar, he said, will the public utility corporations give unless it be wrung from them by the strong arm of the law.

My friends, the Pennsylvania Railroad, East of Pittsburgh and Erie, were the founders, in February, 1886, of an organization known as the Voluntary Relief Association, that has aided the unfortunate to the extent of nearly $35,000,000.00—$6,000,000.00 of this contribution was given voluntarily by the Railroad Company.

The Department employs a Chief Medical Examiner, 30 Medical Examiners and 39 Assistant Medical Examiners, who lend assistance in case of accident or sickness to the members of this Association. They make periodical examinations covering all employes of railroad restaurants and dining cars and others who have anything at all to do with the handling of food in order to guard against the transmission of communicable diseases and also look after the sanitary conditions generally.

This Company also provides for what is known as a superannuation allowance to members of this relief fund, all of which is paid by the Company. In 1900 they established what is known as the Pension Department. The operation of this department was approved by the Board of Directors and all employes who have attained the age of 70 years are compulsorily retired upon a pension for the remainder of their life. This also applies to employes between the ages of 65 and 70 years, in case of disability, who shall have had 30 years or more serviec. These pensions are paid monthly and the expense is borne entairely by the corporation. Since the Department was established it has paid out $8,157,750.00 up to January 1, 1915. They give free hospital service to the injured, they furnish artificial limbs and other mechanical applicances made necessary by accident in the Company's service. I am probably entirely correct when I say there is not an individual employer of labor or a corporation other than a public utility corporatin within the State that has given more for assistance to the unfortunate and aged as has been done by this great public utility corporation.

Add to this great philanthropic work what is known as the Railroad Y. M. C. A., which organization has been given every encouragement and much financial assistance. The total expense of operation of this Association for 1914 was $210,264.00, the Pennsylvania Railroad contributed towards this the sum of $103,000.00. They occupy buildings and space in terminals owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company valued at $657,000.00.

The equipment of these associations consists of library, bowling alleys, gymnasiums, reading rooms, educational class rooms, rest rooms, assembly hall and outdoor athletic fields.

The educational courses consist of practical and technical education, applying to the great air-brake system, the equipment and electrical operation of trains, teaching stenography, telegraphy, mechanical drawing, shop arithmetic, bookkeeping, penmanship, english and accounting.

The greatest work of this Association is gospel meetings, lobby talks, bible classes and shop meetings. Every effort is made through meetings of this association, which are attended by officers as well as employes, to encourage and stimulate esprit de corps on this system, bringing together for the largest and best emphasis of the altruistic and co-operative spirit.

IMPROVEMENTS NOT REQUIRED BY LAW IN THE LAST FEW YEARS ON LINES EAST OF PITTSBURGH AND ERIE.

Stone ballast.

120 pound steel rail to replace 90 and 100 pound rail

Increasing the number of cross-ties per 33 foot rail from 16 to 18 and 20.

Replacing iron bridges with concrete.

Removal of 430 grade crossings during the ten years ended with 1913, at a cost of over twenty-seven million dollars.

Installation of interlocking switches at a cost of over six million dollars.

Eliminating all short cross-over switches with longer ones to make train movements more safe.

Installation of automatic signals from New York to Pittsburgh at a cost of six million dollars, relieving the operators of the responsibility of block operation, thereby eliminating the human factor in train operation to a considerable extent.

Building of all steel passenger cars.

Adoption of electric lights in passenger equipment, relieving trainmen of the work of attending to the old style lights.

Increased inspection of rolling stock and equipment at a cost of two million dollars annually.

Erection of the largest grain elevator in the east, at Girard Point, Philadelphia, to facilitate the movement of grain, which can be moved from Duluth to Liverpool at a cost of eleven cents per bushel.

Building of all steel freight cars to handle the grain shipments.

Building of all steel milk cars for the accommodation of the milk business.

Perhaps no more forceful illustrations could be advanced showing what the railroads have required of their employes and the compensation given them than a comparison with like services in other countries and what could be more convincing then the cold figures, showing the wages of this class of labor on the Pennsylvania Railroad as compared with wages paid by railroads of European countries?

The average annual compensation of Pennsylvania Railroad employes is $882.44; or $16.98 per week. Consider these figures in the light of the following statistics, including British, German, French, Austrian, Hungarian, Russian, Swiss, Italian and Belgian Railways, many of these being government owned:

Average weekly earnings of Insular Kingdom Railway employes is	$ 6 65
Average yearly earnings of German Empire Railway employes is	361 00
Average yearly earnings of Austrian Railway employes is	190 00
Average yearly earnings of Hungarian Railway employes is	293 00
Average yearly earnings of French Railway employes is	208 60
Average yearly earnings of Russian Railway employes is	187 00
Average yearly earnings of Swiss Railway employes is	321 50
Average yearly earnings of Italian Railway employes is	392 00
Average yearly earnings of Belgian Railway employes is	300 00

It is the marvel of the age that the freight rate in America, considering the great difference in the cost of operation, should remain at the low figure that they now are, notwithstanding the fact that the European countries pay their railroad employes such a low wage. It is a fact that in every country in Europe where railroads are government owned they ae a losing proposition. The railroad situation in Japan is even more impressive. Imagine clerks working for $11.66 per month. General employes, female, receive only $4.49 and male, $7.65 per month.

It occurs to me when we take into consideration what the rest of the world is doing and how, from a wage standpoint, the railroads in Pennsylvania has given a wage that would look princely in any European country, that it would seem impossible that there should be any of the feeling that now exists against these public activities.

In the face of these facts the public mind is diverted from the truth by people who either intentionally or through ignorance endeavor to spread dissension and the spirit of disorganization and insubordination to the great injury of the public, the employees and the managers of the business.

Dealing with the subject solely from a safety standpoint. there is not even a ray of light from any angle that indicates that this law has served any useful purpose in reducing the number of accidents in the operation of the railroad systems in Pennsylvania. Attorney General Bell and others have persisted in quoting the Railroad Commissioner's report, covering the year 1913.

In no place does the Interstate Commerce Commission even mention a lack of employes as a cause of accident, or that accidents in a single instance are due to an insufficient operating force. In eight pages of their 27th annual report they devote themselves entirely to the subject of accidents for the year 1913. In that report they emphasize the fact that they have previously iterated the same criticism, namely: human error and larger user of mechanical devices as the only sane remedy.

The unfortunate condition at the present time is the persistence in unions to control the business instead of allowing the managers more lattitude in the administration of their business. It too often happens that the instance of employes fixing rules by their unions run counter to the company's wise control of the management.

Out of the initiative by government but little has ever occurred in our life worthy of mention.

Invention and development of ideas down all the ages has been the work of the individual oftimes as the master mind directing some great corporation which in America almost always represents the savings of the multitude consisting often of widows and orphans and always the savings of our common people. In one great Railway system the P. R. R. of this State alone probably 100,000 of our citizenship are part owners.

Pennsylvania tried its hand in 1826 at government management of public utility. A Commission was appointed to begin operation and Pennsylvania embarked in the enterprise of government ownership and operation of public utilities, under a State Commission. Governor Wolfe in his message in 1833 in flattering terms perdicted a glorious future of development and positive prediction of great profit to the State by the operation of these utilities. Alas, how soon our fondest idols perish and disappear to be heard of no more amongst men.

By 1842 our State debt had reached what was then thought the appalling figure of over $42,000,000. In the year 1856 the total profit in the operation of these utilities was only $62,100 over cost of operation. As early as 1834 there was in operation over 700 miles of canal and railroad development. The Commission or government experiment had been in operation over thirty years by 1856. Instead of showing a profit over operating expenses and legal interest on bonds there was an actual shortage on interest account.

Actual figures for the year 1856 were receipts $2,006,000.00 expenses $1,943,900.00, leaving but $62,100 to pay interest on a debt of over $42,000,000.00, thus the people were called upon to pay a tribute which at that time reached the appalling figure of over $2,000,000.00. This amount at that time meant more than $20,000,000.00 now.

On June 25th, 1857 the State turned over to private or corporate ownership for the sum of seven and one-half million dollars.

This corporation was what is now known as the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Time will not allow me to tell you the story of the activities and achievements of its wonderful history. Briefly, I can say very very few if any, in the annals of history have matched it. From that paltry seven and one-half million it is now reconned by billions.

Just pause, look, listen, the representatives of our empire quibbling over the question of whether this great company should not be required to hire one more man under certain circumstances. We have often heard of people trying to make believe a mole hill was a mountain. Really this is trying to make believe a drop of water is an ocean.

It was in 1858 that the State closed its final sale of all this class of holdings for the sum of three and one-half millions to the Sunbury and Erie Railroad Company at that time. Gov. Packer said, "I have an abiding confidence in the wisdom of the transfer and a divorcing of the State from the demoralizing and unprofitable management of railroads and canals and that the public welfare will be vastly benefited by the change."

On the question, recurring

Shall the bill pass finally?

House Bill No. 867,

An Act conferring authority upon the commissioners of the counties respectively within this Commonwealth to appropriate money for the maintenance of such indigent residents of the county as may be patients in a hospital or sanitorium of any district in the county which has been erected and equipped according to plans and specifications approved by the Department of Health of Pennsylvania

With the information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE.

Mr. WHITAKER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 225, File Folio 4883, entitled,

An Act defining fraternal benefit societies and their status authorizing such societies to create subordinate lodges and to pay benefits upon the sickness disability or death of their members from funds collected and regulating such benefits Providing for the organization of such societies and for their licensing supervision regulation and examination by the Insurance Commissioner and for the admission of foreign societies Designating tables of mortality to be used and establishing a standard of solvency Requiring all societies to make annual reports and all foreign societies to appoint the Insurance Commissioner as attorney for service of process Providing penalties for any violation of the act Exempting certain societies from its provisions and requiring beneficial associations other than fraternal benefit societies to report to and be supervised by the Insurance Commissioner and repealing existing laws was defeated on Final Passage on Monday, April 12th, be reconsidered.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion.

The SPEAKER declared the nays appeared to have it.

Whereupon a division was called for, 49 gentlemen voting in the affirmative and 140 gentlemen voting in the negative, and the motion was not agreed to.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I move this House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to and (at 11:35 P. M.) the House adjourned to meet at 10:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Session 1915 121st of the General Assembly

VOL. 3. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, APRIL 20, 1915. No. 45.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, April 20, 1915.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Rev. J. D. Campbell, Pastor of the Greenfield Avenue Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, Pa., offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, Preserver and Redeemer of mankind, we worship Thee as the everpresent God, who, though unseen, art not far from any one of us. We thank Thee for Thy kindness; we adore Thee for Thy love, and now as we are about to begin the deliberations of this day, fill us with such a profound sense of our indebtedness to Thee and our obligations to our fellowmen that every thought, word and deed may bring glory to Thee and a blessing to our country. Pardon all our sins and accept of us in the name of Thy Son. Amen.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HERBST, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PETITIONS.

AGAINST SENATE BILL NO. 737.

Mr. FARLEY presented 8 petitions of citizens of Philadelphia protesting against the passage of Senate Bill No. 737.

Which were referred to the Committee on Municipal Affairs.

The Chair presented two petitions of citizens of Philadelphia protesting against the passage of Senate Bill No. 737.

Which were referred to the Committee on Municipal Affairs.

FAVORING MEMORIAL TO MOLLY PITCHER.

Mr. MARTIN presented petition of citizens of Cumberland County, favoring the erection of a memorial to Molly Pitcher.

Which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. WASBERS presented petition of citizens of York County, favoring the erection of a memorial to Molly Pitcher.

Which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

MEMORIAL TO PUBLIC SCHOOLS AND FOUNDERS THEREOF.

Mr. MARTIN presented petition of citizens of Cumberland County favoring the erection of a memorial to the public schools and the founders thereof.

Which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. SPROUL in the Chair.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, I move to amend the bill as follows:

After the word, "Eight," on line 4 of section one, strike out the rest of the bill and insert in lieu thereof the following: "Section Six, of Article Eight, Rule One of Article Twelve, Rule Thirty-six of Article Twelve, Section Four of Article Thirteen, Section Eight of Article Seventeen, and Article Eighteen of an act entitled, 'An Act to provide for the health and safety of persons employed in and about the Anthracite Coal Mines of Pennsylvania and for the protection and preservation of property connected therewith,'" approved second day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, as said act now stands, as heretofore amended by acts of Assembly approved the twentieth day of April, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, Pamphlet Laws 65, the eight day of June, one thousand nine hundred and one, Pamphlet Laws 535, the thirteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and three, Pamphlet Laws 359, the third day of May, one thousand nine hundred and five, Pamphlet Laws 363, the third day of May, one thousand nine hundred and nine, Pamphlet Laws, 420, and the fifth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, Pamphlet Laws 120, be and the same are hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 2. That section one of article eight of said act which reads as follows:

"Section 1. It shall not be lawful, neither shall it be permitted, for any person or persons to act as mine foreman or as assistant mine foreman of any coal mines or colliery, unless they are registered as a holder of a certificate of qualification or service under this act," be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. It shall not be lawful, neither shall it be permitted for any person to act as Mine Foreman or Assistant Mine Foreman of any coal mine or colliery, unless they are registered as a holder of a certificate of qualification or service under this act, or unless, in the judgment of the employer, he is a person possessed of qualifications which make him equally competent to act in such position."

Section 3. That section six of article eight of said act which reads as follows:

"Section 6. No mine shall be operated for a longer period than thirty days without the supervision of a mine foreman. In case any mine is worked for a longer period than thirty (30) days without such certified mine foreman, the owner, operator or superintendent thereof, shall be subject to a penalty of twenty dollars per day for each day over the said thirty (30) days during which the said mine is operated," be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 6. No mine shall be operated for a longer period than thirty days without the supervision of a mine foreman. In case any mine is worked a longer period than thirty days without a mine foreman, the owner, operator, or superintendent thereof shall be subjected to a penalty of twenty dollars per day for each day over the said thirty days during which the said mine is operated.

Section 4. That rule one of article twelve of said act which reads as follows:

"Rule 1. The owner, operator or superintendent of a mine or colliery shall use every precaution to ensure the safety of the workmen in all cases, whether provided for in this act or not, and he shall place the underground workings thereof, and all that is related to the same, under the charge and daily supervision of a comeptent person who shall be called, 'Mine Foreman,'" be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Rule 1. The owner, operator and superintendent of a mine or colliery shall use every precaution to ensure the safety of the workmen in all cases whether provided for in this act or not and shall have supervision, direction and control of the Mine Foreman and all other mine employes."

Section 5. That rule thirty-six of article twelve of said act which reads as follows:

"Rule 36. A person who is not a practical miner shall not charge or fire a blast in the absence of an experienced miner, unless he has given satisfactory evidence of his ability to do so with safety, and has obtained permission from the mine foreman or person in charge," be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

Rule 36. A person who is not a practical miner shall not charge or fire a blast in any anthracite coal mine in this Commonwealth in the absence of an experienced miner.

Section 6. That section four of article thirteen of said act which reads as follows:

"Section 4. Due notice of an intended inquest to be held by the coroner, shall be given by the coroner to the inspector, and at any such inquest the inspector shall have the right to examine witnesses," be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 4. Due notice of an intended inquest to be held by the coroner shall be given by the coroner to the inspector and at any such inquest the mine inspector and any representative of a party in interest shall have the right to examine witnesses and read the law governing the case to the coroner's jury.

Section 7. That section eight of article seventeen of said act which reads as follows:

"Section 8. That for any injury to person or property occasioned by any violation of this act or any failure to comply with its provisions by any owner, operator, superintendent, mine foreman or fire boss of any coal mine or colliery, a right of action shall accrue to the party injured against said owner or operator for any direct damages he may have sustained thereby; and in case of loss of life by reason of such neglect or failure aforesaid, a right of action shall accrue to the widow and lineal heirs of the person whose life shall be lost, for like recovery of damages for the injury they shall have sustained," be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 8. The mine foreman, assistant mine foreman, fire boss and any person placed in charge of the works or any part thereof shall be the agent of the owners and operators and such owners and operators shall employ them and discharge them at will.

Section 8. That article eighteen of said act which reads as follows:

"Article 18. In this act, unless the context otherwise requires, the term 'coal mine or colliery' includes every operation and work, both under ground and above ground, used or to be used for the purpose of mining and preparing coal.

The term "workings" includes all the excavated parts of a mine, those abandoned as well as the places actually at work.

The term "mine" includes all underground workings and excavations and shafts, tunnels and other ways and openings; also all such shafts, slopes, tunnels and other openings in course of being sunk or driven, together with all roads, appliances, machinery and material connected with the same below the surface.

The term "shaft" means a vertical opening through the strata and which is or may be used for the purpose of ventilation or drainage or for hoisting men or material in connection with the mining of coal.

The term "slope" means any inclined way or opening used for the same purpose as a shaft.

The term "breaker" means the structure containing the machinery used for the preparation of coal.

The term "owners" and "operators" means any person or body corporate who is the immediate proprietor or lessee or occupier of any coal mine or colliery or any part thereof. The term "owner" does not include a person or body corporate who merely receives a royalty, rent or fine from a coal mine or colliery or part thereof, or is merely the proprietor of the mine subject to any lease, grant or license for the working or opening thereof, or is merely the owner of the soil and not interested in the minerals of the mine or any part thereof. But any "contractor" for the working of a mine or colliery or any part or district thereof, shall be subject to this act as an operator or owner in like manner as if he were the owner.

The term "superintendent" means the person who shall have, on behalf of the owner, general supervision of one or more mines or collieries," be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

Article 18. In this act, unless the contract otherwise requires, the term, "coal mine or colliery", includes every operation and work, both under ground and above ground, used or to be used for the purpose of mining and preparing coal.

The term "superintendent" means the person who shall have, on behalf of the owner, general supervision of one or more mines or collieries.

The term "miner" means the person who cuts or blasts coal or rock at the face of a gangway, airway, breast, pillar or other working-place.

And amend the title of said act as follows: After the word "eight" on line 1, strike out the rest of the title and insert in lieu thereof the following:

Section six of article eight, rule one of article twelve, rule thirty-six of article twelve, section four of article thirteen, section eight of Article seventeen and article eighteen of an act entitled, "An Act to provide for the health and safety of persons employed in and about the anthracite coal mines of Pennsylvania and for the protection and preservation of property connected therewith," approved the second day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

As said act now stands, as heretofore amended by acts of Assembly approved on the Twentieth day of April, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, Pamphlet Laws 65, the eighth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and one, Pamphlet Laws 535, the thirteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and three, Pamphlet Laws 359, the third day of May, one thousand nine hundred and five, Pamphlet Laws 363, the third day of May, one thousand nine hundred and nine, Pamphlet Laws 420 and the Fifth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, Pamphlet Laws 120.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Chairman, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Committee of the Whole agree to the amendment?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, I desire to say in support of these amendments which I have offered to this bill that they do nothing except bring the miner within the operation of the language of the proposed Compensation Law, and if that Compensation Law should happen to fail, it puts them in on the exact basis that any other employee working in the State of Pennsylvania is brought under the law. The act of which this is an amendment was passed in 1891 and since that time, by reason of the decisions of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, the mine operators of Pennsylvania have relief from liability to their employees along the basis that because the mine foreman must be certified by the Secretary of Internal Affairs that the operator does not have the right of the free selection of that foreman, and I submit, Mr. President, that it is absurd to say that any mine operator in Pennsylvania selects any man as foreman of his mine unless it is his own selection. But by reason of the fact that there was read into the law in 1891 this provision that certificates must be issued by the Secretary of Internal Affairs, those operators have seen fit to stand by and be satisfied to take their exemption from liability to the miner. There has not been an accident in any of the mines except that the operator has been able to excuse himself from liability on the ground that he has not the free selection of his foreman, and, Mr. President, if this bill should not be enacted into a law any proposed compensation that we endeavor to put into effect at this session of the Legislature would be ineffective and inoperative as against those miners. The amendments which I have offered have been taken up carefully in the light of the decisions of the Supreme Court, particularly in Durkin, V. Kingston Coal Company, reported in 171 Pennsylvania at 193, and there is not a single thing contained in those amendments except to give the miner the protection that he deserves. This bill as it is reported out from the Committee would put this Senate, or any other Legislative body, into the most ridiculous position that any men could hope to ever have themselves placed in because it provides in the event that the General Assembly passes an act and the Governor approves a Workmen's Compensation Law, it shall not be lawful, neither shall it be permitted for any person to act as mine foreman, or assistant mine foreman unless he registers his letter or certificate of qualifications which certifies under this act that in the judgment of the employer he is a person possessed of qualifications which make him equally competent to act in such a position. What is the purpose of the proposed amendment inserted in committee? Why, Mr. President, it is this, and on this line there is considerable doubt in the mind of every lawyer in Pennsylvania, as to whether there can be sustained as constitutional a compensation bill, and the mine operator has two hopes, first that the compensation law will not be sustained, and secondly, if not sustained, he can go on for two years longer unless these amendments are read into the Mine Code, and to deprive men who lose their lives or are seriously injured in the mine from recovering for the negligence of the employer. These men are not asking anything except what is just and fair and they are asking what every employee in Pennsylvania is rightfully entitled to have, rightfully entitled to recover for the negligence of his employer, if he is not guilty of contributory negligence himself, and every word that is written into the amendments which I have submitted, Mr. Chairman, does nothing else except put these men in the same position that other men employed in Pennsylvania are entitled to have and have enjoyed for years; except that portion of the amendment which has been agreed upon in Committee, first, that before a Coroner's inquest a representative of the family has a right to be heard and examine witnesses; and another is a definition of the word "miner," and that, Mr. Chairman, has been brought about in a case brought in the local court in an opinion written by Judge McCarrell. He has been unable to interpret the term "miner" because of the failure of the definition contained therein, and the words that are mentioned in these amendments as a miner are what every person in Pennsylvania recognizes as a miner and it is absurd for a person to say when you send people into the mines that they should have these few words that were added on in the Committee is the definition of a miner in order that men may have the protection they are justly entitled to have.

Mr. Chairman, I do hope that this Senate will go on record of giving the miners of Pennsylvania what they rightfully and justly deserve, and that is to be placed upon the same plane that every other workman in Pennsylvania is entitled to have except the miners who are now working in the various mines of Pennsylvania. I do hope, Mr. Chairman, and my fellow Senators, that these amendments will prevail.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, after all those words, so very eloquently spoken, this bill that is now before the Senate for third reading gives to the miners everything the Senator from Dauphin has asked for. As he pointed to one clause in the bill which says that the miners do not come under the Workmen's Compensation Bill, the Durkin case, as I understand it, in 107 Pennsylvania, that case was decided against the miners or his heirs by virtue of the fact that the operator did not have the right of free selection. We have given in this bill here the right of free selection by the operator, not only by the language of Mr. Dewer who drew up this bill for the miners, but Mr. Dewer saw John G. Johnson, the greatest authority in the State possibly on mining law, and they are the words of John G. Johnson that are in here, which bring these men under the Workmen's Compensation Law. Now there is one other condition that met with very much opposition on the part of some of the interests here concerned and that was this: If we do give them the right of free selection of mine foremen or those equally competent the right to supervise and control and order their mine foremen and their miners as to what they shall do in the mines. I ask your attention for a moment to the language which shows that the operators are entirely responsible for every single act or action of the mine forman and the miners. At the bottom of page 3, rule 1 as amended, the owner, operator or superintendent of a mine or colliery shall use every precaution to insure the safety of the workmen in all cases, whether provided for in this act or not, and shall have the right to supervise, direct and control the work of the mine foremen and all other mine employees. Now, those are the two questions at issue in this great matter, and just by way of refreshing the memory of the Senators for a moment, see what an all-absorbing and great big problem this is. Two years ago two codes were submitted by the father of this bill, and these things were so far reaching that this Senate or the House did not agree upon either code. Now if we want to do what the Senator from Dauphin claims they ought to do, if they want to remedy this whole thing, I do ask, in all fairness, that the Commission which was appointed two years, or four years ago, should not be appointed to codify this great, wonderful project. There is no doubt in my mind that the workmen will possibly,—I am sure they will, come under the terms of the Workmen's Compensation Bill in this act, and by the words of John G. Johnson, and I trust that these amendments which were offered for the purpose of hampering this bill, will not prevail.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, I simply desire to say in reply to the Senator from Beaver that the amendments which I offered, which he says are covered by Rule 1 at the bottom of page three are covered in this manner, to which there can be no answer. There can be no question of the interpretation to be put upon them because it is in as plain language as I know it can be written. "A mine foreman, fire boss, or any person placed in charge of the work or any part thereof shall be the agent of the owners or operators and such owners and operators shall employ them and discharge them at will."

In addition to that, Mr. Chairman, I would further say in reply to the Senator from Beaver that one of the sections of the Supreme Court, interpreted in the Durkin case was secion 8, upon which this bill as coming from the Committee is now written, and why should you not take section 8 which has been interpreted by the Supreme Court and the law found by it and substitute in place of it language about which there can be no question, and language which substantially follows the act of 1907, which is known as the Employers' Liability Law.

I desire to read, for the information of the Senate, just what Mr. Johnson says on this question: "So long as there is any limitation upon the power of the operator to select his mine foreman, any law would, under our Supreme Court decisions, be unconstitutional, which would maintain that such foreman is the operator's agent to such extent as to make the latter responsible for the foremans' neglect. The only certain provision will be one which will remove the operator's duty to choose mine foremen as provided by existing legislation."

And where can there be any question when you say in exact language that the foreman whose right of selection rests with the operator and the operator alone shall be the agent of the operator and he shall have the power to employ and discharge him at will. Is there any fairness in the proposition from the other side? Why do they stand in the way of direct language which says that the mine foreman who shall be selected by the operator and the operator alone shall be the agent of that operator and when a man goes down into the mine he goes there resting assured that if there is any negligence upon the part of the employer if he should lose his life in the mines, his family has the right to recover, and if he should be maimed for the balance of his life he has the right to go into court and recover the damages to which he is justly entitled.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Beidleman.

The CHAIRMAN. Will the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Beidleman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, I will.

The CHAIRMAN. The Senator from Beaver, Mr. Thompson, will proceed.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, will the Senator point out to me please in this bill now before the Committee for consideration where under the law the operator does not have the right of free selection in hiring and discharging foremen.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, I say in reply to that question that Rule 1 instead of making it mandatory that the employe shall supervise you say, he "shall have the right to supervise." In the amendment proposed you give him the absolute right to employ and discharge and make him the positive agent of the operator.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, I wish to further interrogate the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Beidleman.

The CHAIRMAN. Will the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Beidleman, permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, I will.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, what does the Senator understand by "shall have the right to supervise,"—shall supervise? What do you understand by that phrase, what do you understand by the phrase "shall supervise, direct and control?"

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, "shall supervise" I take to mean that the operator has absolute control of his mine and where you put in the doubtful language "shall have the right to supervise" then you raise a doubtful question as to whether or not the mine foreman is the agent of the employer within the meaning of the Supreme Court decision.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, as I understand "shall supervise, direct and control" imposes upon any man, or set of men, I care not who they are, a physical impossibility to perform. A man who shall direct, control or supervise, —that is all here,—shall do so in person, not by an agent, and I say, sir, if you give the man who supervises and directs and controls the rights to do so then he can supervise, direct and control, or he can be represented by an agent and that is exactly what this does here, and the language of the amendment is absolutely a physical impossibility and that has been passed upon by the best authorities in this State.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Beaver, Mr. Thompson.

The CHAIRMAN. Will the Senator from Beaver, Mr. Thompson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, I will.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, if the language makes him the positive agent and there can be no question, why his object in putting in doubtful language that it may be necessary to have the Supreme Court interpret it, and possibly against the miners It is only a quibble about words, and why have any quibble when the one is positive and the other uncertain.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, I will answer that by saying that this bill has been personally considered by myself for the last five or six weeks. This matter here has been gone into very thoroughly. The amendments as proposed by the Senator from Dauphin would make it a physical impossibility for the operator or superintendent to be there in person and to direct and control. He cannot do it. What is wrong with this: "who shall have the right to supervise, direct and control, the work of the mine foreman and all other mine employes?" Can the superintendent be down at the bottom of the mine constantly watching over these men? Why put in language that you know cannot be enforced, and I think beyond any question of doubt whatever, there is not a shadow of doubt in my mind to-day that the miners are absolutely protected by this bill as it stands. If it were not for that fact the bill would not have been reported out.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, I desire to further interrogate the Senator from Beaver, Mr. Thompson.

The CHAIRMAN. Will the Senator from Beaver, Mr. Thompson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, I will.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN Mr. Chairman, as an evidence of good faith of this bill as it comes out of committee, I desire to ask the Senator from Beaver, if the amendment that is read in Section 1 at the foot of page 2 was not intended to create a doubt as to the constitutionality of the proposed Workmen's Compensation Act, and, in case that availed, whether or not the very evident purpose of the amendment was not to give the mine operator two years more of immunity from liability from negligence of mine foremen?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, I would say in answer to the Senator from Dauphin that the one thought that has permeated this Committee, the one thought that as permeated this Senate on this bill has been that the miners should come under the terms of the Workmen's Compensation Bill. There is no question, as I have said before, that they are under this bill, and there was no intention of going one whit further than doing that. Now, I am thoroughly of the opinion that no man knows whether this Workmen's Compensation Bill is going to be constitutional or not. I do not know, and I am sure the Senator from Dauphin does not know whether it is going to be constitutional or not, and the mine foremen are in exactly the same position as they have been since 1891, and in exactly the same position as they were after they submitted their minority code two years ago, and I again say, if you want the conditions governing the whole army of men of the greatest industries in this State, I say, sir, that the time to do it is not over night. The place to do it is by appointing a Commission and investigating conditions thoroughly. I am then willing to report a bill that the Member of the Senate can vote upon intelligently.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, I desire to further interrogate the Senator from Beaver, Mr. Thompson.

The CHAIRMAN. Will the Senator from Beaver, Mr. Thompson, permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, I will.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, I would ask the Senator from Beaver if he thinks any lawyer in Pennsylvania, unless he took himself into a corner and fooled himself, would say for a single moment that section 1 is constitutional?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, I will answer the question by asking another.

The CHAIRMAN. Will the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Beidleman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, I will.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, do the members of the Senate have a right to make a law that will be operative for one or two or ten years?

Mr BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, no.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, I will ask the Senator, where is your authority?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, no, I say Mr. Chairman, that this question has been interpreted time and time again where they have endeavored to read, particularly, into the Pure Food Laws, that the person who sells under the Pure Food Laws shall be subject to the rules and regulations that may be promulgated by the Department, which has the discharge of the provisions of the bill within its custody, and this puts the law in the position that a certain contingency must happen, of which this Senate has no information, before this bill could be read into effect, and what more do they say in the enactment and approval of that Workmen's Compensation Bill—the enactment and approval of a valid Workmen's Compensation Bill, meaning what? That you must go to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania and report its doors and ask whether or not any legislation that may be enacted by this session or any other session of the legislature is constitutional, and until that is done you do not know whether the compesation law is valid or not.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, I am surprised at the Senator from Dauphin. After this law passes the House, and is signed by the Governor, it is valid until the Supreme Court says otherwise.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, suppose the Supreme Court says it is invalid?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, then matters are in the same position.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. Chairman, and the miners are without protection?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. Chairman, I repeat, that it is not fair to hamper a great big industry like this over night in which the amendments have been prepared, and I submit if we want to do this particular thing, then, sir, the thing to do is to appoint a commission and bring in a report that this Senate can vote upon intelligently. In going over this bill last night there were present eight members of the committee who considered every phase of it carefully, and without a single dissenting vote, they submit this as amended, and by the exact language in this bill. I trust the Senate will not only sustain this bill, but sustain the action of the Committee.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Chairman, I have been listening to the legal controversy between the two gentlemen, and the concluding statement of the Senator from Beaver that this whole project should be submitted to a commission, I think is ridiculous and non-sensical, to say the experience of operators in the State of Pennsylvania so far as it relates to the anthracite coal region for a period of twenty-five or thirty years have gone along without being able to intelligently and scientifically say how their mines should be operated, is to say to us, who represent the people, that those men are not competent to be considered operators of that great industry. I have been in this Senate and observed commissions appointed and I think the result of the findings of many commissions which have been inflicted upon the miner and upon the State, a supervision such as drew forth from the Supreme Court that the men operating in that hazardous work were not entitled to compensation from the men who were making profits and the large earnings indicate to us that future commissions of the same kind would only result in tying up the conditions of the miners in a much more unsatisfactory condition. I think that every member of this Senate is interested in seeing and procuring and securing for every employe in this State whether he be a miner, a mechanic, or a laborer, and a just right to come under the provisions of the compensation law. It is as simple as A. B. C. that if the Attorney General, backed up by competent legal authority has prepared and submitted to these bodies a law which he in person almost guarantees as a constitutional act that we should quibble upon the right of six hundred thousand men in this Commonwealth to be provided for by proper compensation. There is a hazardous employment in the operation of the anthracite regions to-wit that those men are absolutely in danger of their lives almost every moment of their working hours, and so it is in other employments throughout this great Commonwealth, and to say to us who are the employers of large numbers of men that you shall compensate your employes and these barons who are making enormous profits through the absolute supply of this commodity to the public shall absolutely be precluded by some phraseology or legal technicality in this bill, I cannot believe that any member of this Senate when it is pointed out to him by such competent authority as is represented in the views of John G. Johnson and other noted attorneys in this State would for one moment deny the insertion of these amendments in this bill for the proper protection of the inhabitants of this State and for the protection of men who are about to bring to this Commonwealth through their employment and through the products of their employment a revenue that is going to be absolutely utilized to such an extent, and about the only resources we have that are going to give the farmer and the general public enough money to complete their road proposition in the State of Pennsylvania. I cannot believe that the quibbling of this kind is going to be permitted by the Senators of this body.

And the question recurring,

Will the Committee of the Whole agree to the amendment?

A division was called for,

Whereupon, 31 Senators having voted in the affirmative and 10 Senators having voted in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative, and the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. Chairman, I move that the Committee of the Whole do now rise.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr Chairman, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT, (Lieutenant-Governor, Frank B. McClain) in the Chair.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, as Chairman of the Committee of the whole, I report Senate Bill No 169, entitled:

An Act to amend section one of article eight section four of article thirteen and article eighteen of an act entitled

"An Act to provide for the health and safety of persons employed in and about the anthracite coal mines of Pennsylvania and for the protection and preservation of property connected therewith" approved the second day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one with amendments.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the report of the Committee of the Whole?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President. I move that the Senate do now resume the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 445 (House Bill No. 536), on third reading postponed for the present, entitled:

An Act concerning the relations between attorney and client on suit being brought in any court of this Commonwealth and providing that the attorney shall have a lien for his compensation for his services upon the client's cause of action claim or counter-claim which shall attach to any award order report decision compromise settlement verdict or judgment in the client's favor and the proceeds thereof in whosoever hands the same may be and which lien shall not be agected or defeated by any compromise or settlement between the parties before or after judgment

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 445 (House Bill No. 536), entitled:

An Act concerning the relations between attorney and client on suit being brought in any court of this Commonwealth and providing that the attorney shall have a lien for his compensation for his services upon the client's cause of action claim or counter-claim which shall attach to any award order report decision compromise settlement verdict or judgment in the client's favor and the proceeds thereof in whosoever hands the same may be and which lien shall not be affected or defeated by any compromise or settlement between the parties before or after judgment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 35, as follows:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to section eight article nine of the Constitution of Pennsylvania

Section 1 Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met That the following is proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof

Amend section eight article nine of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania which reads as follows

"Section 8 The debt of any county city borough township school district or other municipality or incorporated district except as herein provided shall never exceed seven per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein nor shall any such municipality or district incur any new debt or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two per centum upon such assessed valuation of property without the assent of the electors thereof at a public election in such manner as shall be provided by law but any city the debt of which now exceeds seven per centum of such assessed valuation may be authorized by law to increase the same three per centum in the aggregate at any one time upon such valuation except that any debt or debts hereinafter incurred by the city and county of Philadelphia for the construction and development of subways for transit purposes or for the construction of wharves and docks or the reclamation of land to be used in the construction of a system of wharves and docks as public improvements owned or to be owned by said city and county of Philadelphia and which shall yield to the city and county of Philadelphia current net revenues in excess of the interest on said debt or debts and of the annual installments necessary for the cancellation of said debt or debts may be excluded in ascertaining the power of the city and county of Philadelphia to become otherwise indebted Provided That a sinking-fund for their cancellation shall be established and maintained" so that it shall read as follows

Section 8 The debt of any county city borough township school district or other municipality or incorporated district except as herein provided shall never exceed seven per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein nor shall any such municipality or district incur any new debt or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two per centum upon such assessed valuation of property without the consent of the electors thereof at a public election in such manner as shall be provided by law but any city the debt of which on the first day of January one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four exceeded seven per centum of such assessed valuation and has not since been reduced to less than such per centum may be authorized by law to increase the same three per centum in the aggregate at any one time upon such valuation The city of Philadelphia upon the condition hereinafter set forth may increase its indebtedness to the extent of three per centum in excess of seven per centum upon such assessed valuation for the specific purpose of providing for all or any of the following purposes—to wit For the construction and improvement of subways tunnels railways elevated railways and other transit facilities for the construction and improvement of wharves and docks and for the reclamation of land to be used in the construction of wharves and docks owned or to be owned by said city Such increase however shall only be made with the assent of the electors thereof at a public election to be held in such manner as shall be provided by law In ascertaining the borrowing capacity of said city of Philadelphia at any time there shall be excluded from the calculation a credit where the work resulting from any previous expenditure for any one or more of the specific purposes hereinabove enumerated shall be yielding to said city an annual current net revenue the amount of which credit shall be ascertained by capitalizing the annual net revenue during the year immediately preceding the time of such ascertainment Such capitalization shall be accomplished by ascertaining the principal amount which would yield such annual current net revenue at the average rate of interest and sinking-fund charges payable upon the indebtedness incurred by said city for such purposes up to the time of such ascertainment. The method of determining such amount so to be excluded or allowed as a credit may be prescribed by the General Assembly

In incurring indebtedness for any one or more of said purposes of construction improvement or reclamation the city of Philadelphia may issue its obligations maturing not later than fifty years from the date thereof with provision for a sinking-fund sufficient to retire said obligation at maturity the payments to such sinking-fund to be in equal or graded annual instalments Such obligations may be in an amount sufficient to provide for and may include the amount of the interest and sinking-fund charges accruing and which may accrue thereon throughout the period of construction and until the expiration of one year after the completion of the work for which said indebtedness shall have been incurred and said city shall not be required to levy a tax to pay said interest and sinking-fund charges as required by section ten of article nine of the Constitution of Pennsylvania until the expiration of said period of one year after the completion of such work

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

The SPEAKER (Charles A. Ambler) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Rev. L. R. Jones, of West Newton, Pennsylvania, offered the following prayer:

Our Father in Heaven, we thank Thee for this, another day. Thou art always giving us new days, new opportunities to retrieve that which we may have lost in the days that are gone, and we are here as Thy children, under Thy direction, to perform the duties and the tasks that come to us this day. We realize our own weakness; we are dependent upon Thee for every good and perfect gift; we move, live and have our being in Thee, and in all that we do and say we want Thy smile of approbation to rest upon us. Let Thy blessing rest upon the members of this House, give them clearness of vision, and ability of thought to rightly discriminate between the conflicting opinions concerning great matters that come before them; and let Thy blessing be upon the Speaker; sustain and bless him. We pray Thee to remember all the members in the House, bless their families, and preserve their health during their absence. Let Thy blessing be with the employes of the House; strenghten and keep them, and give them health of body and strength of mind to perform the duties assigned them while they are here. And we pray Thy blessing to be with the Governor and his councellors. Help them and strenghten them that they may rightly perform their duties. Remember this great Nation of ours. We thank Thee that in the midst of wars across the sea, the dove of peace still spreads her wings above us. May it so continue. Guide us then in the duties of this day in the name of Jesus Christ our Master. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when, on motion of Mr. Baker, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 247, as follows:

An Act amending an act entitled "An Act amending an act entitled 'An Act respecting the estates of non-resident wards' approved the twenty-first day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six extending the provisions thereof so that the same may apply to trustees and cestui que trusts" approved the thirteenth day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine further extending the provisions thereof so that the same may apply where guardians and wards trustees and cestui que trusts are residents of foreign countries

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That so much of the act recited which as heretofore amended reads as follows

"Section 1 That in all cases where any guardian and his ward cestui que trust and his trustee may both be non-residents of this State and such wards or cestui que trust may be entitled to property of any description in this State such guardian and trustee on producing satisfactory proof to the orphans' court of the proper county by certificates according to the acts of Congress in such cases that he has given bond and security in the State in which he and his ward or cestui que trust reside in double the amount of the value of the property as guardian or trustee and it is found that a removal of the property will not conflict with the terms or limitations attending the right by which the ward or cestui que trust owns the same then any such guardian or trustee may demand or sue for and remove any such property to the place of residence of himself and ward or cestui que trust"

"Section 2 That when such non-resident guardian or trustee shall produce an exemplification from under the seal of the office if there be a seal of the proper court in the State of his residence containing all the entries on record in relation to his appointment and giving bond and authenticated as required by the act of Congress as aforesaid the orphans' court of the proper county in this State may cause suitable orders to be made discharging any resident guardian executor administrator or trustee and authorizing the delivering and passing over of such property and also requiring receipts to be passed and recorded if deemed advisable Provided The benefits of this act shall not extend to the citizens of any State in which a similar act does not exist or may not hereafter be passed And provided also That in all cases thirty days' notice shall be given to the resident guardian executor administrator or trustee of the intended application for the order of removal and the court may reject the application and refuse such order whenever it is satisfied that it is for the interest of the ward or cestui que trust that such removal shall not take place" is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 1 That in all cases where any guardian and his ward cestui que trust and his trustee may both be non-residents of this State and such ward or cestui que trust be entitled to property of any description in this State such guardian or trustee on producing satisfactory proof to the orphans' court of the proper county by certificates that he has given bond and security with special reference to the property to be removed in the State or country in which he and his ward or cestui que trust reside in double the amount of the value of the property as guardian or trustee and it is found that a removal of the property will not conflict with the terms of limitations attending the right by which the ward or cestui que trust owns the same then any such guardian or trustee may demand or sue for and remove any such property to the place of residence of himself and ward or cestui que trust Provided that if such guardian or trustee and his ward or cestui que trust reside in another state territory or possession of the United States of America such certificates shall be authenticated as required by the Acts of Congress and if they reside in a foreign country shall be made by the court having jurisdiction of such guardian or trustee and authenticated by and under the official seal of a diplomatic or consular officer appointed by the United States of America and residing in such country.

Section 2 That when such non-resident guardian or trustee shall produce an exemplification from under the seal of the office if there be a seal of the proper court in the State, or country of his residence containing all the entries on record in relation to his appointment and giving bond and authenticated as required by the Act of Congress or by a diplomatic or consular officer appointed by the United States of America as aforesaid the orphans' court of the proper county in this State may cause suitable orders to be made discharging any resident guardian executor administrator or trustee and authorizing the delivering and passing over of such property and also requiring receipts to be passed and recorded if deemed advisable Provided That if it shall appear by such certificate that under the laws of such foreign country such guardian or trustee is not required to enter security but that the interests of his ward or cestui que trust are safeguarded by a deposit of the property in the court having proper jurisdiction then it shall be lawful for the orphans' court of the proper county in this State to cause suitable orders to be made authorizing the delivery and passing over of such property to such court without entering security And Provided also The benefits of this act shall not extend to the citizens of any state or country in which a similar act or rule of law does not exist or may not hereafter be passed or established And provided further That in all cases thirty days' notice shall be given to the resident guardian executor administrator or trustee if such there be of the intended application for the order of removal and the court may reject the application and refuse such order whenever it is satisfied that it is for the interest of the ward or cestui que trust that such removal shall not take place and that the claims of creditors in this Commonwealth are not fully protected

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 954, as follows:

An Act to authorize the regulation of the location size and use of buildings in cities of the first class

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That for the purpose of promoting the public health safety order and general welfare cities of the first class may regulate the location size and use of buildings therein and may make different regulations for different districts thereof the park commission of any city of the first class may make such regulations as to the location size and use of buildings and portion of which shall come within two hundred feet of any park parkway playground or other public place under its care or management and upon their approval by the councils of such city said regulations shall have the same effect as if originally made by said councils

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, it might not be amiss to say a few words concerning this bill before a vote is taken. This bill has been amended so that it only affects cities of the first class. It gives councils and the Park Commission in the cities of the first class the right to regulate buildings that abut upon or are within two hundred feet of any public buildings, recreation park or any boulevard. It is in line with the city planning idea and I hope that the House will vote for it.

On the question recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 890, entitled:

An Act making a fixed charge for county purposes on land purchased by the State for State forests and providing for the distribution of the same to the counties wherein State forests are located

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ALBEE. Mr. Speaker, this bill calls for a tax of one cent per acre on the State land taken over by the State for forest preserves. In taking over these lands the State does not pay any taxes for county purposes and it deprives the counties of the assessment against these lands when they are owned by private individuals. All that we ask is to be partially reimbursed in the twenty-six counties where these lands are located, so we may receive a partial return of the taxes we lose when the State takes over the land.

On the question recurring.
